Apple Hill Church 35th Anniversary

The celebration of its 35th anniversary will go down in history as one of the great events in the career of Zion Presbyterian Church, Apple Hill. Expectation was high; numerous were the preparations made and earnest were the prayers offered up for the series of services planned. Now that all is over, the grateful congregation reminds one of that good man of whom it was recorded that "he thanked God and took courage." Weather conditions were ideal during the ten days.

Jolly Ending To Bowling Season

The Alexandria Lawn Bowling Club, on Tuesday evening of this week, closed the season. This decidedly popular lawn game which was introduced here, last year, proved so successful from the very outset that late last fall an entirely new and larger green was constructed and members from time to time visiting other greens have pronounced the one here, the equal of any in Eastern Ontario, including Ottawa.

Jail Bootleggers Without The Option of a Fine

Early Saturday morning, 25th inst., fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Catholic Church, at Hawkesbury, and for a time threatened the major portion of the whole town. The loss is estimated at $300,000 with $150,000 insurance. The church was a stone building about 250 feet long, about 100 feet high with a seating capacity of 1000 and was one of the finest in this eastern section.

NOT LOSING PLACE AS DAIRY COUNTRY

In a recent English market letter from the office of the Agent-General to the Ontario Department of Agriculture comparisons were made of New Zealand and Canadian shipments of dairy products during the first seven months of 1924 to Britain. These put the New Zealand dairymen in a much better light, and when publishing the letter to The Globe the leading stressed this fact. The Old Country correspondent forgot to mention that the period under review represented the flush season for New Zealand and the export for this country. Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick fortunately draws attention to this fact, and in the following communication intimates that Canada is again likely to take the world's lead in exports of cheese:

Butter Exports Jump

"The article in your recent issue under the caption 'Dairy Shipments Show Big Decline' does not state the case fairly for Canadian exports of dairy produce," writes Mr. Ruddick. "The exports of cheese from Canada for the season of 1923 showed an increase over the previous year, and there will be a further increase in 1924 over the export of 1923. The exports of both cheese and butter are increasing. There will be a very large increase in the exports of butter during the present season. The production of both cheese and creamery butter is increasing in Canada at the present time, and I should not be surprised if Canadian cheese exports this year exceeded those of New Zealand for the past season."

Making More Cheese

"Under the statement in your article, 'Slipping Back in Cheese,' you compare the flush season of New Zealand exports with our season of non-production, and, of course, New Zealand is ahead, but comparing the year's exports for each country there is very little difference, and while New Zealand's export of cheese has shown a slight decrease for the last two years Canadian exports have a substantial increase during the same period."

HOW ARE WE BUILDING?

Every farm, every barn and the arrangement of the lesser buildings about it, every farm house and its dooryard, every herd of cows, the team, the tools, and the fences, all reflect the character of the man behind them. What a lot of farmers advertise to the world that they belong to the ill-kept, helter-skelter order of humanity! Everything about the farm tells that story. It has been said of many a man that "he buildeth better than he knew". If so, it was because he built in harmony with the central spirit and purpose of his life. If the man had no central spirit or purpose, save to hoard up a few dollars, then whatever he built was out of harmony and proportion, "thrown together" as we often see.

As farmers come to a larger measure of mind and understanding they will see that every farm is in reality a living center of a spirit and purpose. It has an object and the best expression of that object, the most harmonious and most efficient, is after all the real business of the farmer.

SHIPPING MILK

How far can milk be shipped and have it arrive at its destination in good, wholesome condition? This question has not been answered, but we believe that milk properly produced and handled can be shipped across the continent and still be in first class condition for drinking, or uses of various kinds.

At this year's Dairy Show was a unique exhibit of a truck carrying 1,350 gallons of pasteurized milk from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Milwaukee, Wis., a distance of nearly 600 miles. This truck left Pittsburgh at 10.05 p.m. Saturday, September 27, and arrived in Milwaukee 4.30 a.m. September 30. The milk, when put in the well-insulated tank, was cooled to a temperature of 36 degrees F. and when it arrived in Milwaukee it was 41 degrees F. After it stood in the warm sun for three or four days its temperature was 41½ degrees F. The milk was served to National Dairy Show visitors throughout the entire week, and we can attest that on Thursday, October 2nd, it was still as sweet and palatable as any one could desire. This unique demonstration shows what can be done when milk is properly produced, cooled to a low temperature, and held there until its consumption. Cleanliness, pasteurization, and cooling, when properly applied, will permit milk to be shipped almost any distance and arrive at its destination as perfect food.—Hoard's Dairyman.

YIELD BIG FACTOR IN PRODUCTION COSTS

Up to a certain point the cost of producing poor crops is the same as that where a bumper harvest is handled. Good seed, the foundation for a good crop, costs a little more, but preparation of the seed bed, sowing, taxes, interest on the investment in land and machinery, are about the same. The only difference of any account is noted when the crop comes to be harvested. Cutting of the bumper yield is a little higher, and hauling in, storage and threshing if that is necessary, will cost more. In spite of the latter costs items, however, the total for producing ten acres of bumper oats, for instance, will not be very much higher than for producing a field yielding 20 bushels per acre. From this summing up it will be seen that the yield per acre of the crop under average conditions is the biggest single factor in determining the cost.

Figures Tell Story

Figures from the 1923 report of the Illustration Stations conducted by the Experimental Farms bear out this statement. On two farms in Quebec the cost of producing clover hay varied from $3.12 per ton in the case of a two and a half ton yield per acre to $5.20 per ton where the yield amounted to a ton and a quarter. Timothy hay which yielded three tons per acre cost the owner $5.36 per ton, while a crop running two tons cost $7.22. Even more striking is the difference in the cost of producing grain on two farms mentioned in the report. The variety in each case was Banner. Where the yield amounted to 62 bushels per acre the cost was 32½ cents per bushel, but where the yield was 37 bushels the cost ran slightly over 56 cents per bushel. The greatest single factor, therefore, under average conditions, in the cost of producing a crop is the yield per acre. Fortunately the farmer has considerable control over that yield.

Factors Under Control

Fertilizer will help, in order not to run up the cost of production along with the yield, the fertilizer must be cheap. A leguminous crop at least every four years will help land to produce good crops. The best seed is the cheapest, not in the long run only, but in a single season. Thorough cultivation, harvesting at the right time and proper storage are the rest of the rules to follow, and big crops are assured.

CULLING SAVES FEED AND MONEY

Culling poultry results not only in immediate saving of feed, but aims at permanent flock improvement in the selection of better breeding stock. The recent rise in feed prices should prompt the poultry keepers to prosecute a culling program with unusual vigor.

Careful examination of every pullet on the range should follow closely on the culling of the poor layers. Pullets possessing obvious and harmful deformities should never be allowed to go into winter quarters. Such defects as twisted beaks and toes will hamper efficient egg production, while crooked breast bones, slipped wings, wry tails and roach backs often indicate lack of constitutional vigor and are equally undesirable. Under ordinary conditions, proper economy will eliminate these individuals as soon as they appear. In a year like this, however, when feed promises to be higher in price, the poultryman should cull his flock of pullets with unusual severity.

Only the good pullets can make money during the coming year, says the Department of Agriculture. The late-maturing, slow-growing pullets are not likely to lay many fall or winter eggs. The under-sized, thin pullet is lacking in constitution and is a future menace to the health of the flock. Among the late-hatched pullets only the most thrifty can prove at all profitable. Early-maturing, well-grown pullets of splendid health and vigor have used their feed economically during the growing season and should be found in good flesh. These promising pullets should lay well during the winter months and prove profitable. In the present period of increased feed costs, no other pullets should be kept.

If the present increase in cost of feed serves to induce more widespread and careful culling practice, much good will result to the poultry industry. The smaller, more efficient flock will produce more economically, raising the average production per bird. The rigid selection of breeders will permanently improve the productive qualities of the stock.

ADVERTISING HAS ITS NEW VALUE

Lion Hew Trill, of the Federated Press roared at Friday noon's meat-feast of the Lions at the Mount Royal, Montreal, to the effect that "selling is advertising and advertising is news."

The speaker condemned those methods of selling which aim at forcing people to buy something for which they have no desire, claiming that all true selling is finding out what people want, getting it for them, presenting it to them so that they will recognize its desirability, and making a profit on the transaction.

"There is no basic difference between selling and advertising; one appeals through the ear, the other through the eye. While direct selling may be the more effective, it is also the more costly of the two main vehicles of distribution."

"True advertising is news. It must tell the prospective customer those things concerning the product to be sold which are of interest to him, not those things which are of interest to the seller. A really good advertisement writer produces a report of selling points, just as a newspaper man should present an interesting, accurate and well-balanced picture of an actual event; telling people news concerning the things they are interested enough in to buy."

"After all, people buy not an actual thing, but the effect or service they expect from their purchase. It is more important to show them the relation between themselves and their purchase than merely to describe to them the appearance, or the conditions of manufacture, of the thing to be said."

"The advertising man, like the reporter," concluded the speaker, "should always maintain a fresh viewpoint, so that his written matter may be spontaneous, broad, and, above all, news; news being understood as that which is of direct and instant appeal to the public."

MONEY SUITED

"Here is that suit I bought off you last week," said the angry customer to the tailor. "You said you would return my money if it was not satisfactory." "That's what I said," responded the tailor, rubbing his hands, "but I am happy to tell you that I found the money to be entirely satisfactory."—Yorkshire Post.

VERMIN IN LIVE STOCK

Much Injury Done by Lice to Farm Animals

Vermin Multiply Rapidly—Treatment for Cattle, Horse and Hog Lice—The Louse a Robber of Profits—Soft Bacon.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Thousands of dollars are lost each year by stock owners neglecting to take the necessary measures to destroy the lice that infest the stock. Millions of these busy little insects make life a misery to the animal, and they also make the animals a source of loss to the owner. The keeping of live stock as a medium of support for lice never made any money for the farmer. It is unprofitable. Many people neglect, for reasons best known to themselves, to apply the simple remedies that destroy vermin and prevent losses on live stock operations.

Lice Multiply Rapidly.

Lice multiply most rapidly in dry, cold weather, and are found in greatest abundance on long-haired, old and poorly cared for stock during March and April. Spring rains tend to reduce the numbers of vermin on animals that are exposed to the weather, and the lice become less numerous as the season progresses. A few seem to survive the summer and show their presence in the late autumn or early winter when their progeny have increased to millions, and bring torment to the unfortunate animals that support them. Rub and scratch is the practice, until the hair is off and the louse is either crushed or pushed further along. Bare patches are noticed on side of neck, breast, head and back, wherever the animal has been able to reach—evidence of vigorous attempts at relief from the tiny tormentors. Animals that are tied and not free to rub themselves have a harder lot than those running free.

Treatment for Cattle Lice.

All animals should be given a good grooming with brush and curry comb to remove scurf, loose hair, and any vermin that may be off guard, then apply the following:

- Soft soap ..... 1 quart
- Hard soap ..... ¼ pound
- Coal oil ..... 1 pint
- Water ..... 2 quarts

Mix the quantities of soap and coal oil together first, then add the two quarts of boiling water. This will make an emulsion if thoroughly mixed, to which a gallon of warm water must be added before applying to the animals. An ordinary stable brush is a good instrument with which to apply the emulsion. Care should be taken to saturate the skin over the entire body. Repeat the treatment in ten days; another brood will be up and doing by that time. Sheep dips prepared by reliable manufacturing chemists are available and very useful in destroying cattle lice. There are three species of lice attacking cattle, viz: the long-nosed louse, the short-nosed louse, and the biting louse. Herds that are regularly groomed during the winter suffer but little from lice.

Treatment for Horse Lice.

If the weather is warm enough so that it is safe to wash a horse, the kerosene emulsion given for cattle is very effective. If the weather is cold, the animal can be given a good grooming, and then either sodium fluoride or pyrethrum powder should be well dusted on the skin, and the horse blanketed. Raw linseed oil can be brushed into the hair quite easily and with good effect. A good brush and oil are death to the mites. Any treatment given should be repeated in ten days, since the powers of multiplication are wonderful. There are two kinds of lice infesting the horse, the biting and the sucking lice.

Treatment for Pig Lice.

Raw linseed oil applied with a brush to all parts of the body is very effective. The formulae for kerosene emulsion can also be used to advantage. An oil rub, always accessible for the use of swine, will do much to keep the vermin down. The practice of having a machine oil can handy at feeding time and giving each pig a squirt along the back once a week is a good one. It will make conditions unhealthy for a pig louse. The pig louse, "Haematopinus suis," is a big one, almost as long as its name, and can easily be seen.

Do not let the louse rob you of your season's profits, and do not let it annoy your animals. A little soapy or greasy material will stop its breathing for all time. Why not get after the louse to-day?—L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Soft Bacon.

Experimental work at the Ontario Agricultural College has proven that soft bacon comes from pigs that have been fed heavily during early life on fattening feeds while enclosed in pens or yards so small as to prevent proper exercise for the animals. O. A. C. experiments have also proven that pigs grown to 125 pounds weight on mixed feeds well balanced with skim milk (2½ pounds milk to 1 pound of meal), or tankage up to 10 per cent. in the ration may be furnished on corn or barley and still produce a firm, high quality product. Dairy by-products tend to offset the trouble arising from lack of exercise, but both exercise and skim milk are better than either alone.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Cow testing separates the good from the poor and lays the foundation for a good herd.

It is always a good plan to save a piece of nice clover or rape on which to refresh the breeding ewes, just prior to the mating season.

EMPIRESS OF SCOTLAND (AT FUNCHAL MADEIRA)

History's pages. "Have you looped the loop around the Mediterranean?" is a phrase much in vogue, and each year thousands of wanderlust folk are able to say "Yes!" and wish that they were going to loop the same old loop again.

The "Empress of Scotland," if a big steamship of 25,000 tons gross register and 37,500 tons displacement, could be interviewed, would say that she was departing on her fourth annual cruise of the Mediterranean from New York on Feb. 9, 1925, and that although she could find her way around in the dark she would much prefer daylight so that she would not miss any of the wonderful scenery of the Mediterranean. Passengers on the "Empress" will see Madeira, then drop in to pay a call upon Lisbon, Portugal, as well as another call upon Cadiz, Spain, with Seville as a side trip. Gibraltar, the famous "Rock" next gets the once over, and then Algiers, capital of the French colony of Algeria is visited. # Of Interest To Women

SCHOOL CHILDREN AND THEIR HEALTH

Hurrah! school has opened again! And what of the health of the boys and girls? "Keep a child robust and sound in body until he is eighteen," say medical experts, "and the chances are he will remain so throughout life." How important then that its health should be maintained. A word to parents. Are your children free from frequent colds, enlarged tonsils, adenoids, decaying teeth? These are serious hindrances to their health. Are they free from eyestrain? Do they hear well? Are they sound in body and limb. If not, then in school they lose a golden opportunity.

"Canada a Land of Opportunities!" we say, and yet in this land are we breeding a race that shows appalling signs of deterioration? Statistics show an average of one physical defect for each school child in the United States. Fully twenty-five per cent. of the nation's children are below par. How is it with Canada? Are your children under-weight? Being underweight does not necessarily mean being undernourished. Our schools aim at wholesome citizenship, and whether your boy goes into professional life, or industrial life, sound health is essential to his success. What then can we do to make our boys and girls fit for the work of life?

Medical examination in the school is not a fad. It is based on medical research and confirmed by experience. When the war broke out, over twenty-five per cent. of our boys were physically unfit. We must not repeat that neglect to the rising generation. Systematic medical supervision must be given to our children during the years they are at school. Careful medical examination should be given every child entering the school. And the mother should be present to hear what the doctor has to say, and in turn to ask questions for the benefit of the child. Especially so, in the case of non-Anglo-Saxon mothers. Thus they will come to understand that the school-doctor is trying to help their child. And the mothers' intelligent co-operation is needed to attain the best results.

During school age there are adenoids and diseased tonsils to be watched. There are ear-aches and eye-strains to be relieved, and teeth to be treated. There are skin and scalp diseases, spinal curve and weak feet, all of which can be helped and corrected if treated in time. A delicate child is no longer looked upon with pride. In-so far as we are eager to be healthy, ashamed to be unhealthy, we are awake to the ideal of our generation.

What of the child's teeth? If teeth are lost, food cannot be chewed, if they are defective, disease germs lodge in them, if teeth and gums are diseased, poison invades the system and undermines the health. The child suffers pain, and no one can be at his best mentally or physically while suffering.

What of your child's sight and hearing? Eye-strain or defective vision may cause irritability, headaches, nausea, loss of appetite, not infrequently blindness. And deafness, starting with adenoids, hardening wax or a cold, may become impossible to remedy, unless taken at the beginning. Is your child to be under a handieap? Eye and ear defects are in a large measure responsible for inattentiveness, bad discipline and failure to be promoted.

It all comes to this. We consider our reputation lost if our young people come from our schools illiterate. Is our reputation secure if they come from our schools with needless physical defects and handicaps. Let every boy and girl in Canada be given a chance to be physically strong.

THROUGH THE GATE OF DREAMS

Into the House of Sleep

"The way into the House of Sleep is through the Gate of Dreams."

It is certainly the way we come out of it! Even those who when roused are immediately wide awake know the vague feeling of a sudden return from strange happenings in some other place.

Sleeplessness is the bane of the anxious woman and leads to all ills, mental and bodily.

The maxim of the old folk that to "live on sixpence a day and earn it" was an infallible cure for "the megrims" does not help, for it is that heart-breaking effort to live on sixpence a day (or its equivalent in these hard times) that keeps the housewife tossing and turning half the night in worried restlessness.

Troubles that cannot be talked about also are uneliminable mountains by night, though they may be merely unpleasant and unfruitful molehills by day.

Remedies for Sleeplessness

There are endless remedies apart from drugs, suggested for this nerve-racking want of sleep; counting 100 sheep going through the gap in the dyke, saying the multiplication table up to 20 times 20, etc. But how often they fail us!

What is required is not another mental strain, but something soothing and quieting to enter the House of Sleep, that peaceful dwelling from which we shall return at dawn strengthened and refreshed for another day's work.

Women dream more than men, as they usually sleep more lightly, having to wake at the first cry of a child, and to bear the responsibility of the work of the house.

The perfect woman, says Solomon, "looketh well to the ways of her household," and "riseth while it is yet night to give a portion to her maidens"; to see that her servants—if she has any—attend to their allotted tasks.

When we say "Good night" we wish one another "Pleasant dreams!" Some people say all their dreams are bad ones, but I think they are the exception, not the rule, and many are delightful. Now and then, although seldom, we remember one of these clearly, we bring it away with us: and there is no surer way of dropping calmly off to sleep than by recalling one's pleasant dreams and entering into the abode of rest and renewal by their gateway.

Saving Up Memories

Most people can recall some dream from which they have been sorry to awake, and such memories should be saved up to be used again and again as the gate of the House of Sleep, which was in olden days reputed to have two entrances, one of horn and the other of ivory.

The horn gate should be treaded, as it leads to the visions that come true, but that of ivory to those that are delusive, the dangers and difficulties that vanish on awakening, and to all the sweet illusions of fairyland, where the "good people"

"Live in the same green land to-day
As in the ages olden,
And you may touch with your finger tips
The ivory gate and golden."

ETTA GILBERT.

WINDS WORK HAVOC WITH COMPLEXION

Autumn winds come scampering along just as the matron and the maid relax their vigilant watch on smiling Old Sol, who has been trying all through the summer months to cover the cream-and-roses cheeks with a coat of tan. But autumn winds must be watched just as carefully as the summer sun, for wind is the arch enemy of women's beauty.

Wind Is Merciless

When facing the wind as much care must be taken of the tender skin as if it were a hot sun. The action of the sun is superficial; it burns and tans the surface and discolors it; unless it is very severe, it does not burn beneath the surface. The winds work in a different way. They quickly make the skin rough, exposing the under surface, which is likewise roughened. If the pores of the skin are coarse, the wind enters them and makes them coarser still.

Another Beauty-Killer

A delicate skin has another dangerous enemy in a dust-laden wind in dry weather. Dusty roads and a gust of wind are more than beauty can withstand without the support of toilet aids. The joys of the open road in the golden days of autumn will bring sorrow to the woman who values her complexion, unless adequate protection in the form of wind cream is provided before she embarks on a motor jaunt or hike.

Dangers of "Steaming."

A cream which can be safely used on practically all skins is best unless the preparation is recommended by a beauty specialist. Steaming the face or softening it with any preparation is dangerous unless the skin is guarded carefully from wind for several days following. The golf course or an open motor car are especially to be avoided at such a time. Also, if the face is steamed, powder should not be applied until the next day, for it will clog and enlarge the pores.

Hints on Correct Toilet

Before braving a windy day the toilet should be as follows: The face must be washed in luke-warm water and care must be taken that the bath is not a steaming hot one, else the steam will have the undesired effect of opening the pores. If the skin is of a dry nature, a little fatty cream may be rubbed in, then wiped off. Before going out the weather cream must be used. This must be applied again if out all day, and on going indoors attention must again be given to the face.

SKIMMILK FOR BREAD

Wheat is the staff of life. It is one of our most common and important foods. A great majority of the people of the world use it in their daily diets, and it is looked upon as being essential to a well balanced meal. Recent investigations have brought new information concerning the building of healthful diets for people and it has been shown that the mineral matter of milk and its protein, as well as its fat, are highly essential to a good diet.

Much experimental work has been done to show the value of skimmilk in the making of bread. It is a common practice to use water, but with the advanced information concerning the proper diets it is found that wheat bread is very much improved by the use of skimmilk. The skimmilk provides mineral substances which are shown to be the most essential in building a healthful diet. Skimmilk also provides a complete protein.

In this country we have millions of pounds of skimmilk that are not returning the dairy farmer sufficient compensation. In the past few years much of this skimmilk is being turned into skimmilk powder and is being used in a few of the bakeries in the manufacture of bread, cake, etc. The quantity used in comparison with the opportunity of using skimmilk powder in bread is very small.

The housewife on the farm would find it advantageous to use skimmilk instead of water in making bread. The baker can afford to use skimmilk powder because it not only produces a more nutritious bread, but it actually increases the weight of the bread sufficiently to pay for the skimmilk powder. Even if it didn't do this, bread made of skimmilk powder would sell for enough more to yield a profit on the skimmilk used. It is important to the dairy industry and to the consumer that skimmilk instead of water be used in the manufacture of bread.

WORLD EVENTS

IN REVIEW

By William Banks

The Prince of Wales
Canadians will feel regret that the Prince of Wales suffered even a slight indisposition in this country, and will hope for his arrival home in fine health.

Ocean Freight Rates
It would appear that complaints of Canadian cattle shippers as to high ocean freight rates being the result of a combine have some basis. The preliminary report of a special Canadian commissioner is said to bear out the contention of the shippers which, however, has not deterred the steady increase in cattle shipments. So far this year over sixty-two thousand head of cattle have been sent from Canada to Britain.

The Ontario Plebiscite
With the result of the vote on the Ontario Temperance Act and Government control now known, the Provincial Government has several problems on its hands. In effect Premier Ferguson and his colleagues were pledged to strengthen the O.T.A. should the vote favor that measure, or to strictly enforce any measure of Government Control should that plan be favored. On the whole the campaign was conducted with reasonable fairness, when one considers that the principle involved has always been a matter for strong feelings pro or con. The situation now confronting the government is one that has fascinating interest for all students of politics. The reduction of the O.T.A. majority was greater than most of them expected no doubt.

The British Election Campaign
It is a long time since Britain had such a stormy election campaign as that which closed October 29th. In a number of the congested areas of the large cities gangs of men wearing red favors, sang the "Red Flag" and other Communist songs until they had effectually silenced Conservatives or Liberals in whose interests the meetings were called. It is probable that this line of conduct cost Ramsay MacDonald and his followers a number of seats. Britain is not ready, nor is it ever likely to be ready, for the reign of Communism.

Hits Canadian Car Trade
Visible evidence of the fact that the abolition of the McKenna duties which incidentally gave a preference to motor cars made in the Empire, have had an effect on that branch of industry in this country are shown in recent trade returns. Canada cannot expect, of course, to influence British trade tariffs—the British people themselves must always be the arbiters in that regard. But it is worthy of note that during the election campaign Conservatives did not hesitate to say that if they were given office the McKenna duties would come back. They coupled that with the assurance that nothing would be done in respect to general protective tariffs unless and until the British workman asked for it. We shall probably see more unusual political changes in Britain in the next few years.

No Monopoly of the Air
Radio fans the world over have shown the world that radio is no longer a medium of amusement only, but has come to fill a most important part in the life of the people. Hence there was some anxiety over a widely circulated report that powerful interests in the United States were organizing to control radio there, and to practically create a monopoly by the erection of the most powerful broadcasting stations in the world. They have been assured by a member of the government that applications bearing out such statements have not been received and that the government is opposed to any such plan. It is quite obvious that we are reaching the stage where international regulation of the air will be as important as that of the steamship routes and lanes the world over.

Production for Fisheries
Canada and the United States have ratified the convention to protect the halibut fisheries of the Northern Pacific Ocean. This establishes a closed season from November 16 to February 15 of each year, and also provides for the appointment of a joint commission of four men to investigate and make recommendation for the preservation and development of those fisheries. The halibut fisheries have become very important to Canada. In 1903 the catch off the British Columbia coast was about ten million pounds. Since then it has run as high as thirty million pounds a year. The fishing industry as a whole has also greatly advanced in this country. In 1844 the estimated value of the catch was $125,000. It now averages around forty million dollars a year, so that Canada is very much interested in any steps taken to safeguard this source of national industry and revenue.

Crime Does Not Pay
The hanging of four men in the Montreal Jail for the murder of a bank messenger whom they attacked and robbed a few months ago, is a sad and tragic emphasis on the fact that all crimes must be paid for sooner or later. These men might have added much to the good of the community had they chosen to live honestly and decently. Two others of the gang had their sentences commuted to life imprisonment which is sometimes a worse punishment than death. The relatives of people who would rather live by crime than by honest toil, very often because of their distaste for real work, must also suffer for the deeds of the wrong-doers.

Indians in the Senate?
A proposal comes from one of the Eastern reserves of the Iroquois tribe that the Indians of this country should have representation in the Senate. As wards of the govern Indians who have maintained their tribal identity are really in the position of minors though they have many advantages. It would not be possible for them under these conditions, and scattered as they are over all the country, to elect members of parliament. The most of the great Indian figures of the past as well as the prominent Indians of the present generation, are noted for their gifts of oratory. Should their claim to a seat or seats in the Senate be successful, it would probably be found that their spokesmen would equal that of their white colleagues in the art of speech-making. Incidentally it is of interest to note that on the Six Nations reserve near Brantford, Ont., the hereditary rule of the chiefs has been abolished, and government has passed into the hands of an elective council.

Another Yukon Gold Rush
Memories of the earlier and spectacular rushes for gold in the Yukon are revived by another reported discovery of places gold at a point on Little Atlin Lake. All the old-time stirring scenes of the earlier stampedes are said to have attended the journey of every able bodied man within a wide radius to the scene. The Yukon has faded from view very largely in the past few years, owing to the discoveries of the vast gold fields of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia, and the indications in other provinces that quartz mining may be developed there. But the Yukon gave to Canada and the world some of the thrills that have always been attendant upon gold discoveries since records began to be made of them. It is to the credit of Canada that the law went in with the prospectors and while all that happened could not be commended, there was less of violence and an absence of the callous murders that characterized many gold rushes in other lands.

The 1925 Wembley
Premier Bruce of Australia has announced that if the Wembley Exhibition is open next year, Australia will show there on a large scale, provided that the Exhibition is truly Imperial in form. What the Premier was anxious to emphasize was that his country would not be interested if it was to be the only Overseas Dominion present. Canada made a fine showing at the Exhibition and undoubtedly reaped good results. But so far as the British organizers of the Exhibition as a whole are concerned, they have had to face a considerable loss. This involves the British government, which guaranteed a very large amount. Managers of some of the most successful of Canadian and United States Exhibitions who visited Wembley, believe that it would have come nearer to success had its advertising campaign been conducted on different systems. This was one of several criticisms, but the critics themselves also had warm commendation for the exhibition as a whole, and saw many things there which they believed were an improvement on like affairs on this side of the water.

Sensational Sentences
Within a few days after their trial opened in Toronto Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario and Aemilius Jarvis Sen., a noted international financier and yachtsman, were convicted of charges of conspiracy to defraud the Province. Aemilius Jarvis Jun. and Harry G. Pepall were acquitted and a charge of theft against all four was dismissed. Peter Smith was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and Jarvis Sen. to six months in the County Jail while fines aggregating $600,000 were imposed. Chief Justice Meredith ordered that they remain in custody until their fines are paid. The sentence on Peter Smith was the more severe because as a Minister of the Crown he had broken his oath of office as well as taken part in the conspiracy. The case arose out of the bond deal in which the Jarvis firm acted for the former Provincial government, and the effect of the charge in brief was that Peter Smith and others shared in profits which should have accrued to the Provincial Treasury. The fine is said to be the heaviest ever imposed in the annals of British Justice, certainly in Canada. The sentences will be appealed. The trial was by jury and the sentences created a sensation throughout Canada.

CONCERNING CHAIRS

Period Education

Women of to-day have acquired and are rapidly acquiring a much more intelligent and discriminating interest in furniture than ever before. In the careful housewife's search for good pieces she does not restrict her interest to one particular style, but considers those in vogue throughout the past generations. It must be admitted that all old styles did not provide the degree of comfort to which we of a luxurious age are prone. It is not surprising then to find the modern householder considering snug well-being first, and only allowing a certain stiffness to creep into her dining-room. It is possible to trace the changes in style, comfort, and taste more clearly in chairs than any other article of furniture. Earlier examples were covered with hide, which gave place later to tapestry and brocade, providing the often much-needed touch of warmth and colour in otherwise somber surroundings.

The Symbol of Progress

In mediaeval times it was the common custom to restrict the use of the chair exclusively for the host or a distinguished visitor, the others achieving but cold comfort on rough-hewn benches or forms. With the fall of serfdom the chair became a symbol of democratic progress till to-day the tiniest baby can claim his own particular seat. The Tudor chair, with its homeliness and solidity; the elegant Stuart chair, with its ever-present crowns so typical of the restoration; the delicate and masterly lines of Sheraton, Hepplewhite, and Chippendale are all so clearly defined in their different characteristics that it is not difficult to obtain an intelligent understanding of the principles of each. Such knowledge is of inestimable value to the enthusiastic shopper. Good reproductions of some of the best-known pieces are by no means to be despised, for they possess all the beauty of the originals, and have the added advantage of being obtainable at a very moderate cost.

THE DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR

PROVIDES THE EASIEST AND MOST PROFITABLE METHODS IN DAIRY FARMING.

The easiest because of its larger capacity.
The most profitable because it takes out all the cream.
If your Separator is an old worn-out one, or of an inferior make, the cream you are now losing will not only take care of the small monthly payments of a new De Laval, but will also show a profit besides. Liberal Terms arranged. Come in and talk over our new plan.

Power attachment can be supplied to all model De Laval's without removing handle.

Ontario Stays Dry

The Ontario Government will maintain and enforce the Ontario Temperance Act. At the conclusion of Friday's session of the Cabinet, when the results of the plebiscite voting were discussed, Hon. G. H. Ferguson, the Premier, issued a statement to the public. In it he says:

"Yesterday's pronouncement shows that the majority of those voting favored the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act. The Government is determined to pursue a consistent course. The basis upon which government rests under our institutions is that the majority must prevail. Disregard of this principle breeds discontent, which must inevitably develop into serious disorder.

"The popular will will be recognized and accepted, and the Act will remain upon the statute book. The Government will use its best efforts to give it efficient enforcement.

"The fact that the majority, as compared with the vote of 1919, has been much reduced may make it more difficult properly to enforce the Act, as public opinion is an essential factor in law enforcement. But as an opportunity was given to those opposed to the legislation to express their view, and as a majority pronounced against that view, the Government expects that the verdict will be accepted, and all efforts made toward the better enforcement of the Act will have the support of the people, irrespective of their personal views."

Autumn Wedding

LAMABE—OKE

A wedding of local interest took place at the home of the bride's parents in Detroit at 8 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, September 6th when Cosy Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Oke, formerly of St. Catharines, was married to Mr. George M. Lamabe of Detroit, formerly of St. Catharines. The bride who looked charming in a mandarin gown of white brocaded crepe with veil and orange blossoms, arranged in coronet fashion and carrying a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Mendelssohn Wedding March played by Miss Eva Tiffin, cousin of the bride. Dr. Ida Rae Oke of Boston attended her sister and was attired in a maize colored crepe gown and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Dr. Geo. K. Carpenter of Nashville, Tenn., acted as groomsmen. Rev. Dr. M. S. Rice of the Metropolitan Methodist Church performed the marriage ceremony before an embarkment of palms and ferns.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Max Rice of Toronto sang "All Joy Be Thine." After the buffet luncheon, which followed the wedding, Mr. Oke announced the engagement of their daughter Dr. Ida Rae Oke to Dr. George K. Carpenter of Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Lamabe and his bride left for an extended motor trip through Ontario and the lakes of Muskoka. Out of town guests were present from Toronto, Strathroy and Chatham, Ont.—"St. Catherine's Standard."

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Thousands Are Going Home For Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving this year falling on Monday, November 10th, allows an unusually long week end, and permits travelling distances which would be impossible in a shorter period. Thousands are arranging to visit the home folks or out-of-town friends.

The Passenger Department of the Canadian National Railways stated that special arrangements are being made on all routes to provide the public with every travelling comfort. Nevertheless, as it is impossible to estimate the number who will be travelling, it would be wise for all those who intend leaving town to make their reservations both going and returning, as soon as possible.
