Donald J. Macdonell, 67, Instantly Killed Tuesday, When Ladder To Mow Broke—Was Widely Known And Esteemed.

Instantly killed in a fall to the barn floor when rungs of the ladder to his haymow broke, Donald J. Macdonell, 67 prominent resident of the Glen Nevis area died Tuesday. The accident was one of the most distressing to have occurred in many years, Mr Macdonell being one of the most widely known and esteemed residents of Glengarry.

Mr Macdonell had gone to the barn about 11.45 a.m. and when he did not return his daughter, Mrs J. W. MacRae, went in search of him and found him face down on the barn floor at the foot of a ladder leading to the hay mow. A rung of the ladder had apparently given way throwing him to the barn floor.

Dr. D. J. Dolan, coroner, and Rev Ronald J. MacDonald, Alexandria, were called. No inquest will be held.

A son of the late Alex. Christopher Macdonell and his wife, Ellen Macdonald, the late Mr Macdonell was born on lot 16-6th Lancaster, Glen Nevis, and had resided there through out his lifetime. Among the leading residents of the community, he was most active in the affairs of St. Margaret's parish and played a prominent part in the field of local education for which the Glen Nevis area is noted.

A staunch Liberal, he was always active in the affairs of the riding and in 1943 Mr Macdonell filled the role of Returning Officer for the county in the Provincial election.

In addition to his wife, the former Claire Quinn of Curry Hill, he leaves to mourn his tragic passing four daughters: Mrs Finner Macdonald of Cornwall; Mrs J. W. MacRae and Mrs J. B. MacDonald, Glen Nevis; and Miss Elizabeth Macdonell a patient in Banff Hospital, Banff, Alberta. One sister, Miss Ella Macdonell, R.N. resides in Montreal.

The funeral is being held this (Friday) morning from his late residence for Mass at 10 o'clock in St. Margaret's Church, Glen Nevis. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.

Town Has Ample Reserve Fuelwood

Sawing of the 3-foot wood on the town's fuel lot is proceeding this week under direction of W. Decoste. The Council this year purchased 502 cords of 3-foot wood and it is anticipated this reserve will more than cover the needs of our citizens, most of whom had early in the year filled their own fuel requirements.

This will in all probability be the last year Council buys wood, it being the intention to return responsibility for adequate wood supply to local dealers now that wartime scarcities are easing.

The Fuel Controller at Ottawa, recently advised Council that Alexandria has now been placed on the same footing as Cornwall in regard to wood prices. Under new price ceilings $4.65 can be asked for body maple, foot wood, and $4.05 for second grade mixed woods, 12-inch.

Call Tenders On School Building

High School Plans Purchase Temporary Buildings From W.A.

Alexandria High School Board is calling for tenders on temporary school buildings which are to be used to relieve present congestion in the local school and for the introduction of new courses. The buildings, which include one capable of being transformed into four rooms, and a heating unit, are being purchased from War Assets Corporation. They are at the former Centre Lake Prisoner of War Camp near Petawawa, Ont., and will be dismantled there and moved to the High School grounds for re-erection.

The local Board is considering the introduction of a Commercial Course and extension of the present Shop-work and Home Economics courses in the school next year. At least one new classroom will be needed to cope with the steadily rising attendance.

Members of the Board met Wednesday at the school with Messrs. Davies and Lemieux, the High School inspectors who visited the school this week.

MARRIAGE

FRASER—McMEEKIN

Miss Isabel McMeekin, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs W. J. McMeekin of Brodie, was the radiant bride of Thomas Fraser, son of Mr and Mrs Duncan Fraser of Ste Anne de Prescott in a beautiful home wedding the afternoon of October twenty-sixth. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, the Rev R. H. McKelvey, beneath a double arch of arbor vitae in which had been placed two hearts tied together with white satin ribbon and rosebuds.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of satin with double tulle skirt. The head-dress of her fingertip veil was embroidered with pearls. Her arm bouquet was of red roses.

Miss Margaret Fraser, sister of the groom, lighted the candles and Miss Marion Brodie was maid of honor. Miss Brodie's dress was blue tulle over taffeta, caught up with tiny rosebuds. She carried pink roses and chrysanthemums.

Mr. Roderick Fraser of Ste. Anne de Prescott, was bestman for his brother The Processional was played by Miss Etta McMeekin, sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was given to eighty guests, which included only the close relatives and neighbors, assisting Mrs McMeekin in entertaining were Mrs Catherine McIntosh, Mrs J. A. McIntosh, Mrs Margaret Cameron and Miss Margaret MacGillivray, all of Dalkeith, and Mrs Nat. Hinos and Mrs. W. C. Jameson of Brodie.

Guests from a distance were Mrs Edgerton, Mrs. Harry and son Frank of Syracuse, N.Y. Mr James McMillan from Montana, and the Misses Kathleen and Etta McMeekin and Miss Verna McDonald of Ottawa.

Immediately after the reception the bride and bridegroom left for a short wedding trip. The best wishes and prayers of many friends go with this fine couple as they establish their Christian home.

The Saturday following the wedding Marion Brodie entertained over sixty guests at an unusual Shower held in the Covenanter Manse honoring Mrs Thos. Fraser. The guests were asked to wear their own or their mother's wedding gowns and eighteen took part in this Pageant of the Brides of Yesterday. Appropriate music was furnished by Mrs Clarence McMillan on the violin accompanied by Mrs Lewis Fraser on the organ.

Perhaps the gown which caused the most comment was that modelled by Mrs Douglas McMillan. It was of dark green and rose changeable taffeta, made with hoopskirt and train and had been worn by her grandmother MacEwen who was in turn great-granddaughter of Lochiel's pioneer Covenanter, Mr John Brodie. This bride of sixty years ago wore this gown through a terrible snowstorm the dozen miles to Vankleek Hill where it was necessary to go at that time to find a minister to perform the ceremony.

A History Of The 'Brodie Church' As Covenanters Mark 100th Year

1846-1946

"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us"

The Covenanter Church at Brodie, Henryville, La Chute and Perth settle called the Lochiel Reformed Presbyterian Church, set up its hundredth Ebenezer on the 15th day of last October.

About a year ago there was found among the records of the Almonte Covenanters a hand-made booklet, written by the late Rev. Robt. Shields in 1876 and entitled, "A Historical Sketch of the Lochiel Congregation in the County of Glengarry." From this "Sketch" we discovered that 1846 was our Centennial summer, and it is also from this "Sketch" that many of the facts in the short history below are gleaned.

The Lochiel Covenanter Church 1846-1946

In 1815, Mr. John Brodie brought his family from Scotland to settle on a grant of land in the wilderness, given by the Government and situated in the County of Glengarry midway between the rivers St. Lawrence and Ottawa and about halfway between the cities of Montreal and Bytown, now called Ottawa.

Mr. Brodie was accompanied by many Scottish neighbors and acquaintances but his was the only family who were then Covenanters. Toll and privation were endured by these early settlers but the want of the preached word was felt by them as the greatest hardship of all. In spite of the lack of church services, however Mr. and Mrs. Brodie were careful to instruct their children not only in the fundamental doctrines of religion but also in the distinctive principles of the Covenanter Church. It is almost certain that the existence of a congregation of Covenanters in Lochiel is largely due to the diligent and prayerful training given by Mrs Brodie to her children at her fireside. Simple in her tastes and in some respects uncultivated in her manners, her memory is nevertheless cherished with love and admiration by those whom she led into the love of the Lord. The Lochiel Church is still known locally as "the Brodie Church."

Sometime in 1829 Rev. Jas Milligan of Ryegate, Vt., visited Lochiel while on a missionary tour through Canada. He formed "Societies" at Electors of Lancaster and Lochiel townships and Alexandria will ballot early next week to complete the rosters of municipal officers in these three areas. Voting in Lancaster Township and in Alexandria will be on Monday, Dec. 9th and in Lochiel one day later on Tuesday, Dec. 10th.

The complete slates of officers in Charlottentown, Kenyon and Maxville, have been returned by acclamation for another term, while Lancaster Village holds its nomination proceedings later this month.

In all three municipalities, balloting will be on only a part of the council boards and in view of this fact there may be a tendency on the part of the electors to stay away from the polls in larger numbers than usual. It is only fair to the candidates that the vote be representative of every section of the municipality and electors are urged to make it a point to get out and vote—only then can the result be said to be representative of the desires of the citizens as a whole.

In Lochiel the balloting will be for the reeveship; in Lancaster township for deputy reeveship and council seats, and in Alexandria for council seats alone.

Election-eve messages from the candidates will be found on pages 3 and 5 of this issue. Through special arrangements with those running for office in Lancaster township, a copy of this issue is being sent to every box holder in the township.

The voting in each municipality will be as follows:

On Monday Dec. 9th.

CHIT CHAT

Eileen MacLeod

Since our last column winter has shown every indication that he has come to stay and the young minds are having visions of skating and skiing. As yet we have not heard anything about a skating rink and the pupils are beginning to wonder?? In this connection we appreciate the effort of the taxi and bus drivers, to have the pupils at the school before the bell rings, despite the heavy roads.

Last week no doubt you read in this paper that we had purchased a film projector machine with sound projector and record player attachment. This week with the aid of the sound projector attachment we were able to listen, to the weekly radio broadcast, in two rooms. The record attachment will be tried at the Cadet Dance in the Hub on Friday, the thirteenth. You will notice that we are not superstitious.

This week the inspectors, Mr Davies and Mr Lemieux, made their annual visit to the school. We hope that they were not disappointed in what they saw and heard

Mr Leo Sauve was an over week end visitor to Montreal.

En route from Montreal to Brodie Friday, Miss B. M. MacGillivray called to see her good friend, Mrs G. Hanley.

Pat. Robertson recently completed a new cistern. Really the right name should be Loch Garry as the cistern will almost hold as much water.

The Glen volunteer fire brigade are to be congratulated on the splendid work they did on the night the Aluminium plant was destroyed. Although the fire caught in nearby buildings, they by heroic work managed to save them. May we add that the neighbors who were in the path of the fire wish to thank those who rendered such great assistance in saving their homes.

Everything comes to those who wait and the kiddies waited patiently for their first skate of the season which was Saturday.

John D. McRae, Dalkeith, was a business visitor here Saturday.

We congratulate Mr and Mrs Robert Wylie who on Monday celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. On the above morning both attended their anniversary mass in St. Martin of Tours church, celebrated by their son, Rev J. A. Wylie of Glen Nevis. They were at home to their friends in the afternoon and evening when a number of neighbors and friends gathered to congratulate the bride and groom of 50 years. There was no decision reached at a factory meeting held here Tuesday evening. The Gore Patrons, their factory having been destroyed by fire this fall are undecided whether to rebuild or come to the Glen. If so the factory here would have to be remodelled as the curing room would be too small. As it is the factory has to be repainted. Pigeons Flout Laws;

Protected by Friends

The pigeon is a noisy bird, especially when it begins to bill and coo in the early morning. Its habits, too, are anything but cleanly. Ordinances against keeping pigeons in congested districts probably are justified, but their enforcement is all but impossible.

Because the pigeon, like the English sparrow and the starling, finds its self-preservation in the instinct to live with men. The pigeon is a free agent. Everywhere there is a building, or a steeple, or overhanging eaves, there is its safe harbor. In the very cities that prohibit the raising of pigeons, pigeons belonging to nobody make free with the city itself. They are the most indefatigable of squatters. They make friends with men. They are fed by children. They are as tame as puppies.

For protection, their wings, on which they swoop and curve and lift and drop as animated poems. A sudden noise sends them whirling into the air, but their confidence is soon restored. They cannot be hunted or poisoned or exterminated because they have learned that for his own safety man cannot threaten theirs successfully.

And after all what is more eye filling than a flock of pigeons in the sunlight, or strutting on a lawn, or driving in wide circles in the sheer joy of flight against a background of clouds!

'Keep Your Hens Laying,'

Poultrymen Are Advised

Because the war has greatly increased the need for eggs, it will be unusually important for poultry flock owners to keep their layers in full production this summer, if possible, rather than permit them to slump in egg yield as the hot weather comes.

Layers now entering the last few months of the laying year are producing a maximum number of large eggs. These are particularly valuable eggs and their production must be encouraged and enhanced.

Feed prices are relatively high so poultrymen should be sure that they maintain in their flocks for the summer months only strong, vigorous, healthy hens capable of good egg production if given the proper chance.

There is always a tendency for egg yields to drop with the coming of the summer months. New pullet flocks are scarcely yet ready for large egg production. The older layers must furnish the needed eggs during June, July and August.

Keep 'em laying. This can be done by providing comfortable quarters which are well ventilated, clean, sanitary and well lighted.

Identify Army Planes

Walt Disney, producer of animated motion pictures, is utilizing the facilities of his studios for the United States army signal corps in the production of a training film, "Identification of United States Army Aircraft," the war department announced recently.

This film, to be used by the army air forces, will combine aerial photography, animation, and models. Its primary purpose is to facilitate identification of United States planes under various conditions. Mr. Disney acquired experience in this type of production in his recent film, "The West System of Aircraft Identification," which was produced for the navy department.

It is planned to make the army training film available to the armed forces of the United Nations.

Aussie Airmen Lose Kangaroo

A group of Australian airmen visiting Canada are worried that their kangaroo mascot will not survive the cool nights of the Province of Quebec. They lost the animal while passing through the city.

The airmen were coming in from Halifax to Montreal by rail, with the young kangaroo comfortably berthed in a dunnage bag. At St. Lambert, a suburb of Montreal, the kangaroo was placed with other baggage on the rear platform of the train. Annoyed at some rough handling, the Aussies' mascot got literally hopping mad, jumped from the bag and, clearing the train in one leap, disappeared.

Rigger Requirements

A rigger in a shipyard is required to tie several kinds of knots, the following being among those in greatest demand: single blackwall hitch; double blackwall hitch; clove hitch; becket hitch; single becket bend; double becket bend; stopper hitch; barrel sling; shorten sling; anchor hitch; single bowline; double bowline; sheet bend; sheepshank; square knot; timber hitch; two half hitches; catspaw; fisherman's bend. The short splice, long splice and eye splice are required for splicing wire and manila rope.

Ireland's Worst Storm

The big wind refers to a storm which began January 6, 1839, and raged for two days and nights along the coasts of Ireland and England. It was the most devastating storm in Ireland within the memory of man. Many lives were lost in Dublin and Liverpool, the Irish sea was strewn with wrecks of ships, and hundreds of houses were blown down in Galway, Limerick, Athlone and other places. Much additional damage was caused by fires started and fanned by the gale.

Maryvale Abbey Holds Graduation

Graduation exercises at Maryvale Abbey, Glen Nevis, were held November 11th, opening with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the convent chapel at 7.30 o'clock.

The ceremonies proper, were carried out in St. Margaret's Hall, festive in streamers of blue and white, school crests, yellow 'mums, ferns and evergreen. Dominating the stage was a statue of the Blessed Virgin, around which the graduates in their formal white gowns were pleasingly grouped. The salutatory was delivered by Miss Margaret O'Shea with a warmth that suggested the hospitality for which Glengarry is famous. Following a three-part rendition of "The Royal Minuet" by the girls of Grades IX to XIII, Rev. J. A. Wylie, P.P. presented the prizes donated by Rt. Rev. D. R. Macdonald, D.P. These were won by Miss Muriel Black, for highest standing in Upper School; Miss Margaret O'Shea, second highest standing and Miss Gisele Gauthier highest standing in Middle School. The prize for school spirit donated by Rev. Sister Superior was won by Miss Norah Quinn.

Rev. J. A. Wylie, after paying tribute to the graduates and to their Alma Mater, introduced the guest speaker Rev. B.J. Kennedy, O.M.I. of Ottawa, who conducted the students' retreat opening on Nov. 12. Father Kennedy emphasized the importance of Catholic education recalling the gratitude due to the founder of Maryvale Rt. Rev. D. R. Macdonald, Miss Muriel Black delivered the valedictory in an earnest, pleasing manner. In response to the invitation of the capable chairman Cecil Jardin, Rev. A.L. Cameron, P.P. St. Columban's Cornwall and former pastor of Glen Nevis added his congratulations to those of the other speakers. Father Cameron likewise lauded the founder of the school and appealed for a more extensive use of its facilities.

A group of eight high school girls in picturesque costumes performed the minuet with a grace that won applause. Obviously much enjoyed also was a Spanish dance, the Jota by Misses Celia and Ann Maria Gonzalez. A second number by the high school choir, "Husheen," effectively concluded the program.

Following the graduation ceremonies, an opportunity was provided for social intercourse when the graduates and their guests were served refreshments Miss Christina MacDonald and Mrs. W. J. O'Shea presided at the tea table, which was centred with bronze baby 'mums.

Graduating from Upper School were Misses Muriel Black, Margaret O'Shea and Norah Quinn; and from Middle School, Misses Gisele Gauthier, Patricia MacNeil, and Frances O'Shea.

AUX ELECTEURS DU CANTON DE LANCASTER.

Le 9 décembre, il sera votre devoir comme citoyen et contribuable du Canton de Lancaster d'aller voter pour un nouveau conseil municipal pour vous représenter.

J'ai permis que mon nom paraisse sur le scrutin comme conseiller et je vous demande sincèrement de me donner votre support. Je vous assure que si je suis élu, j'essaierai de servir les contribuables de notre canton au meilleur de ma connaissance.

Josephus Filion For Deputy-Reeve

To The Electors of the Township of Lancaster.

Dear Electors:—

Eight years ago you gave me the privilege and the honour by your support of electing me one of your councillors. Your confidence gave me the opportunity of associating myself with a group of men who at all times were on the alert to serve all in our township in a fair and just way.

On Nov. 23rd our Reeve Mr. W. J. Major after many years of valuable and faithful service to our township and wanting new men to be trained that they could in future continue to administer the affairs of our township resigned in favor of our Deputy Reeve Mr. T. Scott Fraser. Hoping that I could still be of service to our township I have accepted nomination of Deputy Reeve and trust that on election day December 9th I will have your support.

The pressure of my work prevents me from making a personal call on you, and I take this means of asking for your support at the polls.

Yours obediently,

AUX Electeurs du Canton de Lancaster.

Chers Electeurs,

Il y a huit ans, vous m'avez rendu le privilège et l'honneur de vous représenter au conseil en m'élisant un de vos conseillers. Votre confiance m'a donné l'occasion de rencontrer un groupe d'hommes toujours disposés à servir le canton loyalement.

Le 22 novembre, notre "reeve" M. W. J. Major, après plusieurs années de service fidèle et après avoir administré notre canton d'un manière efficace a démissionné afin de permettre l'entraînement de nouveaux conseillers pour garantir une bonne administration. Il a été remplacé par un homme d'expérience, notre "deputy reeve", M. T. Scott Fraser.

Espérant que je pourrais encore servir les intérêts de notre canton, j'ai accepté la nomination comme "deputy reeve". J'apprécie l'honneur et je promets que si j suis élu, je protégerai vos intérêts à l'avenir, comme je l'ai toujours fait. Je demande alors votre support aux élections du 9 décembre.

Je regrette de ne pouvoir solliciter votre vote personnellement, car le surcroît de mon travail m'en empêche, et je prends ce moyen pour vous demander votre appui au poll.

Votre serviteur,

Josephus Filion, Jr.

Bank Nova Scotia Reports Progress

TORONTO—Substantial progress in all major phases of operations is reflected in the One Hundred and Fifteenth Annual Statement of the Bank of Nova Scotia, released to-day.

The statement, which covers the fiscal year ended October 31, 1946, shows deposits, loans, investments and total assets at the highest level in the Bank's history. Net profit for the year after taxes of $1,614,600 and depreciation of $398,277 was $1,588,455 as against $1,304,496 on a comparable basis in the previous year.

At the year end, total assets amounted to $96,175,430, an increase of $82,000,000. Liquid position continues strong. Cash clearings and balances due from other banks of $118,378,693 represent 17.97 per cent of total liabilities to the public. Total Quick Assets, which include this figure together with investments and call and short loans secured by stocks and bonds, amount to $492,584,488 and represent 74.78 per cent of liabilities to the public.

Investments increased by more than $50,000,000 during the year to a total of $360,539,538, of which 85 per cent is in Dominion and Provincial securities. Municipal securities are shown at $9,163,346. Public securities other than Canadian at $29,152,407, and other bonds, debentures and stocks at $15,320,114. All securities are carried at amounts not exceeding market value.

Loans other than call loans show an increase of over $36,000,000 at $158,568,349. Current loans in Canada, are $31,300,000 above a year ago, account for most of the larger total and reflect a considerable increase in loans to individuals and to small and large businesses throughout the Dominion. Loans elsewhere than in Canada are $5,800,000 higher than in the previous year. Loans to Provincial and Municipal governments are down $675,000 and call loans are $10,000,000 under the 1945 figure. Acceptances and letters of credit outstanding are up about $6,600,000.

Total deposits at $617,564,099 are $76,221,763 higher than a year ago. Most of this increase is in interest-bearing deposits which are up $43,000,000. Non-interest bearing deposits of the public advanced more than $21,000,000, and deposits of the Dominion and Provincial governments are up $6,000,000.

The annual meeting of the Bank's shareholders was held in Halifax on December 4th.

Discusses Four Basic Needs for Happiness

Four ways to promote human happiness in spite of the war were described by Dr. M. E. John, associate professor of rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State college.

Four basic desires must be satisfied if people are to be happy, in either wartime or normal times, Dr. John said. They are (1) the desire for recognition, (2) the desire to explain one's relationship to his environment, (3) satisfaction of physiological needs, and (4) affectionate family relationships.

"War does not change these needs in people," he said. "It merely changes the way we meet them. Where customary activities are thwarted, substitutes must be found."

Families whose sons have gone to war, for example, should substitute increased participation in community activities for interrupted family relationships, he suggested. Civilian defense projects and work in organized charities will prevent loneliness and self-pity.

Furthermore, in group activities many people will develop unsuspected talents and receive the recognition they need to be happy.

The need for physical stamina in wartime steps up the attention given to health and nutrition problems and thus contributes to the sum total of human happiness, Dr. John added. Communities who want contented citizens must provide sanitation and adequate housing for them.

Is This an Example of Nature Making an Error?

One of the finds of the Smithsonian institution expedition which spent the summer exploring ancient deposits in Montana was the fossilized skeleton of a bird-footed dinosaur. This creature, according to Charles W. Gilmore, leader of the expedition, left a track which, except for its size, was strikingly like that of a present-day bird.

Living 120 million years ago this animal represents one of Nature's attempts to alter her monsters of that age to enable them to endure the changing conditions on earth. The bird-dinosaur weighed less than a ton. Unlike some of the heavier members of the family whose legs would barely support their great weight it possessed speed which enabled it to escape many dangers to which the large slow creatures fell prey.

Of course Nature went farther in the bird direction and created flying reptiles with a 20-foot wingspread. These are known to us as pterodactyls. They proved, however, to be one of Nature's mistakes. Neither flying nor walking well they were entirely unfitted to live in the hostile surroundings in which they found themselves. They would drop on their prey from the air, but once on the ground they were practically helpless and would have to crawl to the top of a hill to again launch themselves.

For a Close Shave
Modern American women, who are used to clean-shaven men, possibly were more disturbed than anyone else when the War Production board restricted the number of razor blades that may be manufactured. However, the conservation bureau of OPA came to their rescue, and gave out instructions as to how the life and usefulness of the blades may be extended. Proper shaving technique and correct care of the blade after the shave, say these Washington authorities, go a long way toward prolonging the usefulness of razor blades. Washing the face thoroughly with soap and water before shaving is one of the steps recommended not only by the OPA but also by most of the manufacturers of shaving soaps and creams. This face washing helps the lather to make each individual hair less resistant to the blade. The dull edge of the blade serves also to reduce the chances of infection from razor cuts.

What'll They Think Up Next?
Development of a new technique in wrapping oranges and other citrus makes possible preservation of these products for several months. Tests in the laboratories of the Florida Experiment station demonstrated that grapefruit wrapped in polyfilm and stored at 70 degrees temperature for seven months retained its texture and juices, and seed showed no indication of sprouting. The wrapping allows transmission of carbon dioxide with enough rapidity to keep the fruit from suffocating, but transmits moisture vapor slowly enough to prevent loss of moisture, retaining the juices and fullness of the fruit, and preserving vitamin content.

Good Eyes for Production
Good eyes are exactly as important on the production line as on the firing line.

Studies in recent years have indicated that approximately half of the workers in industry had visual defects. With the withdrawal of the younger men to the armed forces, very likely somewhere near 60 per cent of the war workers have shortcomings in vision. It is estimated that half of the adults with visual defects, through ignorance or neglect fail to correct such defects and bring their eyes up to par. Thus it appears likely that several million war workers are carrying on their tasks in a half-seeing world.

Fourteen Weddings in White House Since 1811

There have been 14 White House weddings. With the years in which they occurred, they were those of: 1811—Lucy Payne Washington, Mrs. Madison's sister, and Justice Todd of the United States Supreme court.

1812—Anna Todd and Representative John G. Jackson.

1820—Maria Monroe, daughter of the President, and Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur.

1826—Helen Jackson and John Adams, son of the President.

1829—Delia Lewis and Alphonse Yver Pagot.

1835—Mary Easton and Lucien B. Polk.

1837—Emily Martin and Lewis Randolph.

1842—Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of the President, and William Waller.

1874—Nellie Grant, daughter of the President, and Algernon Sartoris.

1878—Emily Pratt, niece of President Hayes, and Gen. Russell Hastings.

1886—Frances Folsom and President Grover Cleveland.

1906—Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the President, and Congressman Nicholas Longworth.

1913—Jessie Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the President, and Francis Bowes Sayre.

1914—Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President, and William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury.

Five Sleep Inducers for The War Public to Try

Thought control (to induce sleep) varies all the way from counting sheep to the more esoteric forms of autophony, research shows. All schemes are methods of limiting consciousness. Each of the following plans has its adherents:

1—Listening to imaginary drops of rain falling on an imaginary tin roof (said to be better than counting sheep because it requires less mental effort).

2—Assigning names to each letter of the alphabet. A is for Albert, B is for Benjamin, etc. (Or take animals, fish, names of countries, anything you like.)

3—Painting large imaginary 3s extremely slowly on a large black wall with an imaginary brush and an imaginary tin of imaginary white paint. (This one is cited on the authority of an eminent psychologist, who is of the opinion that anybody who paints three of the 3s in this very slow manner will find it virtually impossible to keep awake.)

4—Repeated religious formulas or mantras. (For those who are ill at ease or unaccustomed to move in this sphere, the age-old Buddhist formula, "Om mani padme hum," has been found efficacious in lifting the mind out of its preoccupations.)

5—Reciting nonsense verses slowly, over and over. (Lewis Carroll's "Jabberwocky" or Edward Lear's limericks will come in handy here.)

Traveler's Tree for Thirsty People
Madagascar, erroneously called the land of the man-eating tree, is in truth the land of the tree-drinking man.

British soldiers landing on the big French island off southeast Africa will find no carnivorous vegetation larger than the pitcher plant. This shrub, four feet high, bears jug-shaped, water-filled pitchers in which it traps and digests unwary insects.

What the exploring Britons will enjoy is the Traveler's Tree, a life-saver for the thirsty. It is a palm, often 100 feet high, whose big fronds condense moisture and collect it in a natural reservoir close to the trunk. A spear tap, and out gushes a quart of pure, sweet water, says the National Geographic society.

Free Postage
The franking privilege, that is, the right to send mail without paying postage, is extended under three heads: Congressional frank mail, for members of the legislative branch of the federal government; official penalty mail (under penalty for private use) for members of the executive and judicial branches of the government and personal free mail under the franking privilege for members of the armed forces of the United States and generally conferred on widows of Presidents of the United States.

Efficient Tractor Operation
To operate a tractor at full load costs only one-eighth more than at half load, but twice as much work is accomplished. The only noticeable difference in full-load operating costs is increased fuel consumption. Other costs, including labor, depreciation and maintenance, remain almost the same. Farmers who are pressed for labor this year can well keep this in mind. Pulling more than one implement at a time and operating at higher speeds are two ways to keep the tractor well loaded.

If You Get a Vacation
To prevent week-end traffic congestion, Joseph B. Eastman, director of defense transportation, urged vacationists to do their traveling during the middle of the week whenever possible. At the same time, Mr. Eastman said that vacations should be staggered throughout the year instead of being concentrated during the summer months.

The Brodie Church Marked Centenary

He had a wagon factory and his customers knew that he put the best material and workmanship into every article he made. He invented and manufactured stone-fitting machines which were widely used by settlers in this part of Ontario. At least one of these machines was still being used a few years ago.

Another child of the first Mr Brodie is still mentioned by neighbors in this community as having been an outstanding man of God. "Uncle Andrew," as he is affectionately remembered, said at the time of the Rev. Clyde's death that he regretted that Mr Clyde had been privileged to enter heaven ahead of him. Within a few months "Uncle Andrew" joined his friend and pastor in the heavenly Home and after his death, a Roman Catholic neighbor said if he could believe that any Protestant would be found in heaven, it would be "Uncle Andrew."

Such may be the continued influence for good of godly parents and such also is the influence for evil of one talented but godless leader. God's work, however, triumphs.

In 1871, the name of the congregation was changed from Glengarry to Lochiel. Though we are in the heart of Ralph Connor's Glengarry country and the familiar names in his books such as MacDonald, MacRae, Fraser Sabourin are still found among our close neighbors, yet because our church is in Lochiel Township, the name was changed.

Until this year, the Lochiel people had worshipped where they could, one communion service being held in a new barn on Mr McMeekin's farm. Later they met in the old Brodie school house. But in 1871 they began to build the present frame building on land given by James Brodie. In five years it was completed at a cost of about $600, the greater part of which had been contributed by three men, no doubt at much sacrifice. These Scotch men were most generous in the work of their Lord.

A story of these early days illustrates the generous spirit of the Glengarry people who though poor were ever ready to divide with those less fortunate. Yankee Jim, a character mentioned in "The Man from Glengarry," was a dashing ne'er-do-well from the Eastern Townships in Quebec. Captured when a young man by the Indians of northern New York, he was held by them as a slave. Each day he went hunting for the tribe while they watched him closely lest he escape. Each day he idly wandered farther while the vigilance of the Indians relaxed until one morning he went "hunting" and did not return. He escaped to Glengarry and in his old age, homeless and friendless, he lived in the homes of Wm Brodie and John MacDougal. Yankee Jim is buried in our Lochiel cemetery.

On Nov 2nd, 1872, the Lochiel congregation with entire unanimity engaged in swearing the Covenant of 1871.

During all these years, Lochiel had had no settled pastor, perhaps due to the fewness of their number, the severity of the long Canadian winters, and the remoteness of their situation. Licentiatees were warned to come in the summer time. If they came down the St. Lawrence river or on the Grand Trunk Railway, they were advised to take the stage coach from Lancaster; if down the Ottawa, to disembark at L'Orignal; or if they came by Montreal, they were told to come by boat up the river De Grasse to Dalkeith. In spite of having no pastor, however, the steadfast loyalty of the people to their Saviour King never wavered and in 1887 they welcomed their first pastor, the Rev. R. C. Allen. Mr Allen with members of his congregation, conducted a Sabbath School in Glen Robertson which bore fruit that still remains in the lives of Christian people there.

Mr Allen was followed in 1897 by the Rev. Charles Clyde whose pastorate, though short, was most acceptable. The membership at this time numbered twenty-nine but Mr Clyde usually preached to a full house. In 1901 he suddenly died of pneumonia. The kindness of the neighbors to his widow and nine small children is still remembered by her.

Rev W. G. Robb was called in 1904. He remained only a year and a half but in that short time, he had much encouraged the temperance cause of the community.

The next pastor, the Rev. J. R. Latimer, served the congregation faithfully and well for twenty years. During his first year, 1908, Wm Jamieson, the man of prayer, and his brother John, also a godly man, died on the same day and were buried together.

Following Mr Latimer, the present pastor, the Rev. R. H. McKelvy, was ordained and installed in 1928. There are twenty-five members in Lochiel at the present time. The elders are William F. Brodie, Sr., and William C. Jamieson. The deacons are William A. F. Brodie, Jr., James Jamieson, and William McMeekin.

As we look back over Lochiel's ever-widening Christian influence two truths stand out prominently. One is: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." The other is: "Be not weary in well-doing for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

We have received a rich heritage from past generations. May we, by our faithfulness, follow their noble example. "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."—Henceforth may He use us.

CHAPTER 11

MacDonald swung back in his chair eyeing the sergeant oddly; but he could make nothing of O'Hara's keen attention. The sergeant's face was in the shade above the ring of light from the desk-lamp, but the inspector was aware of some subtle change in him as he spoke.

"You have that letter, sir?"

For answer his chief handed him a soiled, blood stained sheet of paper and Johnson's notes on the tragedy.

"There's humor that Ninon Creuse had a suitor when she was in the hospital in Quebec, but I can find no trace of him out here, and no one has ever heard of his appearing hereabouts. That's about the sum of all we know, O'Hara. You can study the details and see Johnson, he's better and able to talk business. Get your points clear, and then take the next train North. You know where Gharlan's place is?"

Macdonald rose to trace the trail on a wall map. "You'll have to take that route. One of the Hudson Bay lines runs nearest, after that, a dog team. Quarter the ground thoroughly. If Nicky Creuse seems to be only suspect, bring him in. It was noticeable that he didn't show up when we buried his sister. She and Gharlan are over there." The inspector waved his hand toward an unseen, white covered hill where the tops of tall black crosses just showed above the snow. "And it was enough to bring a loving brother, that burial. The girl was young, pretty, simply infatuated with that brute's good looks — for he was a brute—and she had been doing her duty as a nurse too. Here are your written instructions and the order. I had 'em made out to save time. Start as soon as you've seen Johnson."

"Anything else, sir?"

"Yes!" The inspector reached down into a drawer of his desk and held out two small dark objects. "The dead girl had these gripped tight, must have pulled them off the slayer's coat."

O'Hara's keen face sharpened as Macdonald handed him two mink tails.

"Pretty fair clew if you could spot the coat," his chief said grimly, "but probably you'll never lay eyes on it—till it's mended!"

O'Hara studied the tails. They had been torn out by the force of the dying girl's grip; the ends were ragged.

"You can't tell," he remarked thoughtfully. "Mudders do mighty queer things. This is all inspector?" Macdonald meditated for an instant, his big brows down, then he looked around at O'Hara sharply. "Just one more thing. I've got a notion Johnson's holding something back. He's a first-rate officer and I hate to think he's keeping anything up his sleeve so the other fellow can't make good while he's laid up. Get him to talk if you can."

"I'd like to ask one more question, sir."

"Go ahead."

"Do you happen to know where Gharlan's wife is now?"

Macdonald shook his head. She's been in Nova Scotia somewhere, taking care of a sick brother; that's Gharlan's story. The truth was he ill-treated her. There's a story he was the cause of her baby's death; while drunk and irresponsible he dropped the child or struck it. God knows which? She made no charge against him.

"The Crees out there and the trappers adored her said she was a saint. The child was buried back of the cabin; and then she left him. That's long ago. I'm trying to locate her now with the news of his death it'll be a relief. I'm thinking, poor woman! She's had nothing to do with him for at least two years; that I know for a fact. That's as far as we've got. You go and see Johnson. There's little time to get the train tonight. Take the first in the morning."

Then followed a few curt final instructions, and O'Hara found himself shutting the door, out again in the bitter January night. As he stepped out into the open he heard the whistle of a train at the crossing and knew it was the last one going north that evening; the first one in the morning left at six-fifteen.

His way did not take him past French Pete's, yet his feet turned automatically in that direction. He opened the door and held it in the driving gale. The fiddles still scraped out gay tunes, the feet of the dancers continued to stamp the old worn floor, but the little table at which he looked was empty, and the chair pushed aside. On the floor beneath lay a small dark object. O'Hara stepped softly into the room, picked it up, and went out, unnoticed. There was a delicate fragrance about it, a softness that yet held the shape of a woman's hand. It was a doekin gauntlet.

He thrust it into his pocket and went on, walking fast, his head bowed against the wind. He must see Johnson tonight. As he went he heard the train again, a long way off, crossing a bridge—sounds carry far on a frozen night. That terrible intuition, which was a part of him flashed on the lens of his subconscious mind. "She went on that. She's ahead of you, going north!" And again that face seemed to emerge like a wraith out of the darkness, possibly conjured by the subtle fragrance of her glove. Twice O'Hara thrust his hand into his pocket to cast the thing behind him, and twice his hand fell at his side. something — was it premonition or just a type of callow folly foreign to him—made him keep the article.

Then standing under the lamp in the hall outside of Johnson's sickroom, he read the crumpled, blood stained letter Gharlan had written to the girl before she came to nurse his wounds. It was a broken plea for forgiveness that established her ignorance of his marriage.

"Nicky was right to shoot me, Ninon! I'm married I never told you because she left me long ago, and hates me I treated her bad, dear girl, I confess it; but I could never treat you bad! You're the only girl I ever really loved, but I'll cut out my tongue before I offend you again! I'm wounded, hot with fever, and with no one but a drunken Cree to nurse me. Maybe it's all I deserve, but, Ninon, you're an angel of mercy—pity me! If you'd only come, your cool little hands, your sweet face—I'd live then! But maybe I'd better die Nicky will kill me if I don't give you up, and the thought of losing you is madness. The fever's getting me—Laure—that's her name—Laure haunts me. Her eyes—how they follow me! Forgive, forgive—"

It broke off as it began, abruptly, the raving of a fevered man, the remorse of one who had forgotten for a while this woman who still haunted him, this Laure, who must have had a hold upon him deeper in some respects even than his wild love for the girl.

The very remorse of it stirred again the subtle instinct in O'Hara's mind. This Laure, where was she? If she could keep a haunting hold on a fevered man, even while he avowed his love for another woman, there was something about her—beauty or sweetness or strength of soul—that even a fickle worthless man like Gharlan could not forget. Laurie? O'Hara was trying to imagine her, to summon up some picture of Gharlan's wife, when the nurse let him in to question Johnson.

Constable Johnson was a trifle feverish from his wound, and not a little he added absolutely nothing to his report, and O'Hara began to understand the inspector's doubts. The wounded man gave an impression that he was withholding something, but what? "He's got something up his sleeve!" the sergeant thought grimly. "He's a good fellow and he's got no cause to be jealous because I've got this particular job it's no peach! What the deuce is behind it all?"

Johnson told him where he lost the third party's tracks. "The streamer's frozen, there's a clump of Artic willows by the edge of it; the tracks went down there, deep in the snow. Fellow must have slipped, then he got on the ice and kept there. I never found where he got off it."

"Large tracks?"

"Some. And some small I measured 'em. It's all down in the report."

"I see! Two persons, then? The small ones might have been a woman's eh?" O'Hara was watching the sick man keenly.

Johnson's fever flush deepened. "Might be," he admitted, "but women don't take that trail alone, pard, not commonly!"

O'Hara admitted this, rising and going to the lamp to look over the notes he held in his hand. He felt the sick man's eyes following, and remembered Johnson's known reluctance to handle a case where a woman was involved; he had suffered bad luck once and believed himself unduly prejudiced!

Decidedly O'Hara was of the chief's opinion Johnson knew or had guessed something that he was holding back, but what was it? O'Hara took his time sorted his notes and slipped an elastic band over them. "I think that's all," he said cheerfully, returning to the bed to clasp the constable's uninjured hand. "I hope you come through soon, old man, and get back to help me on this job. I don't believe Nicky Creuse is guilty. S'long!"

Johnson murmured something unintelligible about "good luck," and sank back on his pillows with obvious relief. But, at the door, his visitor turned abruptly. "I've been thinking of Gharlan's wife. Find any trace of her about the cabin, letter or picture—or anything?"

Johnson met his eyes steadily, challengingly. "No," he replied after a moment. "I found no trace of her about the cabin."

Army, Too, Conserves

On Rubber With Horses

Ol' Dobbin's comeback as a result of the rubber shortage took a new spurt with the announcement by the war department that it is replacing more than 1,500 administrative motor vehicles with animal-drawn vehicles at army posts, camps, and stations throughout the country.

The first phase of this new step in the army's campaign to conserve rubber and other materials classified as "critical" resulted in the replacement of 580 trucks at 47 posts by the Quartermaster corps, services of supply. This group alone is expected to save approximately 121,800 pounds of rubber a year, with the entire program saving approximately 315,000 pounds a year.

Vehicles to be replaced are of the administrative type, used mostly for intra-camp jobs such as collecting trash, ashes and garbage and hauling freight and coal. Most of them are of 1½-ton capacity.

Prior to issuance of the order, a survey was made of existing stable and forage facilities. These are being put to immediate use, with new facilities planned as the program expands.

Because of the mechanization of cavalry, an ample supply of horses is available. Some of these former cavalry mounts are being reclassified as light draft animals. Horses, mules, wagons and harnesses are being supplied by the quartermaster corps.

The Task of Preventing

Arthritis Is a Big One

Correction of living habits, proper diet and removal of foci of infection do not always result in disappearance of pain or other symptoms in the joints in cases of arthritis, according to Dr. Maurice F. Lautman.

"Perhaps one of the greatest difficulties encountered in successfully preventing disease is the human tendency to gamble with health," the author says. "Too much reliance is placed on the hope that nature, if not interfered with, will take care of everything. This belief as far as arthritis is concerned is, unfortunately, frequently disastrous. It is quite true that the individual who is threatened with arthritis has his work cut out for him."

"The task of preventing arthritis is not an easy one to be sure, but one has only to contemplate the countless persons who are disabled or hopelessly crippled to realize that as far as arthritis is concerned, the ounce of prevention will be worth tons of cure."

High School Students to Farm

Farmers of central grain belt states, faced with a shortage of labor for July and August harvests, are watching with interest an experiment in Washington state involving use of junior and senior high school students in tending and harvesting truck garden, berry and other crops which contribute heavily to the food reservoir of this important defense industry area. The vanguard of thousands of workers needed at the peak of the harvest already are in the fields—recruits from schools throughout the state under a state-wide "Food for Victory" program. In the Seattle and Tacoma areas, representatives of schools, the Parent-Teacher association and the U. S. employment service have been marshaling for some time the potential farm labor capacity of high schools.

The program is necessary, according to the American Municipal association, because migrant laborers no longer are available, military service and war industries have taken many farm workers and the Japanese evacuation has taken many others.

Slip Me a Fag, Bud

In recent weeks Mrs. J. R. Cassibry, camp hostess at Keesler Field Miss., has been carrying a handy pack of cigarettes whenever she visits the public relations office at the camp. She learned a lesson not long ago. Mrs. Cassibry was sitting in the office one day, minding her own business, when one of the reporters on the camp paper, sitting across the room, turned from his typewriter, glanced her way and shouted: "Joyce, give me a cigarette!" Mrs. Cassibry looked up, startled, explained apologetically she didn't smoke herself but realized she well could carry a pack of smokes about with her. The reporter was no less startled and just as apologetic. Point was, he explained, he really was yelling at Pvt. Richard Joyce, another reporter. He didn't know that Mrs. Cassibry's first name was "Joyce!"

Historic Pitchfork Displayed

The famous pitchfork that once pointed at the seat of Rudolph Hess' trousers and helped bring about his capture is now on exhibit in one of the windows of a prominent clothing store in Montreal, Quebec. The two-pronged fork held the No. 2 Nazi at bay in May of last year when he parachuted to a farm in Scotland, not far from the estate of the duke of Hamilton.

David MacLean, Scottish farmer and owner of the farm, used the pitchfork to capture the German leader. An interesting sidelight on the history of the pitchfork is that it was made in Canada, and is now back in Quebec province after valuable service overseas.

Plainly And Bluntly

To put it plainly and bluntly there can never be peace in a pagan world. There can never be peace of any kind — at home, in business or between nations.

And a pagan world doesn't necessarily mean a world of infidels. It can mean a world of people very much like you and me—even those of us who go to church, believe in God and the possibility of a better life, both here and hereafter.

It does, however mean a world of people who do not let these beliefs seriously affect their lives. A pagan does not believe in a better world seriously enough to work for it. He works instead to GET all he can out of the life he knows. His is a philosophy of demand and he is bound to run bang up against all the others who demand something for themselves. He, therefore, shapes a world where clash, dead lock, divorce, delinquency and war are not only possible but inevitable.

The opposite to a pagan is a Christian—and not just a pious man—not just a church goer with a private plan for personal salvation—but a go-getter with a workable plan for salvation of the world. He believes in a better way of life enough to work for it. And not only in the hereafter but here and now.

The effective Christian, moreover, not only believes in God but believes that God can tell him HOW to build this better world. As a result of what he "hears" in this way, you find him outchanging lives, building teamwork winning the hearts and minds of the millions. You find him living to make the other fellow great—the one way to unite men and nations, and build a world where war is impossible—even unthinkable.

TIME BOMBS

It's not how much you make that makes you but how much you give.

Teamwork by amateurs can accomplish what even experts hesitate to tackle.

If all we love is our reputation, that won't help to save the nation.

Industry and marriage are alike. Neither workers nor wives want just a handout. They want your heart.

There's no use talking a lot ABOUT people unless you think a lot OF them and FOR them.

Our thinking is wrong if our living is.

Some 48,600 boxes were sold in the year at an average price of 13.22 for white and 13.12 for colored. MacGillivray, Alexandria; W. J. Major, North Lancaster and E. Gravel, Ste. Anne de Prescott, were in Ottawa, Saturday, attending the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Federation. Mr. Macdonald was re-elected President for his fourth term. Rev Dr. MacMillan and his charming bride were welcomed to Dunvegan, at a community gathering in the Orange Hall, Nov. 11th.

A feature of the "At Home" in the Masonic Temple, here, on Friday evening, when the officers and members entertained lady friends, was the reading of an address to Wor Bro. Dr. H. L. Cheney, which was accompanied with a gift of a beautiful Past Master's Jewel. While in Toronto some days ago attending the Royal Winter Fair and incidentally taking in the Fox Show, Mr. D. A. Macdonald, Centre street, purchased a male fox pup of the Ruthven strain to add to his kennel. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith, Toronto, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter Marguerite, to Mr. Richard Bourchier Crompton. The marriage to take place early in January. To School Section No. 6 Lochiel we are informed, falls the honor of securing the highest number of points of any school in the county at the recent Rural School Fairs. Miss Marion Chisholm, teacher, as a consequence, will receive a memento of a fountain pen. Congratulations are in order to Miss Isabel Chisholm daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ranald D. Chisholm, on receiving her diploma at the graduating exercises of the Phillips Training School for Nurses of the Homeopathic Hospital, Montreal. She was winner of the honor pin for highest standing throughout the years of training.

The raising of a new battalion to be titled the St. Lawrence Counties Battalion is under way. The headquarters of this unit will be either at Brockville or Cornwall.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Friday, Nov. 24, 1916
Last evening the sad news was received that Lieut. G. Fraser Macdonald, son of Lieut. Col. A. G. F. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, had been killed in action on the 18th inst. The sympathy of all will be extended to the family here and to Lt. Col. Macdonald and a younger brother, Hubert, who are now in England with the 154th Battalion. Two fair members of the graduating class of the Western Hospital, Montreal, for nurses in training for the year 1916, are daughters of Glengarry, Miss Ada Chisholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chisholm, Lochiel, and Miss Ella Raymond, daughter of Mr. J. Raymond of Williamstown, and sister of Dr. A. L. Raymond of Alexandria. The greatest honour of the class, the Gold Medal, was awarded to Miss Chisholm who is to be congratulated on her success. This week's casualty list contains the names of killed: Major A. A. Sears, Ottawa (formerly Capt. in the 59th) Lieut. John A. McDonald, South Indian, Ont.; Ptes. W. A. Smillie, Maxville and J. G. Potter, 4th Lancaster; wounded: George A. McLeod, Dalkeith, Cpl. G. R. McLeod, Vankleek Hill, and Lance Col. Malcolm Macdonell, Lancaster.

Alexandria's foremost business man will lead the Liberal forces of Glengarry in the Provincial elections which are being held on Dec. 11th.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO Mr. Hugh Munro will be the party standard bearer, he being the choice of the Convention on the first ballot. Alexandria's expert shots carried off the honours on Tuesday, when a shooting match was held at Vankleek Hill. The Alexandria contingent was made up of Dr. J. T. Hope, F. V. Massey G. Bradley E. I. Tarlton, T. J. Gormley and W. Ashton. The inquest being held regarding the partial remains of a human body found on lot 22-3rd Lochiel, has been adjourned to meet on Saturday, Dec. 2nd. It is hoped further evidence can be secured. Mr. Bell, an expert on artesian wells, met our Town Fathers and looked into the local situation thoroughly. He believes that a well could be sunk near the power house and was told to prepare a contract covering the necessary work. It will be carefully gone into by the Council. Mr. Arsene Carriere's house, situate on St. James St. was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon, the origin of which is unknown.

We understand that one of the branches of the Traders Bank is in communication with some of Maxville's most prominent citizens with a view to opening a branch in that town which would mean a great convenience to the business men. Last week a motor car, running between London and Brighton, attained the speed of 30 miles an hour. One day last week Messrs. O. Tallefer and J. Goulet, of blacksmithing department of Messrs. Munro & McIntosh carriage manufacturing establishment here, broke the record by soldering 37 sets steel rail axles half round in 10 hours, a remarkably good day's work. The settlement of the Manitoba School question provides for religious instructions of both Roman Catholics and non-Catholics between half past three and four o'clock, and that in certain cases where ten of the pupils speak the French language or any language other than English, the teaching of such children shall be conducted upon the bilingual system. Among the list of successful candidates at the final examinations for professional nurses in the General Hospital, Montreal, we notice the name of Miss Lizzie Munro, daughter of Mr. D. T. Munro, Maxville.
