Parking On Main Street Between Kenyon And Gernish To Be Banned

Definite Action Taken At Monday Meeting Though Opinion Divided — To Come Into Force In Two Weeks When Signs Secured

"No parking" restrictions on that section of Main street between Kenyon and Gernish streets, will be put into effect as soon as necessary. "No Parking" signs can be secured, possibly in two weeks, it was decided at Monday's meeting of Town Council. Caution lights are to be placed at Kenyon and Lochiel streets and it was also decided that a speed limit of 20 miles per hour would be set and enforced.

There was definite difference of opinion among councillors as to what steps should be taken and a motion for parking on one side only in alternate blocks, was defeated before the second resolution went through on a 5-3 showing of hands.

Favoring the alternate block parking scheme were the mover, Councillor Gerald McDonald and Mayor Rouleau. On the second motion for no parking in the business section, the division was

For — Reeve Angus McDonald, Councillors Lefebvre, Courville, Dugan and Gauthier; Against — Mayor Rouleau, Councillors Gerald McDonald and Chollette.

Passed at Monday's meeting was by-law 606 authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to sign the necessary deed for purchase of the former Box Lacrosse property, Main street south, as a site for a proposed new Municipal building. The price for the double lot has been fixed at $850.

Answering a letter for information sent by Clerk Charlebois, the National Research Council at Ottawa, advised that calcium chloride does adversely affect concrete at below freezing temperatures. The information was sought by council when it became apparent the Main street surface had been badly eaten up during this winter. It is probable the Highways Department will be approached to do needed resurfacing work.

Tells Of Labors In Mission Fields

Bishop Of Alexandria Speaker At Church Extension Meeting

Mission needs and the life of the missionary in Western Canada where he labored for 26 years, were described by the Most Rev. Rosario Brodeur Bishop of Alexandria, speaking at the 39th annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, Catholic Church Extension of Canada at Toronto, on Monday.

Most Rev. B. I. Webster, auxiliary bishop of Toronto, was guest of honor and brought greetings from Cardinal McGuigan. Delegates from most of the 21 councils across Canada were present. Mrs. W. H. B. Parsons was elected president, succeeding Mrs. J. E. Monaghan, who presided.

With a population composed of Eskimos in the north, Indians on their reservations, half-breeds in remote settlements, native Canadians who have taken up the best of the land and developed it, and new Canadians who are rapidly becoming farmers, bushmen, miners and trappers, the Canadian West presents a complexity of problems for the missionary, explained Bishop Brodeur.

Speaking especially of the new Canadians and their tendency to cling to their native traditions and loyalties, he thought this was all right for a time. He did not think it was a good idea for them to become assimilated too quickly, "because, in giving up their national qualities before they became acquainted with new living conditions, they are apt to exchange their heritages for the faults and bad habits of the absorbing group."

In spite of very great difficulties, newcomers are quickly absorbing the Canadian spirit, he thought, and entering into the real spirit of the West, "which is an adventurous spirit, a heritage of the courier - de - bois, and the early trappers and explorers," said the veteran missionary. "They have great faith in the future, and are open-handed and open-hearted, and have the will to make good."

The work of the Catholic Church Extension "is not only to convert the pagan of the north, but to work among the populated and thinly settled regions also, to help the white man, as well as the Indian and the Eskimo," he reminded. "Extension must provide chapels and equipment and come to the assistance of the poorly-housed lonely missionary who has to carry on his work through the hard frosts of winter and the dead heat of summer."

Bishop Brodeur paid tribute to the teaching sisters, who after 10-months' teaching in schools, gave up a month of their holidays to teach Christian doctrine and catechism. He also included the grey-haired Sisters of Service, welfare workers and teachers, those heroines of the West, who go into places where the priest cannot penetrate and spread the knowledge of God by their works of charity.

Bishop Brodeur was introduced by Miss Marie Hynes, of Ottawa and thanked by Mrs. J. Donovan of Winnipeg. Mrs. Monaghan reviewed the work of Extension, which is to make vestments and supplies for the missionaries and help provide new sites for churches in scattered areas. Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. J. McDonagh, president of the Extension Society, spoke briefly.

Jack Gelineau, student son of Mr and Mrs Peter Gelineau of Montreal, at McGill University, and star goalie of the Red hockey team, has been awarded the Major Stuart Forbes Trophy made annually to the athlete considered to have brought most honor to the old school during the year.

On Boston Bruins' negotiation list and rated one of the outstanding amateur goal tenders in the country, Jack received the trophy at the special award session in Sir Arthur Currie Memorial gymnasium, Wednesday evening.

He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. A. Macdonald, Alexandria, and the late Mr and Mrs. John Gelineau of Lochiel.

F.H. Waterhouse Dies In Montreal

The late F. H. Waterhouse was born in England 68 years ago but had spent the greater part of his life in Montreal. In 1908 he married Anna Bella MacRae of Dyer, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch MacRae, who survives together with four sons and one daughter, Alex, John, Gordon and Lloyd Waterhouse and Miss Isabella Waterhouse, all of Montreal.

He was well known and highly respected in Maxville and the district, where he had annually spent his summer holidays.

Mrs. Donald J. MacLean and Mrs. Wm. Hall of Maxville, are sisters-in-law, while Mr. John M. MacRae of Dyer, is a brother-in-law.

Among Finalists In Kirkland Curling

The Collegiate Institutes and High Schools of Northern Ontario had their Northern Ontario Bonselpiel in Kirkland Lake during the past week. This Spiel was sponsored by the T. N. O. Curling Association, with the finals being played before a crowded gallery in the spacious Kirkland Lake Club House on Thursday evening, April 1st. There were entries from North Bay, Noranda, Halleybury New Liskeard, Englehart, Kirkland Lake, South Porcupine, Schumacher, Iroquois Falls and Cochrane schools.

The finalists were two Kirkland Lake rinks, and of special interest to Glengarryans was the fact that the Lead on each rink had good reason to cling strongly to the Glengarry traditions. Gordon MacDonald, son of Mr and Mrs. Archie Roy MacDonald played a near-perfect game for the Alan Maloney skipped rink and equally as good was Bobby MacInnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacInnes, curling for Bill Ramsay Jr. The final score after ten ends of play, was Alan Maloney 5—Bill Ramsay, Jr. 4.

Sauve Freres Mark 25 Years Progress

Former Green Valley Man Has Forged Ahead In Montreal

Twenty five years of steady upward progress in the highly competitive mercantile life of Montreal is being marked this year by Mr. J. Stephen Sauve, formerly of the 9th Lancaster who, with his five sons, operates a successful gent's furnishing business, Sauve Freres, on St. Hubert street, in Montreal.

On page 3 of this issue, Mr. Sauve and his sons tell something of the progress of their business during the past quarter century and invite fellow Glengarryans resident in Montreal, as well as relatives and friends in this county, to drop in and see their modern appointed store.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jean Baptiste Sauve of the 9th Lancaster, Mr. J. Stephen Sauve was born there and as a young man worked on the farms of the late Napoleon Trotter and James Kerr before going to Montreal in 1903. There he worked with an uncle in the mercantile business until March 13th, 1923, when he opened his own store on the site of the present enlarged establishment, on St. Hubert street.

The business has been steadily expanded since that time and two years ago store space was doubled the complete renovation including installation of modern display windows and the introduction of new haberdashery and shoe departments with the very latest equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Sauve have four daughters and five sons and all the boys are associated with their father in the conduct of the business. Wilfrid is in charge of the boys' department; Albert specializes in men's clothing; Rodolphe, in shoes; Roger in haberdashery, and Rene is in the bookkeeping end of the business.

Eight Boys And Nary A Girl

The proud parents of sons and the birth dates are:

March 21—Mr and Mrs Real Lalonde, Alexandria.
March 24—Mr and Mrs Lauriat Decoste, Glen Robertson
March 24—Mr. and Mrs. George Campeau, 2nd Kenyon
April 3—Mr. and Mrs. Alex. John Massia, 4th Kenyon.
April 3—Mr and Mrs Percy Fawcett, Lancaster
April 4—Mr and Mrs Kenneth Dufrosne, Lancaster

Bishop Smith Advocates Housing

In our homes more than in any other agency lies the power to regenerate society" declared Bishop William Smith, D. D. of Pembroke, Ont., as he addressed the Easter supper meeting of St. Anthony's Ladies Altar Society in Montreal, Monday night. The Bishop was introduced by Mrs. Lawrence McGlynn, and was thanked by Miss Beatrice Carey, Mrs. D. Burns, president, was in the chair.

Dealing with the rights and duties of parents, the prelate said "In their hands lie the moral destinies of nations, the salvation or ruin of the little souls committed to their care. Parents cannot shift the burden, they cannot transfer the power; because none but themselves are fitted by nature and by grace to execute it."

Speaking of the infiltration of modernism into the home the speaker declared: "The modern way of life has played havoc with the home. The automobile whisks the family away; the neighborhood movie brings Hollywood to our front door; the radio brings the world into our living room. The newspaper, the magazine and the so called funnies have superseded serious reading. The speaker urged the preservation of the Christian and democratic way of use of such things.

The Bishop deplored the lack of housing at the present day and emphasized the fact that such economic and social situations handicap the work of the parents in the home. He said: "We are short, desperately short of homes. Proportionately, we are as short as some of the bombed out nations. The result is that great numbers of our people live doubled up with all the devastating troubles that come from living doubled up. An emergency exists and the average person can do little about it.

"We can, however, keep crying out loud every chance we get, and perhaps our prolonged pleading and wailing will force the powers that be to do something about it. It is hard to think of any problem on the home front, right now; that is more important than providing homes for the people. Public opinion of itself does not exist, but consists of a great many private opinions. Self-expression is the only way to get anything these days, and if you keep on repeating a thing you will not only convince yourselves but you will convince others."

Rev. M. T. J. O'Brien and Rev. Patrick Ambrose director of the Altar Society, were present and addressed the meeting. The Girl Guides of St Anthony's Troop formed a guard of honour for the Bishop.

Interviews with Jesus
All welcome

TORONTO, April 6.—Edmund A. MacGillivray, Liberal member for Glengarry, took time out from his legislature address on the budget tonight to let go a blast at the Ontario Government for continuing to "water" liquor.

He said the wartime alcoholic beverages act which called for reduced strength of liquor by watering has been rescinded, but "as yet this province like others hasn't seen fit to act but continues to sell the public so much water (about 10 percent) in each bottle of liquor.

"I haven't yet heard any responsible government official state that the liquor as it is received from the distilleries is of such strength that it would be injurious to consume.

Therefore the only conclusion that one can draw from the watering is that it is extremely profitable. Part of this can surely be found in the fact that liquor profits were almost a third greater than estimated. In face of this lust for revenue, any thought of giving the public full value for its money is discarded.

If a grocer was caught watering milk like the Government waters the liquor, he would be prosecuted."

Mr. MacGillivray criticized the Progressive Conservative Government for its liquor practices. "Is the Government taking credit because people are drinking more?" he asked "If it does it is admitting in effect that it has failed in its purpose to induce moderation in the consumption of alcoholic spirits."

Discussing the surplus, he said "It is a downright shame to expect the ordinary man to contribute to that surplus about which the Government boasts. Any thought of giving the public full value for its money has apparently been discarded.

Mr. MacGillivray said that the taxpayer is justified in demanding that the three cent added tax on gas imposed after the Dominion gave it up, should be dropped. The 20 per cent amusement tax, to go into effect when the federal Government vacates that field, should be cut in half. Theatres and movies could no longer be considered luxuries.

Part of the surplus should have gone to pensioners who, he said, "are reduced to the level of beggars" to get the $10 monthly bonus offered by the province. It is an "allowance of destitution," he said.

He declared the province should have given all pensioners the full $40 and then cut it to $30 in cases where investigation showed the full amount was not necessary, instead of providing $30 and forcing the pensioners to prove the need for the extra $10.

(A complete report of the speech will be published in next issue)

CHIT CHAT

(By Remi Goulet) Well folks! holidays are over and school has begun in the absence of one teacher, Mr. Fraser, whose mother is ill at the hospital. He was with her for the past few days but was back again Thursday morning. Cadet Training is shown in full swing, with great promises of success. However, Cadets who are taking the First Aid course are preparing for their examination which is coming soon. Our Cadet Inspection will be held May 19th at 2 p.m. We all hope to make as good a show as last year when we won the Donnan Trophy. From the 20th to 29th of June there is summer camp at Ipperwash waiting for us. Football, softball and rugby are coming into their own as spring sports. Sometimes a few arguments go on. Things seen or heard:— (a) Night club is an ash tray with music. (b) Gentleman is a man that steps on a lighted cigarette butt in case of burning the carpet.

BEHIND THE BOOST

Behind the latest nation-wide increase in rail-transported freight rates is the belief in informed sources along Parliament Hill that the cost of living for the average Canadian will not rise by any substantial degree though here and there minor price boosts of certain commodities will undoubtedly appear in time d'ost's ranging according to the extent of the rail haul and the bulk of the articles, in fact it is even forecast that as far as the cost-of-living is concerned any extensive buyer's resistance against higher prices of many articles and seasonal declines in others—particularly some food-stuffs would quickly counteract such increases as involved in possible higher costs of rail-transported freight when these costs are passed along to the consumers with freight rates generally estimated to account for about 3 per cent of retail prices.

This means that in the end the effects on the cost-of-living of this freight rate increase will not be enormous in face of the flaming headlines judging from the viewpoint of an observer along Parliament Hill.

Moreover there is a strong hint in the judgment of the Board of Transport Commissioners here that could be known by the average Canadian since it states that this freight rate influence on the cost-of-living may not involve a permanent condition in regard to the higher rate or present tax rate. When costs of transportation are materially reduced the Board can of course direct a reduction in rates. In other words the structure is not by any means something that cannot be altered wrote the Commissioners that is the majority of them in the 163-page document of about 64,000 words. Obviously the Board reserves the right to rescind its orders at any time if it should decide the railways in Canada are obtaining more than enough revenue to keep them operating efficiently with the decision stating that these companies will have to furnish the Board monthly statements of their operating revenues operating expenses and net income.

"Should the Board at any time be of the opinion that a greater amount of money is being paid to the railway companies than is actually necessary to enable them to maintain a reasonable degree of operating efficiency the Board reserves the right at any time on notice to readjust the rates to meet the conditions then existing the judgment said. On the other hand it added "should the amount of the advance in rates authorized prove to be insufficient the railways can always apply again.

BORDERS' CHECK-UP

It is reported in this capital that immigration authorities in both the U.S. and Canada are now keeping a very close check-up on the movements of Communists or those suspected of being engaged in such activities in either of the two countries with a recent meeting here between such top officials said to have had a bearing on this though there has been no official confirmation. Never theless it is deemed to be highly significant that an announcement here of Canada's policy to exclude U.S. officers suspected of being Communists followed closely a meeting here of American and Canadian immigration officials.

JUST ANOTHER RUMOR

In recent days a rumor has been circulated widely that since the Government had some close shaves in voting in the House of Commons lately a general election may be called in 1948 probably in the fall. Whether any such appeal to the people of Canada will or will not occur cannot be reported but it can be reported that its cause will most certainly not be based on the close shaves in voting. It is quite true that vote margins have been narrow sensationally narrow prior to the Easter recess. However experienced observers know that the House of Commons was half empty on these occasions since many members had left for the holidays and still the Government forces managed to win by comfortable majorities over the combined opposing forces.

GOOD NEIGHBOURS

The "good neighbour" talks between Prime Minister King and President Truman are becoming more and more like those which used to take place between the head of the Canadian Government and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, leading on each occasion to some momentous or all-important decisions. Consequently the latest visit between Mr. King and the President both in Washington and Williamsburg, Vt., is presumed here to be of more than passing interest especially in view of current world conditions and the threat to peace as well as Canada's dollar position.

SUCCESS STORIES

According to Eddie Dunlop, himself blinded in action overseas and now Director of the Casualty Rehabilitation Branch for the Veterans Department here, two out of three of the 29, 534 seriously disabled veterans of World War 11 were now re-established in employment with 19,607 at work and 7,080 still receiving treatment, training or other services. He disclosed that 1947 had been the busiest year yet and added "no diminution of the intensity of these services may be expected" for the coming months. An analysis showed that even in the case of men getting between 75 and 100 p. c. pension plus helplessness allowance more than half now are at work with 55.39 percent of 269 men having taken jobs, most of them paraplegics.

DOMESTIC RENTAL CONTROLS

It is understood here that the Minister of Finance, Hon. Douglas Abbott, with his officials are going to give a good deal of attention in the near future to question of domestic rental control since it is known along Parliament Hill that the Canadian Government would like to get rid of the headache of domestic rental control as soon as possible. There is decided favor here in giving a "substantial advance notice" to the public of any action in this respect it is stated in informed quarters.

Hello Homemakers! A dose of the flu or a fever and your appetite leaves you at the mere sight of food. If you have a patient, take care of his diet. Doctors do not usually prescribe a special diet but recommend the elimination of fried foods and spicy foods and the increased use of vitamin-rich dishes.

Build up with B. People who get too little thiamine (Vitamin B) have poor appetites. It aids digestion, steadies the nerves and keeps one on the up and up. Breakfast cereals (whole-grain ones) and enriched breads and yeast are important sources of B. Dried peas, beans, canned tomatoes, baked potatoes and citrus fruits add their bit. The yolks of 2 eggs provide as much as a medium baked potato; one pint of milk as much as 3 eggs. Fork, liver and kidney are the best meat sources.

TAKE A TIP

1. Rest works wonders. If the patient is sleeping at meal time it may be better to let him have a snack when he awakens.
2. Eat often and in small quantities. Four or five light meals instead of three square ones are far better for convalescents. Avoid all highly seasoned foods and coarse-textured vegetables, unless you sieve them. Fatty foods and rich desserts are out. Strong tea and coffee are not good for you. Weaken them with hot milk.
3. A good breakfast. That's easier said than done I know. Eat your own breakfast and the smell of it may interest a patient in toast and poached eggs—but don't forget the orange juice and hot milk-coffee.
4. Change menus every day. You can make appetizing menus out of the smooth, easy-to-digest foods. Here are some suggestions: (1) Creamed Eggs on Toast with Bacon, Applesauce Pudding and Custard Sauce. (2) Strained Cream of Celery Soup, Tomato Omelette, Sieved Peas Orange Sherbet. (3) Baked Chicken in milk, Baked Potatoes, Orange and Grapefruit sections with Cherries and Jello. (4) Salmon Souffle with Plain Sauce, Mashed Carrots, Ice Cream, Cookies. (5) Consomme, Cheese Souffle, String Beans, Orange Sherbet. (6) Potato Soup, Shirred Egg and Canned Tomatoes, Baked Apple without skin. (7) Broiled Chopped Beef, Mashed Potatoes, Creamy Rice Pudding topped with jelly.
5. Serve food as attractively as you can. Daintiness appeals to men as well as women. A plain poached egg on a white plate is still bit placed on toast and served on a red and gold plate it becomes interesting. The appearance of a casserole of stew can be enhanced by a frill of potatoes around the edge.

6. Serve cold foods cold and hot foods ready to be eaten.

7. Pamper the patient to some extent. Slice tea biscuits and cut bread into squares and butter it—likewise any food that you can make into portions.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Melt two tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Stir in three tablespoons flour and when blended add one-half cup scalded milk and stir until mixture thickens. Stir in one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains cayenne, and one-quarter cup grated cheese. Remove from the element and stir in the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Cool the mixture, beat the whites of three eggs stiff. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake 40 to 50 minutes in a moderate oven.

ORANGE MILK SHERBET

1½ cups orange juice, juice of 2 lemons, 2 cups milk, grated rind of 1 orange, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1-4 cups sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Add sugar and salt to milk, heat until dissolved, then add gelatin and orange rind. Pour milk very slowly into the fruit juice mixture. Pour into electric refrigerator tray and freeze, stirring at half hour intervals until frozen. Makes 1 quart.

BAKED RICE

1-2 cup rice, 1 quart milk, 2-3 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, dash of nutmeg.

Wash the rice and mix the ingredients in a greased baking dish. Bake in a slow oven until rice is cooked. This will take from 2 to 3 hours. Stir every 15 minutes for the first hour. Not more than 1-2 cup raisins may be added. This pudding should be creamy, not dry. Serves 8.

SWEET JELLY

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 1-4 to 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup cold water, 3 cups boiling liquid (water, fruit juice or coffee).

Soak the gelatin in cold water boiling liquid on the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add the sugar, stir to dissolve it then add the remainder of the liquid either hot or cold. If cold liquid is used the mixture will set more quickly. Pour into a cold, wet mould and chill. Serves 6.

Ideology Of Easter

The Eastern bloc took concrete shape before Western European Union formed even in faint outline. But union calls for more than an outline, more than political and economic agreements between governments. It calls for a way of life which most of us have not found yet at home. And which, in consequence, it would be difficult to pass along to Europe.

Pride and precedent must go, for instance, if European countries are to work in full partnership instead of just uneasy proximity. And unless democratic people find real eagerness to work together, selfish party and national interests can still sabotage their teamwork. Nations, like men, can overcome pride, precedent and self-interest only when inspired by a great idea in which their governments find common purpose.

Find it ourselves and we can give Europe this great idea, born out of the hearts and minds of millions of ordinary men and women.

It is an idea that can cross Western frontiers and find an echo among millions in Eastern Europe and the Orient. It is an idea big enough to unite the whole of mankind. It is the idea that new nations and a new world can be born out of new men and women. It is the Easter ideology the truth that when the Cross is planted in the hearts of men and nations, it is the death of selfishness and the source of renaissance.

The fate of Western Europe will not be decided in Parliament and cabinet rooms. It will be decided day by day in the convictions and actions of ordinary people. Easter can remain just a historic fact and a noble ideal, or it can become a daily experience for each of us—an idea potent enough to guide the nations and bind them together above class, race and point of view.

TIME BOMBS

Men with pre-war minds dodge post-war facts.

The will to win must be backed by faith that victory is possible.

Concentrated campaigning now can still save the world from concentration camps.

Some of us may spend time behind the bars because we spend too much time in front of them.

People fired with the answer to fear don't live in fear of being fired. Answer the world's need and we won't have to appease or oppose the other fellow's answer.

"SHE'S STILL TALKING!"

KEEPING CONVERSATIONS BRIEF is just one of the ways of practicing the master rule for the best telephone service... "Do unto others as you would like them to do to you—and do it first".

FOR BEST RESULTS FROM YOUR TELEPHONE:

1. Keep calls brief.
2. Space your calls.
3. Avoid "listening in".
4. Give right-of-way to emergency calls.

THIS YEAR ALONE we are spending $4,000,000 so that more farms may have telephones with fewer people on each line.

Municipal Clerk

(With apologies to Rudyard Kipling) Shelburne (Ont.) Free Press.

If you can be a general factotum, And fill the office of a public drudge; And answer fully every half-wit's question, And statutes know as well as any judge; If you can fill out all the registrations And government forms that come each week, Correct mistakes of other public servants, And give your time for this without a cheep; If you can frame up all the resolutions For councillors who don't know what they want, And don't know what to say, or how to say it, (And you must write because you feel they can't) And when the Mayor or Reeve comes in (important!) With extra work (some thirteen times a week) And you state all the facts and have the papers, As if you know his mind before he speaks; And give up your work that brings in money To do the work you're not required to do But do it with a sense of much injustice To your own self and all your family too; If you know all the bylaws and their contents, And answer every question on the phone Which you pay rent for monthly, though a nuisance That takes your time nor pays your bill at home, And when the councillors talk of cutting salaries, Your brains and nerves may now be but a wreck; If you can carry on and do your duty On half-pay and retain your self respect, If you can do all this without complaining, And bravely face the worry and the work, Lose holidays, and all that your heart longs for, You'll make an ideal "Municipal Clerk."

ARE YOU GETTING THE TAX DEDUCTIONS YOU ARE ENTITLED TO?

The Farm Account Book and Income Tax Guide shows you how!

How much can you deduct for depreciation on your tractor? Your automobile? A shed? What expenses can you deduct? There are 75 articles in common farm use plus a wide variety of deductible expenses for which depreciation can be charged—all listed in the new Farm Account Book. These legal deductions from your income are a big question at Income Tax Time and the answers to them and to dozens of other questions are in this new Farm Account Book.

A Record of Your Transactions and a Guide to Your Income Tax Return

WHAT IT DOES—Keeps a clean record, helps you budget—and shows you whether you have made or lost money on your operations. Shows you, too, what your best lines are and where you may be farming at a loss. Saves you hours of time from book keeping. First ten pages are for your receipts—from sales of crops, seeds, livestock, poultry, dairy products and all other produce. Then come twelve pages of all farm expenses—you are reminded of items you might otherwise forget. Establish a basic herd, apply for the three-year-average plan, calculate your depreciation item by item. These are money-savers for every farmer. They're all in the new Farm Account Book.

DEDUCTIONS—Every farmer is entitled to deductions and he is expected by the department to take full advantage of his rights. The Farm Account Book tells you about many items in easy question-and-answer form. For instance—"What can I claim as expenses for repairs?" The answer is "any expense to keep a machine or a building in working order can be claimed." Altogether there are answers to over 60 questions. No one is required to pay more than his fair share of tax. Comments from Letters on the New Farm Account Book and Income Tax Guide: "A long awaited step for the benefit and progress of our Canadian farmers" . . . "Takes the kinks out of keeping farm records" . . . "Pleased to recommend this Account Book for farm people" . . . "Record keeping in its simplest form—a real help" . . . "Something we have been needing for a long time."

MURDER IS FORGETFUL

CHAPTER 1

The tall, young-faced man stepped out of the elevator on the thirteenth floor of the building on lower Fifth Avenue and moved along the hallway with an array of paper-wrapped packages stacked up to his chin.

Balancing the sack of bundles, he bent his knees until his hand was on a level with the doorknob and his chin was opposite the gold lettering on the frosted glass of the door. In neat, fine print were the words: Moe Martin, Literary Agent. Beneath this, in bold and elegant style, there appeared: Johnny Saxon, Private Investigator. I Never Sleep.

Johnny Saxon managed to get the doorknob turned and then he kicked the door open with his toe. He staggered into the office and hurried toward a table and let the bundles fall in a heap. His bright, warm gaze touched the man seated behind the desk nearby.

"Hi, uncle," Johnny Saxon grinned. Moe Martin looked up from the manuscript he'd been reading. He removed heavy rimmed glasses and placed them carefully to one side, and his tired, bloodshot eyes stared first at all the bundles, then at tall Johnny Saxon.

"Something tells me," Moe Martin said worriedly, "that we are going to be broke again." He frowned. "What have you been buying now?"

"Clothes," said Johnny Saxon. "I also got you some shirts and neckties and socks. You are badly in need of them, sweetheart. All you need now is a new suit."

"I've got a suit."

"Yes," agreed Johnny. "You have a suit."

Moe watched as Johnny Saxon started unwrapping all the packages. He stood up and came around the big flat-topped desk. He was of medium height, wide-set with a large chest and a fringe of dark, wiry hair that circled his partially bald head like a halo. Moe Martin had round, sad features that continually looked worried about something.

"I didn't know you had any money said Moe."

"I haven't," said Johnny Saxon. "Then how the devil were you able to buy—"

"I charged them, pappy. I've also made arrangements about your new suit. That is, you have an appointment in half an hour."

"What am I going to use for money?"

"Well, charge that, too," said Johnny. "I've picked you out a fine tweed that is a splendid buy."

Moe groaned and went back and sat down beside the desk. He pushed the thick manuscript aside.

"Just why," he asked sadly, "must you do things like this, Johnny? We haven't had a case in a month. After that Benson case you bought a new car instead of putting something aside. Now were back to eating hamburgers again. And yet you should spend money—"

Johnny was grinning. He indicated the bundles and also the fine gabardine suit that he was wearing. He asked casually, "Pappy, have you ever heard of the Martin Smiths?"

"I've heard of a whole lot of Smiths I've got some friends named Smith. But—"

"I mean the Hardware Smiths," said Johnny Saxon. "They're the ones who have hardware stores all over the country. There's another one they call Hamburger Smith. He owns an immense restaurant chain. And I think one of the uncles is in the oil business. That one is called Gas-Station Smith. I've looked them up, baby, and they're rated at over eighty million."

Moe nodded. "Oh, those Smiths," he said. "It must be very pleasant to have all that money. Sometimes I wish—"

"Well," Johnny was saying, "we have just been retained by them."

"I was telling someone just the other day—" Moe Martin stopped abruptly. He stared at his partner. "What did you say?"

"I said we have been retained by them, that's what I said. I have been asked to act as a personal bodyguard to a member of that family. Somebody named Irene Smith. We're going to make a lot of money."

Moe continued to stare.

Johnny picked up one of the neckties from a box arranged a knot in it and held the tie in front of his collar. "How is this?"

Moe Martin said, "It's very nice"—absently, and then he said, "Who is this Irene Smith?"

"It's a fine tie," remarked Johnny. "It cost three dollars."

"Good earth!"

"I told you we're going to make a great deal of money," said Johnny patiently.

"We were going to make a lot of money on that Dulcy Dickens case, too," Moe Martin pointed out. "And so what happened? We were left stranded in that ritzy Palace-Towers hotel and we couldn't even pay the room rent."

"That was different, pappy," Johnny Saxon's eyes were bright. He came over to the desk and punched his finger into his stocky partner's arm. "It was really the Dickens case that gave us the break on this one. These Smith people read about it in the papers they heard too that I used to be a writer. And so they said this just what they wanted—a private detective who used to be a writer."

"Why?"

"Because this woman—Irene Smith—was attempting to write a novel or something just before she let her memory. And so the Smiths figure that with someone like me' arounds, talking writing and stuff, continually reminding her of these things with which she used to be familiar, it might help bring back her memory. Then she can tell what actually happened."

Moe looked up at the ceiling for a while and then in a still, quiet voice he asked, "When do we start out on this assignment Johnny?"

"I told them we'd be out there at Northport tomorrow morning."

"Oh," returned Moe. "And just what is this Irene Smith like? Has she ever sold anything?"

"You would think of that," said Johnny. He shrugged. "I've never seen her in my life. But if she's like most of those would-be novelists, she has probably got buck teeth. Some rich old dame who thinks she can write fiction. I've met the type before. In the end they lay out a couple thousand dollars to have some vainly publisher put their stuff in print."

"You say she lost her memory?"

"Yes," Johnny said, "amnesia. Loss of memory. It happened about two weeks ago. I recall reading something about it in the papers. She disappeared. Irene Smith did, and the family has been looking all over for her. Now she's been found, and so that's why they want me as a bodyguard. They're afraid something might happen to her."

"Why are they afraid?"

"Because of what happened to Irene's husband."

"What was that?"

"He was murdered," said Johnny. "The day was Saturday."

In the distance a sailboat moved languidly across Long Island Sound urged along by a slight breeze. The sleek-looking craft was etched against the bottleneck entrance to Northport harbor, like something painted on a blue backdrop. Within the fine land-locked harbor small boats and assorted sizes of yachts and other sailboats drifted lazily at anchor.

Curving along one shore of the harbor was a wide stretch of beach. The sand looked very white and very clean against the blue background of clear sky and water.

Along the stretch of smooth white sand the boy and girl were racing.

The girl had flaming red hair that curved over her slim shoulders and was wind-swept by the motion of her flying, slim legs. She wore a one-piece white swim suit, and though her firm, trim figure was nicely built, you could tell that she was quite young. She had unusual green eyes.

Johnny Saxon had stopped his roadster on the landscaped roadway of the estate and had been watching the girl running along the sand. Because of the angle at which he was looking through the trees, he saw only the girl at first, the sleek white bathing suit molding her fine figure. A moment later the fellow swept into view the boy who was chasing the girl.

Johnny sighed and put the car in speed again and they followed the winding road through the vast estate. A few moments later they drew up before the house.

Moe Martin said, "We must have made a mistake." He kept looking at the huge house, pop-eyed.

The house was of Vermont granite. Johnny Saxon guessed that it must have contained at least thirty rooms. If he got the opportunity he would count them and find out.

Johnny switched off the motor and sat there taking in the magnificence of the estate. A shaded patio flanked one end of the house; beyond this there was a lawn terrace spotted with modernistic metal tables and brightly colored awnings. The terrace led down to a long swimming pool whose sides were tinted sea-green, so that the water in the pool looked like clear green creme de menthe.

"I still think its some kind of hotel," said Moe.

He climbed out, unlocked the trunk compartment in the rear of the car and started reaching inside for one of the bags. Abruptly, somewhere behind him, there came a very deep-throated barking. Moe turned around—and froze in horror. The animal that was galloping toward him had all the characteristics of a dog but on a much larger scale. It was like no kind of dog that Moe Martin had ever seen.

"Holy cow!" Moe wailed, and scrambled back into the car.

Johnny Saxon reached past his terrified partner and patted the dog's huge head. "Hello, boy," he said fondly.

The dog sniffed loudly at Johnny's hand.

Moe squeezed back against the seat cushions, his eyes bating wildly. "What... what is it?" he stammered.

"A Great Dane," explained Johnny Saxon. "They're fine dogs. They're very gentle."

"How do you know?" Moe's teeth were chattering.

"Well, that's what everyone tells you."

The girl's pleasant voice said, "He won't bite you." And then she said, "Michael! Get down, boy!"

The Great Dane jumped down from the car and nuzzled his big, sad face against the girl's trim figure.

The girl was the one Johnny Saxon had seen running along the beach. He saw that he had not been mistaken in his distant impression of her. She was a lovely, fine girl with beautiful red hair and green eyes and now she was wearing white sandals and a beach robe thrown around her slim, shapely figure.

He climbed out of the car and said, "I have a letter here—" He started to reach inside his pocket.

"Are you Johnny Saxon?"

He nodded. He liked the sound of her voice.

770-Carat Diamond Stars At Production-Drive Show

ROLLED-SLEEVE EFFORT of Britain, battling for post-war recovery through greater production, will be seen by the world at the British Industries Fair in Britain, May 3rd through 14th. Pictured are some of the display items. Top: The 770-carat Woylie River diamond, world's largest uncut diamond, from the British Colony of Sierra Leone. America is expected to be the Fair's largest buyer of diamonds. Bottom: Amplifying tubes so tiny that three go on a teaspoon, opening new fields for deaf aids and other miniature electronic apparatus. Right: Girl dips tools in a coating that keeps them bright and sharp. It dries hard and strips like a topcoat. Extreme right (top and bottom): Girl's cigarette drops to a laminated plastic table, but the table does not burn and wipes clean.
