ALEXANDRIA, AUGUST 5, 1922.

The decision on Saturday of the Imperial Privy Council in the Manitoba school case is important and a victory for the Government. The judgments of the Supreme Court in the case of Barrett vs. the City of Winnipeg and of the Manitoba Bill of Rights of Appeals in the case of Logan vs. the City of Winnipeg are reversed, and the validity of the Manitoba Public School Act is established. The decision will not be taken quickly by many in that province and in the next session of the Dominion Parliament in all probability remedial legislation will be asked for. When that time comes will the Government interfere?

During the steady march of the cholera plague is flashed over the cables, and while there may be no immediate cause for alarm, it may be as well that we should be prepared to meet the dreaded foe. After considerable delay the Government has decided to make all the requisite alterations in the Cruise Lido station. A deep water pier will be built and all the necessary houses put in order. To do this will mean the outlay of considerable money, but to the cost what it may, we have little doubt it will be borne cheerfully on the principle that an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

It does seem amusing to see the Conservative press of the country endeavoring to saddle on the Reformers the blame of the United States retaliation trouble. Such trash won't go down with the public generally, for people know quite well that it was the Tory Government who inaugurated the system of granting rebates of toll upon grain through the canals to Montreal, and who refused to grant rebates upon cargoes transhipped at Ogdensburg. Those to bear the blame are the men of the Thompson, Haggart, Foster strike, who, to vent their spleen upon our neighbors, have been constantly aggravating the feelings of the Americans by petty acts that their opponents would not stoop to. Had the Reformers the controlling power at Ottawa, there would have been no call for retaliation or no likelihood of our lake trade in the very near future being completely crippled.

During a discussion a short time ago, Hon. John Sherman remarked that the McKinley bill had proved great benefit to the farmers residing on the border of the States, by forcing the Canadians to pay duty upon everything they exported. "The Canadians," said Mr. Sherman, "can produce wheat, barley, oats, eggs, and various other articles on their cheap lands at less cost than the farmers of the United States can. They have to seek our market, and I do not think it any hardship on them to have tariff duties imposed upon their products." Mr. Sherman's very words prove conclusively that our farmers, fishermen, lumbermen, if given a favorable chance and equal terms, can compete favorably with the Americans. To-day they are compelled to compete on equal footing in the markets of Britain. Give them free access to the American market when the prices for their products range higher, and the benefit that will accrue will soon be plainly visible.

KEEP ACCOUNTS WITH THE N.P.

We read that Robinson Crusoe, on his desolate island, kept a regular account with providence, setting on one side of his ledger all the blessings he enjoyed, and on the other all the disadvantages he labored under. On casting up his accounts he found that the blessings greatly preponderated, so he ceased his repinings, and for the future resolved to lead a more religious life and give daily thanks for all things.
If our farmers, in their dealings with the National Policy, would only follow the example of Daniel Defoe's hero and keep a strict account of the gains and losses accruing to them through the famous measure, they would soon arrive at some practical resolution. We will try to give them a sample page for such a book of accounts.

First, what the N. P. does for him.
It increases the price of everything he uses from the swaddling clothes in which the infant is wrapped and the cradle in which he is laid to the shroud and the coffin in which he is carried away to his final resting place.
As a schoolboy or student it stands in the way of his education by laying a heavy tax upon the necessary books.
As a young man, his exactions of 30 to 50 per cent. prevent him from obtaining such clothes and personal ornaments as he would desire to recommend him to the girl of his choice. The buggy in which he drives her out is taxed from 15 to 25 per cent., and it even lays its mean hands on the candies that are enjoyed during the ride.
As a householder, his tax of 35 per cent. upon builder's hardware, increases the cost of his dwelling. His furniture is loaded with another 35 per cent. His kitchen utensils, his table cutlery, his linen, his pictures, ornaments, in fact there is nothing so small or insignificant as to escape its notice.
The coal oil with which he lights up his house on the long winter nights is doubled in price by the N. P., and even the light of the sun is taxed by means of an imposition upon window glass.

For his work, his ploughs, harrows, harvesters, seeders, chains, axes, forks, spades, hammers, binding twine, wire fencing, and everything he uses, costs from 20 to 50 per cent. more on account of the N. P.
He cannot even escape on Sunday. His Bible, prayer book and hymn book are all taxed, and if his age calls for the use of a satchel, there is 25 per cent. more.
The above are but a few of the things that

STANLEY ISLAND.

As this little island has always been a favorite resort for Gleanerians, but of Alexander in particular, perhaps a few items weekly as to the doings of the residents and visitors at the Laidlaw Home may prove of interest to your readers, for that reason I have decided to send you an occasional budget. For the past ten days the hotel and cottages have been gradually filling up, and the climax was reached on Saturday, when it was found necessary to sling a couple of hammocks to accommodate the late arrivals. There is much of a similarity about the way we all spend our day: breakfast at 8, a row or a paddle on the river, then a dip in the river. The afternoon is pretty much devoted to boating around under the trees with a pleasant companion if we can succeed in capturing one or the next best thing, an interesting novel. At the staunch little Ivy is one from Cornwall and she is always welcome, for besides having on board the husband or brother of many of the lady residents, there are occasionally found two or three of the young men, of who the bank clerk persuasion, who add much to the enjoyment of the hop which is held in the boat house each evening. Our little hop is always looked forward to, not only by the older people, but also by the little tots who thoroughly enjoy the "fancy marches," "eight-hand reels," etc., etc., to the music of Professor Sheets, of Cornwall. There are several entertainments on the tipin. Among the number I may mention the regatta on Saturday next, a gem, and a concert. Though there are daily arrivals there are also many departures, so I feel safe in recommending your people to come to the island, where they can combine rest with pleasure and return home much benefited by the change.

Yours, AUNT CLOR.

STANLEY ISLAND BOATING CLUB.

The residents of Stanley Island have made a move in the right direction. On Friday last they had a meeting and formed "The Stanley Island Boating and Canoeing Club," with the following officers: Hon. president, D. B. McLennan, Q.C.; commodore, W. H. Cottingham; rear commodore, C. J. Mattice; sec. treas., C. H. Gills. Committee—D. B. McLennan, Q.C., C. W. H. Cottingham, C. J. Mattice, G. L. Gills, John James Brown, J. W. Liddle, W. Stephenson, Ed. Dunsmuir and L. A. Ross; starter, D. Robertson; timekeeper, L. A. Ross; judges, D. B. McLennan, Q.C., and S. C. Stephenson.
It has been decided to hold the annual races on Saturday, the 15th inst. A programme of 12 events is to take place, consisting of steam and sailing jack races, sailing and paddling canoe races, rowing races, etc., etc. It is the intention of the club to make their regatta an annual affair.

THE OTTAWA EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

The first excursion from Gleanery, over the Grand Atlantic to the Ottawa Experimental Farm, was run on Tuesday, and was not patronized as it should have been, considering the reasonable rates offered; but allowances must be made for the unfavorable weather and for the fact that a large number of farmers are still in the midst of their haying. However, when the train had steamed out of Maxville it was found that there were in the neighborhood of 60 on board. On arrival at Ottawa the party took the electric cars bound for the Royal Exchange Hotel, which is run in an admirable manner by Mr. Donald McMaster, formerly proprietor of the Commercial of this place. After a somewhat hurried dinner a move was made for the C.P.R. station, where a special train was in readiness to carry the excursionists to the Farm. Our destination was reached about 2.15 and only an hour was given to view the many attractions. Professor Robertson in a few appropriate words welcomed the Gleanerians, and expressed regret that the time was so limited. He, as well as Professor Craig, and the rest of the staff, were most courteous, explaining the uses which each building was put to, the many breeds of cattle, horses, poultry, the various kinds of grain, grasses, fruits, hedges, etc. The first building visited was the cattle stable. Here could be found the celebrated Jerseys, Ayrshires, Holsteins, and many other breeds all in the best of condition. Also a herd of 30 head of which were being raised from the produce of 40 acres as an experiment. After admiring the cattle the party walked through the horse stables and implement room into the hog department. The building allotted for dairying purposes was next visited, and a lunch in the form of crackers and cheese, (the latter a year and a half old, and all the better for that) was served. Professor

ROBERTSON EXPLAINED THE USE OF THE SUPERIOR AND OF THE BANCROFT TESTER.

Both must be used in the better auditing. From there the party were conducted to the poultry building, and a very fine variety was seen which included wild geese. In conversation with Professor Robertson we learned that they had sown some 140 varieties of seeds exclusive of corn; of the latter they had some 35 acres under cultivation. An experiment is about to be made by mixing sun flower plants with the maize, as it is considered the former contains the necessary attributes for fattening cattle, and for that purpose three acres of the plant is being cultivated. Ten acres is devoted to the orchard, which is under the immediate control of Professor Craig. Here can be found 350 varieties of apples, 80 of pears, 40 of plums, 35 of cherries, etc. etc. The farm is composed of a block of 420 acres, and is all under cultivation. Should there be another excursion we would strongly advise the farmers generally to take advantage of it and pay a visit to this instructive institution, where they will find a staff of courteous and painstaking gentlemen ever ready to explain the many interesting points connected with the Ottawa Experimental Farm.
