WAR NEWS.

British loss on Monduy was not as heavy as at first reported. A careful calculation of the British losses in all the engagemente since, the outbreak of hostilities—excluding the casualities among the non-commissioned ufficers and men in Monday's reverse at Ladgemith, which are thus far nnknown here—gives a total of 916, to which probably 1,200 will need to be added when details regarding the Ladgemith reverse are received. This total is made up as follows :— Officers, 138, being 19 killed, 61 wounded and 53 captured. Men—783, being 137 killed, 492 wounded and 134 captured. one, not only of the militie, but of Canada, and of the Empire. (Cheers.) The people of Canada have at lest fully realized the debt they owe the Empire. Canada has thrown off its swaddling clothes, and has become a full grown member of the grand Empire. We are making history to-day, and Canada is not alone in this step. The Empire is no louger a power with depend.

The same sentiments were expressed by Major General Hatton, who in roplying to the same toast said in part :--

"As commander of Canada's militia I feel my greet responsibility in this mat-ter. I advised the Minister of Militia, and received his hearty co-operation, as well as that of all the officiels of the department. The officers who are going were chosen irrespective of politics, race or religion, but ian first and last, he knows very well that simply for their professional worth, and I mnat congratulate Canada, the Government, the people and myself that Colonel I have written Ganeral Sir Redvers

As has been published, a temporary arrangement has been agreed upon, and, in so far as it will prevent local friction, it is satisfactory. The modus vivendi does not, however, foreshadow what the permanent solution of the dispute will be. It was absolutely necessary for us to come to some understanding, for we had the miners there, and the situation was becoming intolerable. The Joint High Commission will arrange the conditions on which the question can be settled, Canada wants only what arhitration can give us. We are not grasping or seeking concessions.
