Province Extends Agricultural Work

Agricultural instruction has taken such a strong grip on the people of Ontario that the Provincial Government has determined to extend materially the operations of the combined agricultural and educational county offices which have been located in various parts of the Province. Sir James Whitney made the announcement at the conclusion of yesterday's sitting of the Cabinet, when it was decided to create eight new districts and extend the operations in three of those already in existence.

During the three years since the first installation of the district representative there has been a marked interest in the work, and the Government departments concerned have been in receipt of many requests for its extension. Under the existing arrangements the Department of Education pays the salary of the district representative, while the Department of Agriculture meets all expenses, thus emphasizing the dual jurisdiction. It is probable, however, that the latter department may undertake on its own account to send three representatives into the new northern Ontario district to do the initial work there. With the new list of districts announced yesterday the total number now operating in the Province will be thirty. In cases of joint countries, such as Northumberland and Durham, the local representative has two assistants to enable him to grapple with the expanding work.

A reorganization of the old districts resulted in the following three new representatives being appointed: Mr. W. W. Emerson at Perth for Lanark county; Mr. D. E. McRae at Alexandria for Glengarry county, and Mr. E. Bradt at Morrisburg for Dundas county. The organization of the following eight new district offices and the representatives appointed to take charge were also announced:—Mr. R. Schuyler at Parry for Brant county; Mr. E. Austin at Welland for Welland county; Mr. C. H. Buchanan at Chatham for Kent county; Mr. I. B. Whale at London for Middlesex county; Mr. J. G. Paggot at Sydneyham for Frontenac county; Mr. W. H. Smith at Athens for Leeds and Grenville; Mr. N. C. McKay at Walkerton for Bruce county, and Mr. G. B. Curran at Napanee for Lennox and Addington. All of these representatives are graduates of the College of Agriculture.

The Dominions and Imperial Defence

London, June 9.—Viscount Halifax, speaking at the banquet following the review on Saturday by the King of the London division of the National Reserves, said: "The dominions were organizing for war on the same lines as those adopted here. Our forces have been so disposed as to protect the overseas dominions, but the time must come very soon when the dominions would have to organize their own naval and military defenses. That meant we should become by far the most powerful military and naval nation combined the world had ever seen." Viscount Halifax specially referred to the visit of the Canadian cadets, and said that in organization the cadet forces in Britain had something to learn from the daughter States.

Great London Parade With Dublin Prize Horses

A street parade, which will be a veritable horse fair, is promised by the Great London Shows, which exhibit at Alexandria, Thursday, June 20.

The pageant will leave the grounds promptly at 10 o'clock day of the show and follow a line of march to be announced later. First will come the World Famous Dublin Grays, the $25,000 prize winners.

The band wagons, floats, and other paraphernalia will be drawn by 400 well groomed, well matched dapple gray horses. The stock is all in the pink of condition. The racers are of undisputed lineage, the steeds attached to the Roman chariots are particularly beautiful, the Kentucky high school horses are the greatest equines on earth, and half a hundred Shetland ponies will delight the children.

When the show comes to this town the work of unloading will be well under way with the rising of the sun and there is little chance of the street display being late in leaving the grounds. Already choice locations for witnessing this display are in demand, and the chances are that the streets, along which the parade will go, will be lined with admiring thousands, cheering the bandstand parade ever seen with a circus, and the Great Dublin $25,000 Prize Team will be an unusual feature to view.

Liberals Out To Win In Ontario

The Liberal members of the Legislature met in consultation in Toronto yesterday at the invitation of Mr. Rowell to consider arrangements for a series of political gatherings to be held before the next session of the House at which the Liberal policy as laid down in the Legislature will be presented to the electors.

The members were unanimous in expressing the belief that the party's stand on the temperance question especially was making friends all over the Province. Not merely had their fighting spirit, but it had begun to bring over Conservatives who refused to line up behind the bar or regard seriously the anti-treating subterfuge.

TO CIRCULATE SIR JAMES' SPEECH.

It was decided to publish at once in pamphlet form and circulate widely Mr. Rowell's speech in support of the banish-the-bar resolution, Sir James Whitney's reply thereto, and Mr. Rowell's rejoinder to Sir James. It is believed that this will be the first publication in extenso throughout Ontario of a party leader's speech by his political opponent. It is felt that Sir James' speech will make votes for the Liberal policy.

The first meetings of the educational campaign will be held at London on Dominion Day and at Belleville on July 10th. Both meetings will be out of doors demonstrations and arrangements for them are now in progress. These points have been elected because in the constituencies in question no Liberal candidate was put up at last election. There will be no acclamations in Ontario in the next election.

RIDING ORGANIZATION.

The meetings will be continued during the fall, and simultaneously the Liberal members will take hold of the constituencies throughout the Province, each member taking several ridings and in conjunction with the local organizations make thorough arrangements for the revision of voters' lists by polling subdivision committees.

In the evening the visiting members and a number of other gentlemen were the guests of Mr. Rowell at dinner at the National Club. There was a note of confidence about the remarks of the speakers that was most encouraging to the leader whose personality is already so great an asset of Liberalism in Ontario.

Thirteen Months In The Year

Ottawa, June 10.—The Royal Society of Canada wants the calendar revised. The delegation waited upon Premier Borden last week and urged that he exercise his authority in Canada and exert his influence with the British Government to have the number of months in the year increased from twelve to thirteen, and that each month shall consist of twenty-eight days. This, it is urged, would make them all the same, and would also result in each day of the week coming every year on the same day of the month.

Premier Borden promised the learned delegation that their request would receive the serious attention of his Government. The deputation consisted of Sir Sandford Fleming, James Grant, Mr. Benjamin Suite, Mr. R. O. Boucher and Mr. W. D. Lesueur.

The Union Jack The Official Flag

The decision of the Colonial Secretary that the Union Jack is the only flag entitled to be hoisted in Canada as the official flag will cause the repudiation of a lot of money in the purchase of Union Jacks by those whose flag equipment consists of chiefly the red ensign with the Dominion arms in the corner.

While no official order will issue as to the use of the Jack, it is taken for granted that the various Governments, Federal, Provincial, and municipal, will obey the order and provide themselves with Jacks forthwith for use on all ceremonial occasions.

It will be interesting to note what will become of all the red ensigns, hundreds of thousands of which are scattered all over the country. They cannot be used on ships because there are not enough ships to go around. They cannot be used on public buildings without disregarding the express wishes of the British Government, but they can still be used for decoration purposes.

Naturally Mr. Rowell's temperance policy receives the endorsement of the Methodist conference. It is the most "advanced" temperance policy in sight.

With the 59th Regiment

The 59th Stormont and Glengarry Regiment, under the command of Lieut.-Col. A. G. F. Macdonald, arrived in Kingston at 4.30 p.m., on Monday, the 10th inst., and within fifteen minutes was on the march for Barrfield camp. The weather was ideal and the regiment, 294 strong, in the best of spirits. On the march in we were met by the Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, who made a brief address to the men and complimented the Colonel on the strength of his regiment, which is the strongest in camp, and on the fine physique of the men. He said he was proud of the 59th. The regiment responded with three hearty cheers and a tiger.

The pipe-band is composed of eleven pipers and five drummers. It is without a doubt the leading attraction of the camp and would delight the heart of any Scotchman. Our latest acquisition is Master Donald Chisholm, the mascot of the regiment, a young Glengarryman only 14 years of age, who joined us at Lancaster. He can take his place in the pipe-band, is already a universal favorite, and has been highly complimented on all sides, even the Minister of Militia having added his word of praise.

The quartermaster, Mr. John A. Chisholm, Mayor of Cornwall, had everything in ship shape on our arrival, and is proving himself a most efficient officer. He is doing his utmost for the comfort of the men and the regiment to a man appreciate his efforts.

The signalling squad under Lieut. M. I. Shepherd, has already won great favor with the headquarters staff, being the only qualified squad in camp. Lieut. Shepherd has every reason to be proud of them.

"C" Company from Alexandria, under Capt. J. A. Gillies, is the strongest in the regiment mustering over 53 men of good physique and will certainly give a good account of itself.

The men are making rapid progress surpassing all expectations in this regard. The rivalry between the companies is very keen, all striving to win the handsome cup. "C" Company which won it last year, is confident of retaining it, but the other companies have no intention of giving it up. The contest is sure to be an interesting one.

Mr. J. A. McMillan, M.P. for Glengarry, Mr. Hugh Macrae, M.L.A., and the ex-colonel of the regiment, have been invited to spend Sunday the guests of the 59th. They are sure of a Highland welcome.

Presbytery of Glengarry

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Glengarry was held in MacLaren Hall, Alexandria, on Tuesday, for the purpose of dealing with a call from Richmond, Que., in favor of the Rev. Wm. MacMillan, Dalhousie Mills. The congregation, Session and Board of Managers of the Dalhousie Mills congregation were all represented and spoke of the kindly feeling existing between pastor and people pleading that the pastor see his way to continue for some time yet. The members present from the congregation were D. M. McLeod and K. J. McCuaig in behalf of the Session, Dan Hope and R. N. McLeod for the Board of Managers, and W. J. McGregor and D. J. McCuaig for the congregation. Mr. J. MacMillan in stating his case spoke of the kindness he received from the good people of Dalhousie Mills during his pastorate but felt it his duty to accept the call to a broader field of service. Mr. MacMillan preaches his last sermon, Sabbath, June 9th, and leaves on Tuesday, June 11th, for his new field of service.

Freemasons Give Parting Supper

Messrs. N. D. MacKenzie, district representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture; D. F. McRae, accountant of the Bank of Ottawa; J. McLeod, cashier of the Munro & McIntosh Carriage Factory; Harry Miller, lately connected with the factory, and Rev. Wm. MacMillan of Dalhousie Mills, members of Alexandria Lodge No. 439, A.F. & A.M., were entertained by the officers and members of the Lodge at a supper held at the Grand Union, on Thursday evening of last week. Owing to the very brief intimation of the departure of these gentlemen from town, it was impossible to notify every member of the Lodge and the supper was therefore to some extent an impromptu one but none the less enjoyable. E. H. Tiffany, K.C., presided. After the wants of the inner man had received due attention, some hours were spent in social and fraternal intercourse. Expressions of regard and esteem for the departing brethren and of the best wishes for their future prospects and happiness occupied a prominent place in the proceedings of the evening. Professor Gilbert added much to the pleasure of the occasion with his vocal and instrumental selections on the violoncello.

The supper was served by Miss Host Delage in his usual excellent style. We understand that Mr. MacKenzie, having during the last two years imparted valuable instruction to the farmers and fruit growers of our county, has decided to return to his fine farm adjoining the town of Galt. Messrs. McRae, McLeod and Miller purpose leaving for the Western Provinces and the Rev. Mr. MacMillan has accepted a call to Richmond, Que. While the citizens of Alexandria regret the departure from town of Messrs. MacKenzie, McRae, McLeod and Miller, they recognize the lure of the West, and the inexhaustible resources and boundless opportunities for wealth and progress which Western Canada presents to young, enterprising and capable men. That our departing fellow-citizens come within the above category goes without saying, and each and all of them may rest assured that to their new sphere of action they carry the best and most cordial wishes of the residents of Alexandria that their anticipations of success may be realized to the utmost.

With reference to the need for union and the desirability of union there has been no difference of opinion. He had never objected to union; it was only the special kind of union proposed in this case to which he had objected.

The motion to receive the report was then unanimously passed and it was subsequently adopted as a whole. Dr. Clark proposed that there should be added to the union committee twenty men to confer with the committee in private meetings and to meet the committee of the negotiating churches when drafted for this service.

The idea was that these men might be available as substitutes when regular members of the committee were ill and absent, and this committee may be kept at full strength at every session when the theme may be discussed.

Rev. Dr. Scott then moved that telegrams of congratulation at the approach of the union should be sent to the Methodist and Congregational churches after which the assembly resumed its regular business.

Government Cuts Duty on Cement

As a result of repeated complaints from the west as to a shortage of cement, the Cabinet on Saturday decided, upon the recommendation of Finance, to suspend the collection of half the customs duty upon cement for a period from June 12 to October 31, inclusive.

In making the announcement, Hon. Hon. W. T. White, the Minister of Mr. White said—

"From information I have obtained I am convinced that a serious shortage in cement exists in various sections of the Dominion, due both to an unprecedented demand for the commodity and to the difficulty experienced by Eastern producers in promptly making shipments by rail and water. Urgent messages have been received from municipal authorities, boards of trade and contracting firms in the West, stating that heavy financial loss and public inconvenience are threatened by reason of the suspension of building and street paving operations, and requesting that partial or total remission of customs duty upon cement should be granted during the remainder of the season.

"Under all the circumstances and having given the matter the full consideration which its importance deserves, I am of the opinion that it is only fair and just that the permission asked for should be allowed to the extent of one-half the duty paid upon cement and its coverings during the period from June 12th to October 31st next. Such a remission is equivalent to about twenty-six cents per barrel (of three hundred and fifty pounds) under the general, twenty-three cents under the intermediate and seventeen cents under the preferential.

Manufacturers of cement in the East have large shipments now in transit and will, no doubt, in conjunction with the railways and steamship companies, use every effort to overtake their orders. From all sources of supply I hope that the cement situation will be relieved in the near future."

The extent to which the home market has been kept for the Canadian combination by the customs duty of fifty cents per barrel is illustrated by the fact that although the consumption of cement in Canada last year amounted to 6,300,000 barrels, only 662,000 barrels were produced in Canada.

The need for some action was emphasized upon the ministry by statements from all parts of the west that building was at a standstill owing to the scarcity of cement. The manager of the Canada Cement Company insists that the trouble is due to lack of transportation facilities and not to any shortage in production in Canada.

Declare in Favor of Church Union

Edmonton, Alta., June 11.—The Presbyterian Church of Canada is now irrevocably committed to church union with the Methodists and Congregationalists. Negotiations have been going on for eight years, and the solemn ceremony of yesterday afternoon at the General Assembly will not be easy, if at all possible, to escape from.

In it the chief leaders of the union cause and the chief opponents of the proposal, with the assembled delegates, entered into covenant to test the plan by actual experiment and to follow faithfully wherever they might be led by the great head of the church.

COMMITTEE REPORT.
The subject was brought to the assembly in the form of a report of the large committee which was appointed on Thursday morning of last week. Dr. W. J. Clarke, minister of St. Andrew's Church, Montreal, presented the report of the committee. There were, he said, three things which the members of the Presbyterian church were anxious about.

In the first place, they were anxious that there should be no rupture in the church. There had been a serious difference of opinion on the question of union. The issue was one of great moment, and men differed honestly. It appeared that there might be an open rupture, and this they were most anxious to avoid.

In the second place they were anxious that the negotiating churches should not for a moment rest under the misapprehension that they were not dealing fairly with them. The effort was being honestly made to get the three churches together for a great redemptive work and it was essential that there should be at all times the most perfect understanding between the bodies. Everything had been open and manifest and there was no doubt of the position of the church with reference to the subject.

In the third place they were anxious to formulate a plan which would serve to bridge the chasm between the old state and the new, between the past and the future.

OPONENTS WON OVER.
Principal Mackay, who has been the chief opponent of union in previous assemblies, seconded by the adoption of the report.

With reference to the need for union and the desirability of union there has been no difference of opinion. He had never objected to union; it was only the special kind of union proposed in this case to which he had objected.

The motion to receive the report was then unanimously passed and it was subsequently adopted as a whole. Dr. Clark proposed that there should be added to the union committee twenty men to confer with the committee in private meetings and to meet the committee of the negotiating churches when drafted for this service.

The idea was that these men might be available as substitutes when regular members of the committee were ill and absent, and this committee may be kept at full strength at every session when the theme may be discussed.

Rev. Dr. Scott then moved that telegrams of congratulation at the approach of the union should be sent to the Methodist and Congregational churches after which the assembly resumed its regular business.

Corner Stone Laid at Greenfield

A comparatively large congregation witnessed the blessing and laying of the new St. Catherine's Church, Greenfield, of which Rev. R. A. Macdonald is the pastor, on Wednesday morning of this week, despite the inclement weather. The ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock by The Right Rev. W. A. Macdonell, D.D., Bishop of Alexandria, and the following clergymen were present: Rev. Wm. Fox, Rev. A. L. McDonald, Alexandria; Rev. D. R. McDonald, Glen Nevis; Rev. D. A. Campbell, St. Raphael's; Rev. Duncan Macdonald, Glen Robertson; Rev. C. D. McRae, Moose Creek; Rev. A. J. McMillan, Rev. J. J. Macdonell, Cornwall, and Rev. D. J. McDougald, C. S.S.R., Montreal.

Shortly after 12 o'clock, His Lordship the Bishop and the visiting clergy were entertained at luncheon by the ladies of the parish, and the menu prepared speaks volumes for the taste and efforts put forth by them.

Circus parade at 10 o'clock on Thursday. Watch for it.

There is only one effective way of relieving the conditions brought about by the shortage in the cement supply. That way is to put cement on the free list. When this can be done by the stroke of a pen, it is grossly unfair to allow the continuance of such conditions as exist in Edmonton, where building operations are suspended, 500 workers are out of employment, and the contractors are losing thousands of dollars a day, because there is no cement to be had.

Premier Borden on Canadian Ideals

The aim and purpose of the Canadian nation and the achievements and ideals of the people of the Dominion form the theme of the following message contributed by the Rt. Hon. R.L. Borden to the Empire Day edition of the London Times—

"Half a century ago Canada was merely a name and not a nation. Ontario and Quebec, unwilling to remain united but afraid to separate were held together by an inkname bond. These scattered maritime provinces maintained frontier customs houses against each other and against the Upper Provinces. The total population of the country was little more than 3,000,000, and all the provinces were separated from one another by absence of communication, by mutual misunderstanding, and by lack of co-operation and sympathy.

"During the fifty years which have since intervened the history of this people is unique in the history of national development. They undertook the project of uniting the four provinces in one confederation, and at the very outset their purpose embraced all that Canada has since accomplished. The experiment of a Federal Government upon new and untried lines was attempted and carried out with astonishing success. The allotted task included the colonization and development of all that vast and then unknown Western territory, which is now embraced within the limits of the three Prairie Provinces. This was undertaken and accomplished in the face of natural obstacles of tremendous significance and magnitude. In short, it may fairly be asserted that the most wonderful thing about Canada is its existence to-day as a nation in defiance of the difficulties which threatened over and over again the undertaking begun on the first day of July, 1867.

"It would be idle to enumerate all that had to be met and all that has been successfully surmounted. Nearly every great problem solved by the people of the United States has been encountered by the Canadian nation in an even more intense form and has been successfully overcome. The material development has been phenomenal, but infinitely more significant and important is the fact that to-day the national spirit of Canada is as pronounced and as powerful as that which prevails among the people of the American Union.

"Thus far I have spoken of what Canada had done for herself. In doing that, however, has she not done great things for the Empire as a whole? For all her history from the day of her birth to the present is but a continued expression of the determination of the Canadian people to maintain the Imperial connection by every means within their power. "By assumption of the defence of our own territory; by the disposition to develop a system of sea defence warranted by the settled opinion of the country, such as will give the maximum of service in the defence of Canada and in assuring the greater security of the Empire by subsidies to steamship lines between Canada and the Mother Country, as well as the West Indies and the Australasian communities; by contribution to the Pacific cable and by proposals still to be consummated for cheaper cable communication with the Mother Country; by the co-ordination of the military forces in Canada with those of the Empire; by initiating a system of trade preferences within the Empire—by these means and in a hundred other ways Canada has undertaken to assume her share in the governance of the Empire and in the development of its organization.

BRITISH MEN AND BRITISH MONEY.

"We welcome British immigration as strengthening the Empire at one of its greatest outposts and as tending to give enduring force and vigor to British traditions and to maintain British ideals of freedom and justice within the Dominion. With this invaluable assistance of British capital we are building railways and developing our waterways at enormous expense. We are establishing British civilization across a new continent, and in doing so we are assuredly increasing to an immense degree the power of the Empire enhancing its authority and rendering its position more secure. Let no one forget that by removal to Canada British citizens are not lost to the Empire, and that British capital invested in Canada extends and strengthens British security. Moreover there is every reason to believe that the Canadian people will always preserve that steadiness of temper and that sense of responsibility which are all-important in maintaining the security of investments.

"Again, in the relations between the French and English in Canada, in mutual and generous recognition of race characteristics, in sympathetic and honorable dealing with religious minorities, we seek to illustrate the best traditions of British statesmanship and to unite all elements of the population in vigorous co-operation for the common advantage. We are receiving over 300,000 immigrants annually. A third of these come from the United States, trained like ourselves in the tradition of free institutions and joining with the British population to maintain a high average of citizenship. So also those of other races who have come to the Dominion show a satisfactory capacity for responsible government, enter readily into the spirit of our institutions, and give us a perfect assurance that we have and shall continue to have in increasing degree one of the most competent and responsible democracies in the world.

RELATIONS WITH THE REPUBLIC.

"Occupying as we do the northern half of the continent, our boundaries adjoin those of the United States for nearly 4,000 miles. As neighbors and kinsmen we desire an enduring 'friendship with the American people, being ever conscious of the obligation which rests upon us as the chief British power on this continent to be wise and temperate in international dealings and pre-eminently to maintain and strengthen, in so far as we have opportunity, good relations between the Mother Country and the Republic. Rivalry in trade there must be; international difference there may be but these only illustrate the vitality and the energy of a free people and the endeavor alike of Canadians and Americans to increase industrial efficiency and improve human conditions. "The aim and purpose of the Canadian nation must truly accord with its opportunities and responsibilities. Among them I would include these—to preserve harmony and equality among its people; to guard the purity of its institutions; to develop its boundless resources with prudence and foresight; to be a strength within the Empire in moral power, in political steadiness, and in the determination to preserve its unity and security; to be an influence among the nations for good neighborhood and peace."

THE REARING OF CALVES.

Although the average stock breeder pays particular attention to his live stock throughout the whole year, still in the spring time this interest is considerably increased, and during the present year it is likely to be even more so. In some parts of the country, no doubt, owing to the scarcity of food, prices have not been so buoyant as many breeders expected, yet we are safe in predicting that for good commercial stock of all classes there will always be an excellent demand.

On the ordinary stock-breeding farm, this is the season of the year when most of the young stock are ushered into life, and if the farmer means to be successful, he must begin now. It is certainly true that a great deal depends upon our selection of animals to breed from, but while this is an important factor in determining the commercial value of our cattle, still, breeding is only the starting point, and we must pay particular attention to the rearing, also, if we mean to attain any success.

Everyone who has any knowledge of plant life knows that a seed will not germinate and develop all the organs of a perfect plant unless sufficient favorable conditions, and sufficient nourishment, be present in the first stages of its growth. So it is with cattle of all kinds. Unless they are properly managed and liberally fed at the calf period of their existence, they will not develop their productive organs to any degree of perfection.

The old idea that it was only when a cow was yielding milk that she required a liberal diet has died out, and it is now generally acknowledged that for the production of the best results, whether for the dairy or for fattening, the more liberal management of the calf is in the end the better way. To starve the young animal is to diminish its chance as a profitable animal from the beginning.

POULTRY AND COWS.

Nobody is in a better position to make poultry raising profitable than the dairyman or the farmer who conducts a small dairy in connection with his farm. One of the main reasons why this is true is that the same foods that have a value as milk producers are also good as egg producers. Clover hay, wheat, middlings, oats, corn and rye are palatable and beneficial to cows and chicks alike, while an occasional mess of finely chopped silage is an excellent thing for both fowls and animals.

Another most important point is that the cows themselves furnish one of the best foods for the laying hens—milk, which is a valuable egg food in any form. On this point the Missouri Experimental Station says: "A way of disposing of the surplus skim milk with profit is to feed it to the poultry. As a food for poultry it furnishes the material for making growth in a palatable, easily digested form. For this reason it is exceedingly valuable as an addition to the grain ration, which is liable to lack in the materials to make growth and eggs."

by seedsmen and dealers in poultry supplies which so "fill the bill" that scarcely any loss occurs with the tiny chicks, provided care is exercised in feeding proper quantities.

Chick feeds have become almost as staple on the markets as sugar and salt in the grocery business. The chicks will develop wonderfully quick when fed a properly balanced ration of the grains prepared as we have suggested. Egg production has also increased in quantity and improved in quality where hens are fed on scientifically prepared rations of grains, with a supply of shells, grits, charcoal, etc., which are necessary to insure continued good health.

The hen is the greatest little wealth producer in America. She is so far in advance of the cow that they are not in the same class. The wonderful records are largely due to improved methods of feeding and care. Study the needs of a growing chick and the laying hen and feed correctly.—A. K. Bush.

A FEW POINTERS

Nitrate of soda is the greatest stimulator for leaf crops and should be used on them not to exceed 300 pounds per acre. Even in this maximum amount half should be applied soon after the plants begin to grow, and the other half ten days to two weeks later.

Whether you are working a garden or a farm remember the work cannot be done properly without improved implements. This working the soil with a lot of old-style, patched-up implement will put the soil worker out of business quicker than almost anything else.

Look over all the fruit trees before the weather becomes any warmer and gather all insect eggs, mummied fruit and cocoons. This will go a long way in reducing the pests during the coming season.

As fast as the woody plants are set make a map of the plantings with date of planting and treatment the plants set. Then the survey labels can be removed to prevent their girdling the plants.

Remember the races on July 1st. Considerable hay is still being shipped.

Miss Agnes McDonnell of Montreal, spent the week end with friends here. Miss Margaret I. McCuaig of Montreal, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. M. McCuaig.

Messrs. John F. McKay, Arch A. McDonald and Alex. McKay were recent visitors to St. Faustin where they went to visit the late Norman McKay. Much regret is felt here on the sudden death of Mr. Donald W. Morrison, 2nd Lancaster, on Saturday last.

Miss Ellen M. Morriéon of Montreal, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. M. McCuaig, Cote St. George. Lest you forget, remember the races here on July 1st. Present weather conditions are favorable for a good fast track.

By a majority of 41, the ratepayers in this parish defeated the movement for good roads, on Monday. In the opinion of some, it is an evidence that people sometimes exercise political bias rather than gray matter.

The parish council recently passed a by-law imposing a $5 tax on all dogs, within the parish. While in some instances it may appear excessive it will doubtless have the result of ridding the district of many useless canines.

On Sunday night last, death came suddenly to one of the most prominent residents of St. Telesphore, in the person of Louis Marleau, sr. The funeral took place on Wednesday and was very largely attended.

Mr. Norman McKay.

At St. Faustin Station, Que., on Monday, 10th June, there passed away one of the most prominent and popular young men of this district, in the person of Mr. Norman McKay.

The deceased, who was thirty-five years of age at the time of his death, was a son of the late John McKay, Esq., and until taken ill some two years ago, resided upon the old homestead in the 6th Con. Lancaster. Failing health compelled him to give up farming and he removed to St. Faustin in the Laurentian Mountains, where he passed away on the above mentioned date.

Besides his widow (nee Miss Georgina Halls) and young son, the late Mr. McKay is survived by three brothers and one sister, John F. Dalhousie Station, Donald A. Edmonton, Duncan, St. Faustin, and Mrs. Donald A. Morrison, Edmonton, who arrived at St. Faustin on Friday last and accompanied the remains home.

Arriving here Tuesday evening, they were conveyed to the residence of his brother, Mr. John F. McKay, from where the funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Wm. MacMillan officiating.

The very large number in attendance was a silent testimony to the sterling worth of the deceased and a tribute of sympathy to those bereaved.

The Masonic funeral services at the house and the grave was conducted by officers and members of Lancaster Lodge No. 207 A.F. & A.M. of which the deceased was a member.

Interment took place in Cote St. George cemetery.

LIME KILN CLUB.

Having shaken off the lethargy, incidental to the annual spring change in the constitution, our members held an emergent meeting on Friday evening.

After the routine business, Brother Fergino, on behalf of both parties in the House, extended a cordial greeting and sincere welcome on his return, to President Gustavus, who had just arrived from his semi-annual trip to the north to supervise seeding operations on his vast landed interests. The president was visibly affected by this evidence of good fellowship and assured the members that as a token of his appreciation, he would take advantage of the prerogative granted him by the constitution, and declare a recess of ten minutes if any member felt disposed to suggest that the whole company go into liquidation.

Such magnanimity on the part of a presiding officer was without precedent in Hansard and was taken advantage of by Brother Julian, who had just landed from St. Laurent in his automowhay.

While the legal formalities were being complied with, Brother Julian, in that sweet, musical voice, which has been mistaken for the wail of the lost, recited "He thinks he's the Pacific Ocean because he has Water on the Brain." When the order of new business was reached, Brother Josephus, the new Minister of Finance, proposed for membership, Mr. Archwilliams, who was well and worthily recommended by Brother Arthur. They asked at the same time that the rule requiring prospective members to recite the alphabet backwards and chop and split a cord of elm, be suspended, on account of the fact that such had been copy-wrighted by Brother Dunkino Younger. Their request was acceded to and the operation started.

The new member in his declaration stated that he had never been divorced and that though he had discovered a pea in soup, once upon a time and at the same, he was not a confirmed vegetarian. He also avowed that the first measure he would introduce would be an amendment to the tariff, so that there would be a prohibitive duty on harem and hohlie skirts.

The latter statement was received with loud applause.

One of the most progressive members, Brother Campbellford, who is at all times interested in the welfare of his constituents, gave notice that it was his intention to introduce a bill to prohibit entirely the importation of wigs, false teeth and cats as he considered them detrimental to the dignity and well being of the rising generation.

The customary delegation from the Glengarry dry hilt paid their respects to the House and continued the agitation for the installation of pipe lines so that a system of irrigation would be installed to relieve the parched areas in their district.

The matter was referred to the Minister of Public Works and Relief.

Brother Allandus, member for Cote St. Patrick, asked that a grant be made to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the declaration of peace at Wildcat Corners, but as the House was undecided as to what form the memorial should take, the matter was laid on the table.

Good Roads, Dog Tax and other intricate problems are still to be dealt with.

Before adjourning, Brother Arthur asked that he be granted leave of absence a couple of times as the close confinement was telling on his health. Dr. Campelevin was asked to report on this requisition after which adjournment followed.

Vankleek Hill

Mr. Wm. McRae.

The family of the late Wm. McRae of Vankleek Hill has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the death of their father, who died suddenly at Vankleek Hill on Thursday, June 6th, at the age of 85 years. The late Mr. McRae was one of the oldest and best known residents of Vankleek Hill, having taken up his residence there in 1846, where he lived continuously until about 10 years ago when he retired from active business. Since then he spent the winters in Ottawa with his daughter, Mrs. MacMillan and the summers with his daughter, Mrs. McNulty at the Hill. He conducted a large saddlery business at Vankleek Hill up to the time of his retirement and for many years was clerk of the 2nd division court of Upper Canada for the counties of Prescott and Russell, being appointed in 1865. He was a veteran of 1866-70 and saw active service in those troublous days. In politics he was a life long Conservative. The late Mr. McRae enjoyed a large share of popularity not only in his home town but throughout the surrounding country. He was of a kindly and generous disposition, ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need.

He was born at Charlottentown Township, Glengarry County, on May 27th, 1827, and in 1851 was married to Lucy, daughter of the late John Bolduc, of Quebec, who predeceased him nine years. He leaves a family of seven children: John of Glasgow, Mont., Rod H. of Edmonton, Mrs. McNulty of Vankleek Hill, Mrs. Moran of Outonogon, Mich., Mrs. A. J. MacMillan of Ottawa, Mrs. Graham of Chicago, and Mrs. Deagoh of Chetak, Wis. He also leaves one brother and two sisters: John J. and Mary of Martin town, Glengarry, and Mrs. Goebel of Kansas City. The funeral, which took place on Saturday, was one of the largest seen in town in many years. The mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Beausoleil. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Geo. Allan, Nathan McCann, Peter Lefehvre, Geo. Sherman, Hugh McDougall and J. J. MacMillan, all old friends of the deceased. There were many spiritual and floral offerings.

St. Telesphore

Mr. Dan McMillan, of Lochiel, was a business visitor to this hamlet on Monday.

Mr. D. A. McDonald paid Valleyfield a business visit the latter part of the week.

Miss Kathleen McCosham of Montreal, arrived home on Tuesday to spend the summer months at her parental home.

Mr. Ranald McDonald of the A.H.S. arrived home on Saturday to spend his summer holidays.

Mrs. Alex. Campbell had as her guests on Saturday, Mr. Allie and Miss Annie Anderson, Dominionville.

Miss Teresa McGillis, accompanied by Miss Trotter, of Lancaster, were the guests over Sunday of Mrs. Alex McCosham.

His many friends will be grieved to learn of the death on Monday of Mr. Louis Marleau, carriage-maker of this place. Deceased was one of the most highly respected citizens of this place and the loss will be keenly felt, not only by his family, to whom our most sincere sympathy is extended, but by the community at large, whose favor and esteem, his sterling character won for him.

The fact that although a person supports a government, he may not be in sympathy with all its principles, was clearly demonstrated here on Monday last, when the electors of this municipality, by a majority of forty-one votes, defeated the proposed system of good roads advocated by the Gouin Government, during the recent campaign. When it is remembered that this same poll gave the Liberal candidates a majority of seventy-five some few weeks ago, one comes to the conclusion that the measure was everything but approved of by the people. This may also serve as a lesson to those ardent "arty" supporters who favored the movement, that "You can fool all men sometimes, some men all the time, but you can't fool all men all the time."

Bridge End

Mr. Roderick R. McDonnell. After an illness of some months borne with Christian fortitude, Mr. Roderick R. McDonnell passed away on Sunday afternoon of May 19th, aged 76 years, at the home of his daughter Mrs. Fred Burns, Bridge End.

The deceased was held in high esteem and of sterling character, his genial ways won him host of friends and the last survivor of what might be termed the first generation of the Highland Scotch settlers of the east end of the County of Glengarry.

The funeral to Glen Nevis was largely attended. Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. D. R. Macdonald. The pall-bearers were Messrs. P. D. McDonald, A. R. McDonald, K. A. McDonald, D. F. McDonald, R. J. McDonald, J. A. McDonald.—R.I.P.

HYMENEAL

Hope—Munro.

We reproduce for the information of the very large number in Glengarry to whom the principals are well known, the following extract from the columns of the Winnipeg Free Press of the 6th inst. The bride who has resided ever since her birth in Alexandria, and by her sweetness of disposition endeared herself to all who had the pleasure of knowing her, was last week united in marriage to G. J. Hope, D.D.S., also a native of Glengarry. The young couple's wide circle of friends including the News, extend their warmest congratulations and best wishes for their happiness and welfare. As will be seen from the sub-joined extract from the Free Press Dr. and Mrs. Hope intend residing permanently in Edmonton.

"A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, in St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, when Miss Grace Janet Munro, of Alexandria, Ont., only daughter of Mr. Hugh Munro, M.P.P. for Glengarry County, and Gustavus John Hope, D.D.S., of Edmonton, Alta., were united in marriage, the officiating, Rev. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) of the vicarage. The wedding march was played by Mrs. J. Murray, organist. The bride wore a gown of white liberty satin trimmed with drop pearls and a hertha of Brussels lace, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She also wore the groom's gift, a pendant of aquamarines and diamonds.

"Immediately after the ceremony, the young couple, accompanied by their friends, were driven to the Royal Alexandria, where they are to remain for a day or two before proceeding to Banff, Alta., where they purpose spending a month before taking up their permanent residence in Edmonton."

McCuaig—McMillan.

On Wednesday, June 5, at twelve o'clock noon, the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McMillan, Kirk Hill, Ont., was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Henrietta McMillan was married to Rev. D. A. McCuaig, of Glengarry, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Allan Morrison. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her brother, Mr. D. P. McMillan. She wore a gown of rich duchess satin and her long tulle veil was caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and maidenhair fern, her only ornament being a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. After the ceremony the bride and groom received congratulations from their many friends present. Dinner was served, the tables being beautifully decorated with pink and white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon trip to Montreal, the bride travelling in a blue suit of chiffon broadcloth with a hick hat trimmed with willow plumes. They will reside at the Manse, Torch Cwaver, Ont.

The funeral took place from his father's residence, on Saturday morning to St. Finnan's Cathedral and cemetery. A large concourse of representative citizens followed the remains to their last resting place. Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. A. L. McDonald.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Edmund McGillivray, Cecil Kemp, D. A. McDonald, Gordon Macdonald, B. O'Connor and J. A. McMillan.

Among the relatives and friends from a distance were Messrs. J. J. McDonald, Buffalo; D. A. McDonald, Moira, N.Y.; brothers of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. M. Minogue, Mr. John O'Brien of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. W. Brady of Lancaster.

We extend warmest sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Of Interest * * * to Women

TOMATO SALAD, LA ROSE.

The tomatoes should be peeled and the stem cut out, then each tomato is held in the left hand, the stem part up, and with a sharp knife it is cut almost through downward. Another cut is made at right angles, then two more dividing each section into halves. When the tomato is placed on lettuce leaves the sections open outward, and the result is like a large red flower. A generous spoonful of thick mayonnaise in the center of each completes the arrangement.

DANDELION SALAD.

Rub a salad bowl with a cut piece of garlic, then a leaf cut into thin rings, and season with salt, pepper and a dash of mustard, and mix with a tablespoonful of vinegar. Next blend with olive oil, cut a hard cooked egg into rings, add to the dressing. Put the dandelion leaves, previously washed and drained, with the above, and toss together with fork and spoon. It is said that no other salad has more medicinal value than this; it is a fine tonic for the blood in the spring.

GREEN PEA SALAD.

One pint of cooked green peas, a firm head of lettuce, two-thirds of a cup of cold fowl, free from skin and bones, and salad dressing. Have the peas ready and drain them on a sieve to cool. Wash and well drain the lettuce, pull the leaves apart and break them into convenient pieces, and arrange them in a salad bowl. Chop the lettuce rather coarsely, spread over the top of the lettuce, and then arrange the peas neatly on top. Prepare a plain salad dressing, using vinegar, salt, pepper, oil and chopped parsley for the purpose; pour over the salad and serve. A sprig of mint hoiled with the peas is a decided improvement to the flavor of this salad. In place of cold fowl, cold lean lamb or veal may be used, or, if preferred, meat can be left out altogether. Instead of plain salad dressing, mayonnaise or mayonnaise cream is frequently used, and is found an improvement in many.

TOMATO RELISH.

One peck ripe tomatoes chopped fine, one cup salt sprinkled over them, and let stand overnight. Next morning turn in colander and drain all water off. Then chop separately two cups celery, two cups onions, three sweet peppers, and add three cups light brown sugar, three pints vinegar, one tablespoon cinnamon, one small tablespoon black pepper. Mix all together and can in air-tight cans. This is delicious and will keep a year or more.

HOW TO COOK SUMMER VEGETABLES.

Summer vegetables should be cooked as soon after gathering as possible. In case they must be kept, spread on the bottom of a cool, dry, well-ventilated cellar, or place in the ice-box. Wilting vegetables may be somewhat freshened by allowing to stand a few minutes in cold water. Vegetables which contain sugar lose some of their sweetness by standing. Corn and peas are more quickly affected than others belonging to this group.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

While the crust is baking, carefully pick and wash the strawberries, drain on a cloth, put in a bowl and sprinkle powdered sugar over them. When the crusts are done, butter richly, cover the lower one on the huttered side with berries and lay on the upper crust, butter side down. If three layers, butter both sides of the second. Other berries may be used in the same way. A tablespoonful of whipped or ice cream placed on top not only gives the shortcake a relish, but serves as a tempting ornament for the dainty.

RHUBARB WINE.

Materials.—Twelve pounds of rhubarb, crushed; two gallons of water; eight pounds of granulated sugar. Way of Preparing.—Crush the rhubarb and place it in a large stons jar; cover it and let it stand in a cool place for one week; stir frequently. At the end of that time strain and add the sugar. Place the mixture in the jar and let it stand until fermentation ceases. Strain into a keg, bung tightly and keep for nine months. Then bottle.

PINEAPPLE DELIGHT.

Take a fresh or canned sliced pineapple and cut into eighths. Pare sweet, juicy oranges and remove each segment, free from the membrane and seeds. Arrange the orange sections and pineapple pieces in a dish and sprinkle them with powdered sugar or a mixture of powdered and grated maple sugar. Over this put a layer of fresh-grated cocoanut. Any sort of nice canned fruit can be used instead of the oranges, or with them. Peaches and pears are especially good.

TO MELT CHOCOLATE.

Do not take time to grate chocolate. Put the desired amount in a sauceman and place over the top of a teakettle until melted.

Two squares of unsweetened chocolate are equal to a cupful of grated.

HAVE YOU A KIND VOICE?

There is no power of love so hard to keep as a kind voice, but it is hard to get it and keep it in the right tone. One must start in youth and be on the watch day and night, while at work and while at play, to get and keep a voice which shall speak at all times the thought of a kind heart.

But this is the time when a sharp voice is more apt to be acquired. You often hear boys and girls say words at play with a quick, sharp tone, almost like the snap of a whip. If any of them gets vexed you hear a voice which sounds as if it were made up of a snarl, a whine and a bark.

Such a voice often speaks worse than the heart feels. It shows more ill will in tone than in words. It is often in mirth that one gets a voice or a tone which is sharp and which sticks to him through life and stirs up ill will and grief and falls like a drop of gall on the listener. Some people have a sharp home voice and keep their best voice for those they meet elsewhere. Use your best voice at home. A kind voice is a lark's song to heart and home. It is to the heart what light is to the eye.

TO CLEAN FEATHERS.

Take a thin pillow-case; then rip the pillow open, slip the ripped end into the slip, and shake all the feathers into the slip, double over the end of the slip and baste it, so as the feathers will not come out. Then put on the wash boiler, with about three inches of water in, and lay two sticks of wood lengthwise and three short ones crosswise, so the water will not touch the slip with the feathers in. Let the water boil, then put in the slip with the feathers, and put on the lid, and steam thirty minutes, turning the slip over about every five minutes. Then pin the slip onto the clothes line, leaving it until perfectly aired. Beat with the hands every little bit while drying. Have the tick washed and dried in the sun, and transfer the feathers as at first, and they are sweet and clean.

WHEN SEWING A BRAID.

Dressmakers experience considerable trouble when they sew the braid on around the bottom of a long skirt. Stitches will carry through to the right side unless the work is done with great care. One clever woman has discovered a way which will prevent the catching through of stitches and the sewing progresses rapidly. She leaves an inch or two of the hem open at the top and slips a piece of smooth cardboard, one inch wide and four inches long, in between the cloth of the hem. This she slips along under the braid as she sews and, without fear of running the needle through the cardboard the braid is put on in half the time ordinarily required.

CELERY IN THE HOME GARDEN

Celery can be easily grown in the home garden in almost any soil that has been well supplied with moisture. The crop has been grown on drained hogs, in a commercial way, where the water comes close to the surface because of the moisture such soils afford to the growing plants. It is not necessary to plant celery in trenches which was the approved method years ago. It may be successfully grown in rows closely planted where the stalks will be very well blanched from the shade provided by the leaves. This is now a popular method of growing celery in the home garden. It may also be planted in rows and blanched with boards, earth or straw.

However, the best quality is obtained where the blanching is largely done in the cellar where it should be stored with roots and moist earth attached to each plant. If the soil is kept moist and water is not allowed to come in contact with the stalks, it will grow more or less during the winter, provided the cellar is moist and warm. Celery may be pitted in trenches in the field or garden and the roots packed in earth with the tops covered with clean straw where it will keep for several weeks in good, crisp sound condition. The art of successful storage for celery is quite as important as that of growing the crop. The most stalky plants in root and branch for late plantings are started out-of-doors in propagating beds where the seed has been thinly sown. Transplanting a couple of times and shearing the roots and tops will also aid in making stocky, thrifty plants for the winter supply. If the soil becomes dry an occasional flooding with water will improve their condition and thus keep them growing thriftily. When the plants are well established and stalks formed they may be gradually hanked with earth, which will have a tendency to increase the length of the stalks and their number.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

are just the right medicine for the children. When they are constipated—when their kidneys are out of order—when over-indulgence in some favorite food gives them indigestion—Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills will quickly and surely put them right. Purely vegetable, they neither sicken, weaken or gripe, like harsh purgatives. Guard your children's health by always keeping a box of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills in the house. They'll keep the children well.

Celery is a health-producing vegetable as well as a luxury for the family. It should be grown in every home garden as a staple crop. If you do not happen to have a supply of plants they can be purchased for a reasonable price from seedsmen in lots of 100 or 1,000. They may be safely packed and shipped by express, in which event they will reach the planter in good condition. Plant some celery.

CARRIAGE

Wasn't it Goethe who said "Assume an attitude and you call forth a corresponding state of mind," or something to that effect? One wonders how often we are judged in business, in society, or wherever we go, by the way we carry ourselves? A shrewd business man says:

"Before I finally engage a girl I like to get a look at the way she carries herself, walking along the street, when she has no idea that she is under observation. It gives an unusual good clue to her temperament and to the way she will be likely to take hold of her work."

He then refers to the carriage of the worker without enthusiasm—the temperamental drudge. "If the young woman who lets her arms 'lop' in front of her . . . is not an actual manual worker, in whom the tendency has been induced by heavy lifting and leaning, ten to one you will find, on observing her daily round, that she lets her work be drudgery to her. . . . I look for most in the class of employes. I require is better typified by the girl with her shoulders where they belong, held erect and steady as she walks, and with her arms, if they swing at all, naturally at her sides.

"If girls only knew it, the mere practice of walking in that self-possessed fashion would help wonderfully to brighten them up and give them a far better poise, mentally as well as physically. Why? Oh, that is daily occupation unless you have a very simple. You can't have clear heads and a healthy interest in your fair circulation of good, red blood, you can't have good, red blood, or any circulation of it worth mentioning, unless you hold your shoulders so as to give the lungs room to fill up normally, with each long, deep breath."

And yet one cannot help noticing that some of the most active brains and loveliest spirits go with very imperfect bodies, while an erect and supple form frequently carries a crude intellect and cruder appreciation of right and wrong. Under the latter description come some of the dress-makers' models abroad.

There is that wonderful girl at Lucile's in London, who walks as though she belonged to the Egyptian dynasty, has the dark and thunderous beauty of Asia, and yet confesses that she came from County Cork, and is not merely content with murdering her English but breaks all its joints in Paris, up in the old palace of the Louis' pages who does not seem to touch the earth and is quite sure she is the reincarnation of a queen of France? And the girl at Ber's, who stands in the limelight on a purple velvet stage, and then slowly advances toward the people as though they did not exist, her body seeming to sway to the rhythm of music that she alone heard?

Whatever the ethical value of a good carriage may or may not be, it certainly has an aesthetic value in contributing to beauty; indeed, it may even constitute beauty, in itself, and the average woman will not be deaf to this argument in its favor.

FOR THE BUSINESS WOMAN.

Devote a few minutes night and morning to simple physical exercise and digestive troubles will soon disappear. Your complexion will grow clearer and your figure more erect.

Take pains, by the way, always to walk with well poised body, and a light, brisk step: It is impossible to walk along briskly and still feel wretched. Your attitude has a great effect on your mind.

Now, as for meals. Few business and morning to simple physical exercise and digestive troubles will soon disappear. Your complexion will grow clearer and your figure more erect.

Also pack away all bric-a-brac. If left out, it will only gather dust and increase labor when the house is reopened.

Have the rooms cleaned, as to floors, windows, walls and woodwork. Above all, leave no food stuffs around; of course, dry groceries, if in cans or glass jars or tin boxes, are reasonably safe from the invasion of mice or insects, but even in the matter of these foodstuffs careful judgment must be used.

ST. VITUS DANCE IN YOUNG CHILDREN

A Striking Example of its Cure By the Tonic Treatment

St. Vitus dance is the commonest form of nervous trouble that afflicts young children because of the great demand made on the body by growth and development, and there is an added strain caused by study. It is when these demands become so great that they impoverish the blood, and the nerves fail to receive their full supply of nourishment, that the nervous debility which leads to St. Vitus dance begins.

The remarkable success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing St. Vitus dance should lead parents to give the great blood-building medicine to their children at the first signs of the approach of the disease. Pallor, listlessness, inattention, restlessness and irritability are all symptoms which early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demand upon them. Here is proof of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to cure this trouble. Mrs. J. W. Towns, Oshawa, Ont., says:—"At the age of eleven my daughter was attacked with St. Vitus dance, and despite all we did for her the trouble grew rapidly worse. Soon she was scarcely able to walk, her body and limbs jerked and trembled so, and she was quite unable to feed herself. When she would lie down she would be unable to rise without assistance. As nothing was helping her I wrote a friend whose daughter had been similarly affected, and she advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which had cured her child. I at once got a supply of the Pills, and even the use of the first box seemed to show an improvement. By the time five boxes were used she was completely cured and has had no return of the trouble since."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Anti-Treating Law

Toronto, May 28.—The anti-treating law which will be introduced by the government at the next session will be far-reaching in its effect. The new legislation, it is understood, will be of a drastic nature, and will thoroughly eliminate the treating system.

The hotelkeepers, the bartender, the man who buys the drink and the man who is given the treat, will be prosecuted under the new law. The tentative plans are designed to reach every person who may commit an offence under the anti-treating law. The anti-treating law, which in all probability will be incorporated in an amendment to the liquor license act, will impose heavy fines upon hotelkeepers who violate the law for the first and second time, and on the third occasion the license will be cancelled. The bartender will likely be fined to the amount of $100 or $200, and the "treater" and "treated" will be dealt with in a similar way.

SECURED PROMPT RELIEF

From Severe Neuralgia of Eight Years' Standing.

Mr. James Teit, of Westmeath, Ont., writes: "I have been a dreadful sufferer for the past eight years. The doctors said I had neuralgia of the muscles of my back; the pain was so great it would draw me all up. I tried different doctors, but could find no cure until I used Egyptian Liniment, which was highly recommended by Mr. Fraser, of this place.

It had the desired effect, and I secured prompt relief and have had no relapse in over 15 months. I only used one bottle, and can now load my own produce, pressed hay, etc., myself. Egyptian Liniment has made my old days brighter, and I trust others may be benefited through the publication of this letter."

You will find it splendid for rheumatism, sciatica, and all bruises, sprains, burns and frost-bites. 63 25c. at all druggists. Free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN

STRONGLY ADVISES HIS FRIENDS TO TRY GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

"I have been a Pullman Conductor on the C. P. R. and Michigan Central during the last three years. About four years ago, I was laid up with intense pains in the groin, a very sore back, and suffered most severely when I tried to urinate. I treated with my family physician for two months for gravel in the bladder but did not receive any benefit. About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by taking Gin Pills, after having been given up by a prominent physician who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try Gin Pills which I did,—with the result that the pains left me entirely.

CYNTHIA'S CHAUFFEUR

By LOUIS TRACY

Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto.

It was a morning that tempted to the road, but both men had risen early, and a pin of beer seemed to be an almost indispensable preliminary. From Bristol to Bath is no distance to speak of, so a slight dallying over the beer led to an exchange of recent news.

Dale, it will be remembered, was of sporting bent, and he told Simmonds gleefully of his successful bet at Epsom.

"Five golden quidlets his lordship showed into me first at Brighton," he chortled. "Have you met Slith, who is lookin' after the Frenchman's Du Vallon? No? Well, he was there, an' his goggles nearly cracked when he saw the money paid—two points over the market price, an' all."

"Sometimes one spots a winner by chance," observed Simmonds judicially. "An' that reminds me. Last night a fella told me there was a good thing at Kempton to-day. Now, what was it?"

Dale instantly became a lexicon of weird-sounding words, for the British turf is exceedingly democratic in its pronunciation of the classical and foreign names frequently given to race-horses. His stock of racing lore was eked out by reference to a local paper; still Simmonds scratched an uncertain pate.

"Pity, too!" he said at last. "This chap had it from his nevy, who married the sister of a housemaid at Beckampton."

Dale whistled. Here was news, indeed. Beckampton! the home of "good things."

"Yes. Something real hot over a mile."

"Can't you think? Let's look again at the entries."

"Wait a bit," cried Simmonds. "I've got it now. Second horse from the top of the column in to-morrow's entries in yesterday's Sportsman."

Dale understood exactly what the other man meant, and so long as he understood, the fact may suffice for the rest of the world.

"Tell you what," he suggested eagerly. "When you're ready we'll run to the station an' ask the bookstall people for yesterday's paper."

The inquiry, the search, the triumphant discovery, the telegraphing of the "information" and a sovereign to Tomkinson in Cavendish Square—"five bob each way" for each of the two—all these things took time, and time was very precious to Dale just then. Unhappily, time is often more so to its value, and Bath is really quite close to Bristol!

The choice secret of the Beckampton stable was safely launched—its speculative element, at any rate—and Dale was about to seat himself beside Simmonds, when an astonished and somewhat irate old gentleman booked the handle of an umbrella into his collar and shouted:

"Confound you, Dale! What are you doing here, and where is your master?"

Dale's tanned face grew pale, his ears and eyes assumed the semblance of a scarred rabbit's, and the power of speech positively failed him.

"Do you hear me, Dale?" cried the Earl, that instant alighted from a cab. "I am asking you where Viscount Medenham is. If he has gone to town, why have you remained at Bristol?"

"But his lordship hasn't gone to London, my lord," stuttered Dale, finding his voice at last, and far too flustered to collect his wits, though he realized in a dazed way that it was his duty to act exactly as Viscount Medenham would wish him to act in such trying circumstances.

And, indeed, many very clever people might have found themselves sinking in some unexpected quicksand and be not one whit less bemused than the miserable chauffeur. Morally, he had given the only possible answer that left open a way of escape, and he had formed a sufficiently shrewd estimate of the relations between his master and the remarkably good-looking young lady whom the said master was serving with exemplary diligence to fear dire consequences to himself if he became the direct cause of a broken idyl. The position was even worse if he fell back on an artistic lie. The Earl was a dour person where servants were concerned, and Salome did not demand John the Baptist's head on a salver with greater gusto than the autocrat of Fairholme would insist on Dale's demission when he discovered the facts. Talk of the horned dilemma—here was an unfortunate asked to choose which bristled of a porcupine he would sit upon.

The mere presence of his lordship in Bristol betokened a social atmosphere charged with electricity—a phase of the problem that constituted the only clear item in Dale's seething brain: it was too much for him; in sudden desperation he determined to stick to the plain truth.

He had to elect very quickly, for the peppery-tempered Earl would not brook delay.

"Not gone to London, you say? Then where the devil has he gone to? A gentleman at the hotel, a French gentleman, who said he had met these—these persons with whom my lord is gadding about the country, told me that they had left Bristol this morning for London, because a that was expected to meet them here had broken down."

Suddenly his lordship, a county magistrate noted for his sharpness, glanced at Simmonds. He marched round to the front of the car and saw that it was registered in London. He was not further thought to Marigny. It did not even occur to him it might be advisable to call again at the College Green Hotel, since Medenham had slept elsewhere, and Hersford was now the goal. Certainly, the Frenchman's good fairy might have pushed her good offices to excess by permitting him to see, careering about Bristol with a pair of chauffeurs, the man whom he believed to be then on the way to London. But fairies are unreliable creatures, apt to be off with a hop, skip, and a jump, and, in any case, Marigny was writing explicit instructions to Devar, though he would have been far more profitably employed in lounging outside the hotel.

So everybody was dissatisfied, more or less, the quaking Dale more, perhaps, than any, and the person who had absolutely no shadow of care on his soul was Medenham himself, at that moment gadding the Mercury along the splendid highway that connects Bristol with Gloucester—taking the run leisurely, too, lest Cynthia should miss one fleeting glimpse of the ever-changing beauties of the Severn estuary.

During one of these adagio movements by the engine, Cynthia, who had been consulting a guidebook, leaned forward with a smile on her face.

"What is a lamprey?" she asked. "A special variety of eel which has a habit of sticking to stones by its mouth," said Medenham. Then he added, after a pause: "Henry the First was sixty-seven years of age when he died, so the dish of lampreys was perhaps blamed unjustly."

"You have a good memory," she remarked. "Oh, is that in your book, Miss Varren? Well, here is another fact about Gloucester. Alfred the Great held a Witenagemot there in 896. Do you know what a Witenagemot is?"

"Yes," she said, "a smoking concert."

Mrs. Devar invariably resented these bits of byplay, since she could no more extract their meaning than if they were uttered in Choctaw.

"Some very good people live in Gloucestershire," she put in. "There are the—" She began to give extracts from Burke's "Landed Gentry," whereupon the speedometer index sprang to forty-five, and a noble fifteenth century tower soon lifted its stone lace-work above the trees and spires of the ancient city.

Cynthia wished to obtain some photographs of old inns, so, when they had admired the cathedral, and shuddered at the memory of Richard the Third—who wrote at Gloucester the order to Braakenbury for the murder of the princes in the Tower of London—and smiled at Cromwell's mordant wit in saying that the place had more churoches than godliness; then told of the local proverb, "As sure as God's in Gloucester," Medenham brought them to Northgate Street, where the New Inn—which is nearly always the most antiquated hostelry in an English country town—supplied a fine example of massive timberwork, with courtyard and external galleries.

The light was so perfect that he persuaded Cynthia to stand in a doorway and let him take a picture. During the focusing interval, he suggested that the day's route should be varied by leaving the coast road at Westbury and running through the Forest of Dean, where a secluded hotel in the midst of a real woodland would be an ideal place for luncheon.

She agreed. Something in his tone told her that Mrs. Devar's consent to the arrangement had better be taken for granted. So they sped through the blossom-laden lanes of Gloucestershire to the leafy depths of the Forest, and saw the High Beeches, and the Old Beech, and the King's Walk, and many of the gorgeous vistas that those twin artists Spring and Summer etched on the wooden undulations of one of Britain's most delightful landscapes; as a fitting sequel to a run through fairyland they lunched at the Speech House Hotel, where once the skins of daring trespassers on the King's preserves were wont to be nailed on the Court House door by the Verderers.

It was Cynthia who pointed the moral.

"There is always an ogre's cave near the Enchanted Garden," she said, "and those were surely ogreish days when men were flayed alive for hunting the King's deer."

It is not to be wondered at if they dwelt somewhat by the way, when that way led past Off's Dyke through Chepstow, and Tintern, and Monmouth, and Symon's Yat. Indeed, Cynthia's moods alternated between wide-eyed enjoyment and sheer regret, for each romantic ruin and charming country-side not only aroused her enthusiasm but evoked a longing to remain riveted to the spot. Yet she would not be a woman if there were not exceptions to this rule, as shall be seen in due course.

Mrs. Devar, perchance tempted by the word "Castle," quitted the car at Chepstow, and climbed to the nail-studded oak door of one of the most perfect examples of a Norman stronghold now extant. Once committed to the role of sightseer, she was compelled to adhere to it, and before the fourth corner was reached, had she known the story, she would have sympathized with the pilgrim who did not boil the peas in his shoes of penance. Chepstow Castle is a splendid ruin, but its steep gradients and rough pavements are not fitted for stout ladies who wear tight boots.

To make matters worse, the feelings of Cynthia's chaperon soon became as sore as her foes. The only feature of Marten's Tower that appealed to her was its diabolical ingenuity in providing opportunities for that interfering chauffeur to assist, almost to lift, Cynthia from one mass of fallen masonry to another. Though she knew nothing of Henry Marten she reviled his memory. She heard Fitzroy telling her of a ward charge that the reformer really hated Charles I. because the King called him "an ugly rascal" in public, and directed that he should be turned out of Hyde Park; the words supplied a cue.

"Pity kings are not as powerful nowadays," she snapped. "The presumption of the lower orders is becoming intolerable."

"Unfortunately, Marten retaliated by signing the King's death warrant," said Medenham.

"Of course. What else could one expect from a person of his class?"

"But Sir Henry Marten was a celebrated judge, and the son of a baronet, and he married a rich widow—these are not the prevalent democratic vices," persisted Medenham.

"You must have sat up half the night reading the guidebook," she cried in vexation at her blunder.

Cynthia laughed so cheerfully that Mrs. Devar thought she had scored. Medenham left it at that, and was content. Both he and Cynthia knew that lack of space forbade indulgence in

The work upon the interior of the new Presbyterian Church is fast nearing completion. A few days ago the pulpit, communion table, pews, chairs and other fittings of that character were received from the Valley City Seating Co. whose representative, Mr. J. C. Watches

— when an authentic watch is shown Each man winds up and rectifies his own. — Sir John Suckling.

A WATCH to be satisfactory must be AUTHENTIC in its timekeeping. NO WATCH will give accurate time unless it is well cared for, but some watches with the best of care cannot give good service.

OUR WATCHES are selected from the leading makers of the world, and no movement is allowed in our stock which cannot pass the critical inspection that many years' practical experience enables us to give.

The Children's Eyes.

Children who make slow progress at school, take no interest in study, complain of headache and tired eyes, or hold books too close to the eyes, should have their eyes examined. Statistics show that one child in every seven has weak eyes. Because their eyes are weak, easily some children say they are not well. In most cases there is eye-strain.

Well Fitted Glasses.

You get by far more benefit from your glasses if the lenses suit your eyes and the frame fits your face than you will if they do not. The value of glasses is almost all in their fitting properly. We can fit you to a new pair very reasonably or repair your old ones without much expense.

This department is presided over by MISS GUDDON who is a qualified Optician, pupil of Dr. Fox, of Montreal.
