Big Change In Monday's Vote In Glengarry As Eastern Ontario Goes Solidly Conservative

Osie F. Villeneuve, Reeve Of Maxville, Elected with 1806 Majority

Drew Government Returned With Smaller Majority As C.C.F. Makes Inroads—Every Section Of Glengarry Shows Trend

Osie F. Villeneuve, reeve of Maxville, will represent Glengarry at Toronto in the next Legislature, as a result of Monday's voting. This riding and every other Eastern Ontario constituency excepting only Ottawa East were swept into the Conservative ranks as East Ontario gave Premier George Drew a clear mandate to do something for this neglected section of the Province.

Decisively defeating Edmund A. MacGillivray of Alexandria, who had been Liberal representative for Glengarry through the past eleven years, Mr. Villeneuve rolled up an unofficial total vote of 5524. His majority of 1806 was the largest ever accorded a Conservative winner in the history of the riding, and compared with a Liberal majority of 1669 in the 1945 vote.

Trailing with a total of 581 votes was Ron Gostick, Union of Electors candidate who suffered the same fate destined in recent Glengarry elections for the third party candidates. His total was but a little less than the 614 votes cast for the C.C.F. candidate in 1945.

The vote was Villeneuve, Prog-Con, 5524; MacGillivray, Liberal, 3718, and Gostick, Union of Electors, 581. These figures are unofficial, the result of election night tabulation at this office, and may be changed some what when Returning Officer Alex A. Fraser makes his official count at Apple Hill on Saturday.

The vote in 1945 including the soldier vote, was MacGillivray, Liberal, 5650; Villeneuve, Prog-Con., 3981; MacDonald, C.C.F., 614.

The vote for Villeneuve was decisive in every section of the riding, majorities for him being rolled up in all but 12 of the 56 polls. These remained in the Liberal column. Alexandria which gave its native son, Mr. MacGillivray, a plurality of 294 in 1945, on Monday swung decisively to the Conservative ranks, giving Mr. Villeneuve a majority of 248. In his home town of Maxville, Mr. Villeneuve upped his 1945 majority by 61 to a comfortable 280. In Vankleek Hill, the Prog-Con plurality was 183 as compared with a 1945 majority of 68 for the Liberals. The four Glengarry townships and 10 of 13 polls in Prescott county showed the same trend to the Conservative banner.

Montreal Party Marks Date

On Saturday evening, June 5th, relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Lapierre, 6803 DeNormanville St., Montreal, gathered at their home in a surprise party marking their Silver Wedding anniversary. Mrs. Lapierre is the former Emma Poirier of Fassifern.

The group entered the Lapierre home singing "Les ont gagné leurs epaulettes" and there was a corsage for Mrs. Lapierre and a carnation for the groom of 25 years ago. Within minutes the table had been decorated with streamers and other ornaments and loaded down with many beautiful gifts. A well worded address was read by their daughter, Miss Lorraine Lapierre, to which Mr. Lapierre suitably replied.

Following the supper, photos were taken and there was music for dancing by Messrs Robert, Noel and Victorien Lapierre, brother and sons of Mr. Lapierre. Mr. Emile Lapierre entertained with a step dance.

Highlighting the evening was the re-playing records of the voices of several of those present. These had been recorded during a visit to relatives in the U.S. recently and included both songs and messages from those not able to be present.

C.W.L. Meeting

The June meeting of the Alexandria subdivision, C.W.L. will be held next Friday evening, June 18th, at the home of Mrs. Donald A. Macdonald.

BOUND FOR CABINET?

Osie F. Villeneuve, reeve of Maxville, and M.P.P., elected from Glengarry. Newspaper stories this week have conjectured on the possibility of his being called to a cabinet post.

Big Crowd Out Election Night

Well over 1,000 people from every section of the riding gathered in front of the election boards at the News Office Monday evening, to follow the election results and hear the speeches of the three candidates. It was the largest turnout in many years, reflecting wide interest in the results.

First poll to report was the centre ward in Alexandria which showed remarkable speed in tabulating the results and getting them to the boards at 7.17, just minutes following the end of the voting period. The trend to Villeneuve was at once apparent a 1945 majority for MacGillivray of 118, being changed to a 73 plurality for Maxville's reeve. The Glen Sandfield poll reported minutes later, as did Glen Roy and Dalkeith.

Complete returns for the county had been received by 9 o'clock, despite obstructionist tactics of young Clarence Fiske, in charge of the local Progressive - Conservative rooms—something which happily has never happened before and which was deplored by Osie Villeneuve and other older party stalwarts. Deputy Returning Officers had been instructed to phone in results to the local party headquarters in Glengarry Gardens over Fiske's objections, party headquarters provided complete results received there.

Edmund A. MacGillivray Liberal candidate conceded his defeat early in the evening and briefly addressed the assemblage, expressing his thanks to those who had supported him at the polls that day and during the 11 years he had represented Glengarry at Toronto. Mr. MacGillivray congratulated his successful opponent and declared he numbered everyone still his friend even though many had chosen not to support him.

Ron Gostick, Union of Electors' candidate also took his defeat in good stride but warned that Social Credit would be back, bigger and stronger to contest the next election. He deplored the resurgence of the CCF party, especially in the city ridings and warned of its danger. Mr. Gostick expressed the pleasure he had found in meeting so many "fine people" in the riding and he paid a nice tribute to the local newspapers for their "very fair coverage" of all three parties—something he had found lacking in other places.

All Maxville seemingly joined in the Villeneuve caravan as the winning candidate made a triumphant entrance into town about 10 p.m. Some forty cars were in the horn-tooting procession which made a tour of the principal streets. Mr. Villeneuve spoke briefly in English and French warmly thanking the electors and promising to represent not one race or creed, but every resident of the riding. He was proud of his pardon.

Drew Defeated As Gov't. Returned

Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government was re-elected in Ontario Monday. But the Premier suffered personal defeat in an election which saw the CCF replace the Liberals as official opposition.

The CCF gains cut deeply into the big majority enjoyed by the Progressive Conservatives in the last legislature. But the government weathered the election safely and emerged with 53 of the 90 seats.

These are the totals, compared with results of the 1945 election:

	1948	1945
Progressive Conservative	53	66
CCF	22	8
Liberal	12	11
Labor - Progressive	2	2
Liberal - Labor	1	3
Total	90	90

Re-election of the government was assured almost from the start, but as first returns were received, it also was apparent that the CCF would be the big gainer.

The CCF's new strength was greatest in the 17 Toronto and York ridings, traditional Progressive Conservative strongholds, none of which had CCF representation in the last house.

The CCF led by 39-year-old E. B. Joffe, grabbed 11 of the 15 held

Glengarrrians In Toronto Coming

Plan Trip To Maxville —K. D. MacDiarmid Named President

Glengarrrians in Toronto and district are holding a picnic in Toronto's beautiful High Park on Saturday, June 26th, and plans are well advanced for the annual "Gathering" to be held in October. At a recent meeting, the former President, John D. MacLeod, resigned that post due to his returning to reside in Glengarry, and the following were elected to the Executive Committee to hold office until the annual elections of officers in the Fall; - K. D. MacDiarmid, President; Dr. J. C. MacLaurin and Donald J. Kippen, Vice-Presidents; Miss Anabel MacKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, and Mrs. Benjie MacDonald, John D. MacRae and Finlay MacKay, Directors. A primary sponsor of the organization, Edmund A. MacGillivray was elected Honorary President.

A petition to receive into membership persons from the district in Eastern Ontario adjoining Glengarry met with the approval of the meeting and the association now becomes known as "The Glengarry & District Highland Club". A Charter of Constitution was drafted by the President and following some suggested amendments was adopted by the Committee.

A circular letter has gone forward to many members in which the picnic and Fall "Gathering" are announced, but invitations are not necessary and it is left with residents of the County to advise their relatives and friends of the meetings.

Plans are also completed for attending the Glengarry Highland Games in Maxville on July 31. Special railway accommodation and rates have been secured and the transportation arrangements are in charge of Norman Catton Persons intending to take advantage of the travelling facilities are requested to contact Mr. Catton as soon as possible.

Opening Florist Business Here

Alexandria is to have a florist business with the arrival last week of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kitching from Montreal South. They are occupying the house on Alexandria's southern border purchased last winter from Mr. Vincent Cameron.

A member of the Montreal Florist Club, Mr. Kitching has been in the flower business for many years and he will make a specialty of wedding bouquets and funeral pieces as well as handling plants and shrubs. He purposes building a greenhouse on his property.

Mr. and Mrs. Kitching are both natives of Yorkshire, England. They and their 11-year-old daughter Edith, will be welcomed to our town.

Mrs. B. MacCuaig Dies At 88

A respected resident of Alexandria for the past twenty years, Mrs. Bella MacCuaig widow of Duncan MacCuaig of Chateauguay, Que., died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick R. McDonald Ottawa street, early Tuesday evening Mrs. MacCuaig had been residing with Mr. and Mrs. McDonald for the past few years. She was aged 88.

Mrs. MacCuaig was born at McCrimmon, the daughter of Donald McCrimmon and his wife, Harriet MacLeod. She resided at Chateauguay, Que., until some twenty years ago when she came to live in Alexandria following the death of her husband. To mourn her passing she leaves one brother, Allan D. McCrimmon, of McCrimmon and one half-sister, Mrs. Dougald MacDonald of Cotten Beaver.

Attended by many friends, the funeral was held Thursday afternoon from the McMillan and Steinberg Funeral Home, Rev. Dr. E. H. Gray, of Kirk Hill, conducting the service. Burial was in Kirk Hill United Church cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Donald McCrimmon, James G. McCrimmon, Pat R. McDonald, Allan D. O. McCrimmon, Gordon MacDonald and Stanford McCrimmon.

Indians Play Here Saturday

Quebec Team Extended In Winning 8-6 Victory At Gardens

Playing the best lacrosse seen here since the season opened, Alexandria Maroons almost took the measure of Quebec Montagnards, now tied for top place, Saturday night at Glengarry Gardens. The Quebec boys wound up with an 8-6 victory.

Maroons snapped in two goals in the first ten minutes while playing a tight defensive game and they lead 2-1 at the first bell. Some 500 fans enthusiastically cheered Maroon's first indication of winning tendencies.

Four goals for Quebec in the second quarter made the score 5-2, but Maroons returned to a scoring pace in the third to make it close at 7-6 for the visitors. The fast pace of the game told on the Quebec boys and they resorted to a tight ragging game in the final quarter. A goal at 12:25 by Ready was the only score of the period and the Monties left town with an 8-6 victory.

Maroons were still minus their regular goalie, Manning, ill with pneumonia, but they found a splendid substitute, Saturday, in the Third Kenyon's Lloyd Kennedy, who went into the nets without prior practise to make many fine saves. The fans will want to see him in action again. Lee McCormick was also out with an injury and he was missed on the forward wall. Smith and Gauthier of Cornwall were newcomers and they showed well.

Alexandria scorers were Labelle, 2, Gabe Poirier, Brunet, Smith, Payment, one each. For the visitors big Pat Egan had two, Ready, three, and singles went to Monahan, King and Desnoyers.

Old favorites of Glengarry fans, the Indians come to Glengarry Gardens on Saturday night and Maroons will have a special reason for seeking a win. Monday night they met the Indians at Cornwall but election fever had several local players in its grip and Maroons could field only a make shift team after endeavoring to have it postponed. The result was inevitable, a 22-4 win for the Indians which had no relation to the relative strength of the teams. Saturday night's meeting should prove interesting.

A welcome feature of Saturday's game was the between-periods piping of Angus D. McDonald, Roy McDonald and Donald Kippen, three of the best.

Maroons play hosts to Ottawa St. Anne's on Wednesday night, when our merchants will have a business-free night to see the boys in action.

Awarded B.A. Degrees

Among the list of successful students in Toronto Universities, were the names of two former Maxville High School pupils. Hugh J. MacLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus MacLean of Greenfield and Lauchlin MacInnes, son of Mrs. Norman MacInnes, Maxville, received their B.A. degrees. The former graduated from St. Michael's College and the latter from the University of Toronto. Congratulations.

Writes Of Life In South Africa

Salisbury Southern Rhodesia South Africa May 19, 1948

Dear Friends,
Once a year I call at the old home town of Alexandria, but I cannot see all whom I'd like to chat with so I am sending this greeting to all my former associates and pupils. It is embarrassing now to meet so many efficient homemakers among my own boys and girls—makes me feel my age!!! However it is a great pleasure just the same, and the hospitality of Glengarry is always welcome to the wanderer.

The world is very small, and always one meets a bit of home in every corner of the world. Last week I had my holidays in Rhodesia. It is winter here, and I went for a trip up to Umalti, nearly 6000 ft. above sea level. There I met an old Canadian Father, who has been working on the (Continued on page 4)

Five Fellowships Offered Logan

(The Canadian Register)
A Catholic High graduate who has been quietly winning scholarships for years found himself on the front pages of Montreal newspapers recently.

With offers of assistantships and fellowships in five American colleges twenty-one year old Ralph Logan of St. Laurent, Que. decided to accept a Columbia University research fellowship of $1,500 leading to a Ph.D. degree in mathematics and physics. After "an outstanding career" as a student of Montreal, on graduating in June, 1943, he won two scholarships to McGill University, the Sir Edward Beatty Mathematics and the Sir William MacDonald Entrance scholarships.

At McGill where he took an honors course in pure and applied mathematics, he continued to "attract" scholarship awards—the Robert Bruce and Sir William MacDonald faculty scholarships, and a National Research Council of Canada bursary.

The "brilliant Canadian student" obtained his B.Sc. degree last May and continued his studies in the graduate faculty under Prof. P. R. Wallace of the department of applied mathematics. At convocation, on May 25th, his thesis won for him his Master of Science degree, "Magna cum laude".

Ralph is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Logan of 24 Principale St., St. Laurent. He was born in Cornwall, later moved to Greenfield and then to Alexandria, where he attended St. Margaret's Convent and A.H.S.

His brother Howard has been a student in the Jesuit novitiate at Guelph for the past four years.

Offers from American colleges that have made life exciting for the Logans, and the newspapers, include: three $1,000 assistantships and tuition from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Rochester University and Cornell Universities, and an $850 fellowship and tuition from the University of Illinois.

With his decision made in favor of Columbia which "is near home and in the centre of everything," Ralph's summer plans include work on the Research Council at Chalk River, Ont.

Dogs Doing Much Damage

Dogs running at large have been causing extra heavy loss to the sheep population of the district this Spring and Kenyon Township, which already has suffered losses aggregating one thousand dollars, is preparing to crack down. Warning is being given dog owners that the by-law which enforces the tying up of dogs from sundown to dawn will be rigidly applied and any dog found running at large during the night hours will be destroyed.

While the heaviest toll has been taken among sheep, flocks of chickens and at least two helpers have fallen prey to dogs in Kenyon. During Tuesday night a number of sheep and a heifer were lost on the farm of Angus McDonald 4th Kenyon.

The counties of Glengarry and Stormont will form two larger High School areas if the recommendations of the consultative committee, appointed by Counties Council a year ago, are approved by that body at the June session which convenes in Cornwall on Monday. A report of the work of the committee was given to a joint meeting of the county councillors and members of the various school boards in Glengarry and Stormont, held in the Counties' building Cornwall, Wednesday night.

Visualized are one large school to serve needs of Glengarry and another in Stormont which would cover the sections of the township not now included in the area already established in East Cornwall.

Almost all the preliminary steps have been taken by the various municipalities and school boards, and it is expected Counties Council will set up the areas with the larger administrative boards taking over on January 1st, 1949. Present school facilities would be used until the new boards saw fit to build the larger units.

Mayor J. R. H. Morgan, inspector of high schools in this area was the chief speaker at Wednesday's meeting and he reviewed developments to date and outlined steps necessary for completion of the project. In Glengarry, he said, all the municipalities have passed resolutions favoring creation of the larger unit and both the Alexandria and Williamstown High School boards have asked to have their boards dissolved and the larger unit established. Maxville High School Board had not yet taken that step but trustees present at the meeting intimated that they expected the necessary resolution would be passed in time for presentation to the June session. Given the choice between joining Avonmore or a Glengarry school, they stated, Maxville would almost certainly decide to stay with the county.

The picture in Glengarry was clear Major Morgan declared, and if Counties Council sets up the larger area at this session, the new board, representative of the whole county, would take over in January operating the present schools until the new, larger school was erected.

In Stormont, Avonmore and Roxboro townships and Finch Village have requested the larger area as have Finch and Avonmore High Schools. The other groups are expected to move in that direction in time to have unanimity before Counties Council meets.

Discussing the larger High School areas more generally, Major Morgan declared the move will be of immeasurable benefit to the youngsters of school age for years to come. The chief aim is a better education for the children and this section of the Province will have a system second to none. He discussed the cost of the larger school units and stated they can be built, paid for over a number of years, staffed and run on less than a 6-mill tax rate.

On a suggestion from James McArthur reeve of Lancaster Village, a resolution was passed unanimously by the meeting endorsing the plans of the Consultative Committee as to the larger areas and recommending that Counties Council put them into effect at the June session. The motion was moved by T. Scott Fraser, reeve of Lancaster township, seconded by John McLennan, reeve of Charlottenburgh.

Perley Boyd, Counties' Clerk, opened the meeting and John Bogart, reeve of Matilda Twp. and chairman of the Education committee, presided. Several of those present took part in the discussion.

Sold Cattle At Sale

Local consignors to the All-Eastern Holstein Sale held Wednesday, May 26, at the Exhibition Grounds, Ottawa, included P. A. Munroe, Maxville who received $575 for a six-year-old cow, Leslie B. Murray, Martintown, $375 for a heifer calf, and W. M. Morrow, & Sons, Maxville, $350 for a bred heifer and $225 for a heifer calf.

Poultry Campaign Aimed

To Boost Grain Savings

A nationwide "Eats Hens to Help" campaign has been launched by the Poultry and Egg National board, with the objective of saving 30 million bushels of grain for Europe. This program is being supported by government agencies, as well as industry members.

The campaign, which calls for every American family to eat one hen per week, carries out the pledge worked out by poultry and government leaders as a better grain-saving substitute for poultryless Thursday.

Success of the campaign will transform 136 million grain-eating hens into chicken pot pie, chicken à la king, chicken 'n' dumplings and other favorite dishes which housewives create from stewing fowl. Grocers and meat dealers are co-operating in the drive to "eat the hens which are eating the grain."

This campaign is designed to save more than half of the 56 million bushels of grain pledged by the poultry industry. The program of the citizens food committee calls for a saving of 100 million bushels of grain. Consequently, the poultrymen's program will provide 56 per cent of the total amount of grain needed.

Low Social Standards

Noted in Arab States

Egypt is incomparably the biggest and richest Arab country. The conditions that exist there as reported by Nations Associated to the United Nations are:

Half the children die before they reach the age of five. Eighty-four per cent of the men and 92 per cent of the women are illiterate. Eighty-seven per cent of all cultivable land is owned by 2 per cent of the people.

Ninety per cent of the population, which is frightfully undernourished, suffers from trachoma; 75 per cent from bilharzia (disease of the blood); 70 per cent from pellagra; 15 per cent from malaria.

The death rate is higher than even that of India (27.2 per 1,000).

The average income of farm workers (who are not permitted to organize) is from $24.50 to $29.50 annually. The maximum wage of factory workers is $3.72 weekly, and of children about $1.

Syria, another Arab state, is equally an area of destitution, undernourishment and disease, according to the report. Agriculture workers earn 8 to 12 cents a day. There are 400,000 cases of malaria annually, out of a population of less than 3 million.

New Color Television

A new color television tube has been developed by Arthur B. Bronwell, Northwestern university. The new tube differs from other color tubes in that it is the only system with a composite viewing tube and a single electron gun. Other television color systems have three tubes and two of more electron guns. By coating three screens with a different color phosphor which corresponds with the three primary colors, a composite image screen is provided which enables the viewer to see the television programs in natural color. The three screens are optically superimposed upon each other but are separated by a microscopic distance and electrically insulated from each other.

Refinishing Surfaces

When refinishing enameled or varnished surfaces, the old surface should be thoroughly cleaned and then rubbed lightly with fine sandpaper or steel wool to dull the old gloss and provide a "tooth" for the new finish. If the old finish is chipped or scratched, it should be removed with paint remover and the surface cleaned with turpentine, and left to dry thoroughly before refinishing. At least two coats of enamel should be used, the first coat being a flat undercoat, which usually is made by the manufacturer of the enamel, and the second coat a gloss or semi-gloss enamel, or an "egg-shell" enamel, as preferred. In any case, the manufacturer's directions on the can should be observed.

Taking Care of Knives

The old fashioned way of making steel knives hollow ground was to grind them sideways, taking one side at a time. Now, however, blades are inserted between two grinding wheels and the concave edge is cut on both sides at once. Taking care of knives is the first rule of good carving, according to Steelways magazine. Hold the steel in a firm grip and place the heel of the blade against its tip. With a gentle wrist motion, bring the blade down the steel, then repeat the movement on alternate sides.

Handwashing Precaution

Thorough washing of the hands before eating was one of the cardinal precautions recommended by National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis during the recent epidemic season. Scientific studies have shown that the hands may be a means of spreading the virus infection through the contamination of food, drinks or objects carried to the mouth. For this reason, the foundation cautions that a high standard of personal cleanliness should be maintained, and that fresh fruits and vegetables especially should be washed well before eating.

Qualifications Are High

For Registered Nurses

It takes knowledge of a high order to become a registered nurse. It takes sound knowledge, for example, of the principles of physics to handle oxygen tents and various inhalation therapies, or the countless complicated suction and traction procedures. It takes a good foundation in chemistry, mathematics and physiology in order to prepare, observe and report reactions to a myriad of medications and agents, and to understand normal nutrition and therapeutic diets. It takes an understanding of psychology to deal with patients of all ages, from the new born to the octogenarian, in all walks of life.

The registered nurses of today, in fact, possess a degree of professional competence in excess of that possessed by physicians of other eras and the responsibility for this increase in professional knowledge, says American Nurses' association, lies in the education currently offered to student nurses.

Students accepted at any of the 1,250 accredited schools of nursing in the country have a minimum educational background which includes a high school diploma, with emphasis on courses in English, biological, physical and social sciences, mathematics, languages and economics.

Continuing Costs Exceed

Original Outlay for War

The continuing costs of World War II are expected to amount to more than the total military costs of World War I (31 billion dollars) by June 30, 1948, according to the National Industrial Conference board. The continuing costs of World War I are already about 40 per cent greater than the military costs of that conflict.

By 1972, total costs of World War II to the United States are placed at 700 billion dollars in estimates made by the war department. Veterans and their families, all prospective applicants for government benefits will number 62,500,000 by 1957.

So far as military costs can be measured, estimates confirm that the United States bore the brunt of the military costs of World War II. This country entered the "shooting war" more than two years after it began in 1939, yet footed about 30 per cent of its military cost.

The last pensioner of the War of 1812 disappeared from the United States budget in the 1947 fiscal year. The military cost of the Spanish-American war was 582 million dollars. During the 48 years ending June 30, 1946, the continuing costs of that war have amounted to $2,400,000.

Reopen Albert Canal

Reconstruction of the Albert canal across northern Belgium provides opportunity for peacetime trade on this waterway which was completed only a month before the outbreak of World War II. The 79-mile canal was heavily damaged during the German invasion of Belgium in 1940. All its bridges were destroyed and its locks were wrecked. These have been rebuilt. Connecting Belgium's teeming port of Antwerp on the Schelde river with the industrial city of Liege on the Meuse, this all-Belgium waterway puts Liege goods closer to world commerce. It provides better access to Monsin Basin coal, creates additional factory sites and supplies water for farm irrigation use, points out National Geographic society. The Albert canal has only six locks and no swing bridges. It not only speeds shipments but also accommodates 2,000-ton barges as against the 600-ton limit on the old canal. In some stretches the canal runs between 40-foot embankments above the surrounding country.

Ancient Magic Bean

It was several thousand years ago, so the story goes, that a party of jewel merchants was besieged by bandits in the Chinese hills. When the party's food was exhausted and their energy waning, one of the servants found some little hairy beans which he pounded into coarse meal and made into cakes. In amazement, the merchants saw how their energy came back after they ate these nourishing bean cakes. When at last the party made its way back to civilization, the soybean went along and became the staff of life in the Orient. In 2838 B. C. it was described in Chinese literature and was cultivated when the pyramids were being built in Egypt. The soybean was one of the five sacred grains in China and was sown with the blessings of emperors and the incantations of priests.

Beginning of Iced Tea

Iced tea was invented as an emergency by an Englishman in America at the 1904 St. Louis exposition. His name was Richard Blechynden and he dreamed up an elaborate exhibit in a costly pavilion to promote tea as the English drink. It gets hot in St. Louis in the summertime and hot tea was the last thing visitors were interested in. In desperation, he experimented with ice and came up with substantially the same tempting taste-pleaser that is served as iced tea today. His iced item made an instantaneous hit. That was in 1904, but today, 43 years later, the United States is the only country in which iced tea has become popular.

COUNTY NEWS

DUNVEGAN

Mrs. R. Milroy, Mrs. M. MacIntyre, Montreal, and their sister, Mrs. Campbell of Winnipeg, spent a couple of days in their old home here recently.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. MacLeod and sons John and Jimmie motored to Toronto Thursday. Miss Norma Cutton who was visiting here, accompanied them home. Her mother, Mrs. Norman Catton, came home with her brother John and family Sunday evening.

Ancient Chinese Right

Medical science has confirmed the 2,000-year-old Chinese treatment for the relief of pain in sprains, it was revealed by Janet Travell and Audrie L. Bobb of Cornell university medical college. The researchers confessed that the simple procedure of insertion of a needle, used in the Orient 2,000 years ago, proved valuable in restoring painless function of a sprained ankle despite the fact that the joint remained swollen and discolored. It remains an enigma as to why this simple procedure produces the striking and long-lasting relief it does.

A GAY, BRIGHTER HOME FOR LESS THAN $5.00 PER ROOM

Nothing could be simpler or more satisfying than redecorating with Spred. No surface preparation is needed—you just paint right over the old surface. Faded wallpaper, old paint, stained and faded patches—they are all obliterated by Spred's wonderful covering power. In their place you have a velvety, colorful surface that is readily kept clean. There are no brushmarks, no 'painty' odour. And Spred dries in thirty minutes into a hard, long-lasting finish of which you will be proud.

The Parliament of Canada has just passed "an act respecting The Bell Telephone Company of Canada". Here is what this act means to the telephone-using public:

More and Better Telephone Service

A Period of Unequalled Growth

In the 34 months since V-J Day we have added 350,000 telephones—many more than in the preceding ten years. We now serve 1,360,000 telephones—22 for every 100 persons throughout Ontario and Quebec. We have never before provided so much new service in so short a time.

This unprecedented pace has been maintained with the aid of new capital from Canadian investors. More will be required.

The Continuing Demand for Service

Yet, despite this rapid growth, we still have 96,000 unfilled orders for telephones and another 69,000 requests to change party lines to individual service. Thousands of new orders are coming in every month.

Long Distance calls are three times pre-war levels.

Many new buildings, switchboards, lines and other equipment must be provided as rapidly as possible. The next decade may well see more telephone construction than during the preceding 68 years of our history.

Rural Telephone Service

Rural telephone service has expanded, and will continue to do so. In the territory we serve, 55 of every 100 rural homes and businesses have telephones. In 1945 only 39% had service.

Vast Construction Program Continues

Parliament has given the Bell Telephone Company permission to increase its authorized capital by $350,000,000.

The Company can now continue to go to investors for the money necessary to further the greatest expansion and improvement program in its history.

This construction program is necessary if the Company is to carry out its obligation and satisfy the public's continuing demand for more telephones and more telephone service.

Our objective is to extend and improve the service so that ultimately we can give every applicant the kind and quality of service he wants, when and as he wants it.

Our farm program calls for still more telephones, for fewer parties on each line, and for more new switchboards.

Dial Telephones

New dial equipment is being installed in tremendous quantities.

Today we have more dial telephones than the total of all our telephones in 1942. Now 70 out of every 100 telephones are dial. More exchanges will be converted to dial operation.

Financing the Program

Much of the new money necessary to extend the telephone system must be obtained from thousands of people who wish to invest their savings.

The principal means of securing this new capital will be by issuing additional shares of our stock from time to time with the approval of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

It was for this purpose that the authority of Parliament was obtained.

Best Service—Lowest Cost

The skill and enthusiasm of telephone workers will be devoted to turning the materials obtained with the new capital into service of the highest standard.

The public can be assured that The Bell Telephone Company of Canada will continue to provide the best telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

The May meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Institute Hall on Friday at two thirty. Mrs. Stanley Kippen the president presided and opened the meeting with the ode and collect. The minutes were read by the Secretary Mrs. C. B. MacDiarmid and approved. The treasurer Mrs. George Barrett read the report for the past year and reported a balance of $311.37.

Miss Minnie MacDiarmid, one of the delegates of the District Annual at Bainsville gave a splendid report. She reported that the Prescott branches had with drawn from the Glengarry District. The new district president is Mrs. Clarke of Martintown.

and the next district annual is to be held in Martintown. Miss MacDiarmid spoke of the wonderful work the girls club was doing and gave an interesting description of the ceiling shelf poster made by Mrs. McKinnon and Miss Muffets.

It was decided at this meeting to apply for films of Institute work for the October meeting and that the groups from Dunvegan, Martintown and McCrimmon be invited to meet with Maxville at that time.

Mrs. Burns Stewart and Mrs. George Barrett were appointed to purchase a cupboard for the Institute dishes.

Mrs. Wesley MacLean gave a touching and beautiful tribute to the memory of the late Edith MacLean, then the members stood in silence honouring a departed member. Mrs. MacLean read a poem which closed with the words; She has passed from sight but with pure delight. She awaits us all with love, In the Fathers care she will ever share In His people's rest above.

The roll call was answered by "My Mother's maiden name".

Mrs. Howard Doig the hostess, for the afternoon spoke on the motto "They do not belong to any special clique, but are angels of mercy wherever they go" Owing to the lateness of the hour, it was decided to have Mrs. William Hall give her paper on "Motherhood" at a later date, when the audience would be able to appreciate it more. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

ST. ANDREWS' LADIES AID

The Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met in the school room on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock with the President Mrs. Dora Campbell in the chair. Mrs. Peter P. ceived and the Literature of the United Nations Society was distributed by Mrs. J. A. Cameron. The meeting closed with the mizpah benediction and a social hour was enjoyed.

GARDEN CLUB

The Maxville Garden Club met on May eleventh in the Town Hall. Mr. Gordon Bennett Agricultural Representative addressed the members and explained how to prepare the seed bed and have the soil tested.

Miss Margaret MacDonald also addressed the girls and gave out their record sheets and distributed literature concerning the garden.

The club members for the year are Clara Villeneuve, Shirley Kippen, Irma Prestige, Naomi Bovin Jean MacInnes, Mary Reid, Irene Guindon, Isabelle Kippen, Lillian Andre and Thelma Rowe. At the close of the meeting a short organization meeting was held which resulted in the following officers being appointed for the year.

Pres—Isabelle Kippen; Sec—Martine Guindon; Programme Committee—Jean MacInnis and Claire Villeneuve.

Local Leader—Mrs. Robert MacKay. The girls have all received their seeds and are working at the gardens.

ST. ANDREW'S SPRING BAZAAR

The Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their Annual Spring Bazaar and Salad Tea on Saturday afternoon in the church hall.

The bazaar was opened by the President Mrs. Dora Campbell at two thirty.

A large number turned out to patronize the different attractive booths.

The fancy work booth was in charge of Mrs. Dora Campbell and Mrs. Eurns Stewart.

The Apron booth and plain sewing booth was in charge of Mrs. M. C. Woods, Mrs. H. A. Doig and Mrs. W. Smillie.

Week end buyers availed themselves of the chance to buy home made cooking and in a short time the fine display was sold. Those in charge were Mrs. Roblin Kippen, Mrs. Alex R. Stewart and Mrs. James Cummling. The Mission Band booth was well patronized by the younger folks, which was most tempting with a wide assortment of articles and home made candy and was in charge of the leader Mrs. Arthur Charlton, and she was assisted by two of the members Jean MacInnes and Clair Sillmer.

Garden enthusiasts had a wide variety of house plants, perennials and bulbs to choose from, these were quickly purchased and was in charge of Mrs. James Vallance and Miss Margaret MacLeod.

The tea tables were most attractive with spring flowers and was in charge of Mrs. Vernon Metcalfe assisted by Mrs. Morton Casey, Miss Sara Haggart and Mrs. Donald MacDonald. Mrs. Dan Cameron was in charge of the tea committee and was assisted by Miss Hazel MacLeod.

Mrs. R. J. MacLeod was treasurer for the afternoon and reported that the proceeds for the entire afternoon was most gratifying.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Several of the ladies of this place availed themselves of the opportunity and attended the open meeting of the Woman's Institute on Thursday afternoon. After the opening exercises, the minutes and correspondence were read by Miss Sandilands. A letter from E. A. MacGillivray, M.P.P., acknowledging the letter from this branch asking his help in securing an increase in veteran's pensions, and also promising to do all he could, was read. Miss Marguerite Maccione, supervisor of Girls' Clubs was introduced by Mrs. Urquhart. An excellent address on the Girls' work which is connected with the Woman's Institute was given by Miss Maccione. She also encouraged the local branch by suggesting ideas for increasing the membership.

Miss Ethel Ross gave an explanation of the contest, open to all the Institute branches, on "The Farm Home".

Refreshments were served by the hostesses the Misses Jennie and Ethel Ross and a very pleasant time was spent, in which weaving, rug making and crayon work, were discussed. An invitation is extended to the ladies to attend the next meeting June 10th in the public library.

GLEN ROBERTSON

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Isaac Sauve in the death of her brother, George Lalonde.

Carl Rickard enjoyed a few days last week in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. McLellan had as Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Rowe of Ottawa and Mrs. A. L. McKenzie of Vars.

Alcide Daoust met with an unfortunate accident here last week while repairing a bicycle with a screw driver. Mr. Daoust who had poor eye sight wore glasses and it seems that the screw driver slipped striking the glasses causing them to break and at the same time cutting the eye ball. He was taken to the Cornwall hospital where upon close examination it was found that the sight of his best eye was gone. Mr. Daoust is the sexton at the church here and his mishap is much regretted.

Miss Georgie Robertson arrived from Verdon recently to spend the summer in the Glen.

The Glen Robertson social is less than a month away and according to the different committees they take the social credit of having everything well advanced with the aid of the parishioners. There is an abundant supply of blankets and fancy quilts as well as many other valuable articles which should entice many to visit the various booths which will be tastefully decorated for that occasion. Remember its the evening of the 30th June.

Mr. R. L. Hanley of Ottawa week ended with his mother, Mrs. Hanley-glasses causing them to break and at the same time cutting the eye ball. He was taken to the Cornwall hospital where upon close examination it was found that the sight of his best eye was gone. Mr. Daoust is the sexton at the church here and his mishap is much regretted.

He was taken to the Cornwall hospital where upon close examination it was found that the sight of his best eye was gone. Mr. Daoust is the sexton at the church here and his mishap is much regretted.

Ed. Menard put the new look to his store last week when he added new large plate glass windows at the front. The interior is well laid out and well filled with everything. It has often been said, what you can't get at Eaton's, you'll get it at Menard's.

Welcome visitors to the Glen Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Franklin of Alexandria.

Death called away one of the Glens respected ladies in the person of Mrs. Jos Leblanc whose death occurred at her home here, Tuesday morning, at the age of 85.

Mr. Hector Dupuis, Montreal, was among the visitors here this week. Gaston Dupuis was a midweek visitor to Canada's Big City.

After spending a few days in Montreal Mr. John Henry returned home, Tuesday.

Writes On South Africa

Missions here for nearly 40 years, and who now has shaved his beard to look younger (not for beauty but to get out in the veld (bush) again). What stories he could tell! All I could answer him was about the skiing or the cinemas in Montreal. He did not know about the station in Montreal, but he knew all about Brother Andre and had read all the literature about him. It seemed quite marvellous to me that he had such a lively interest in his home country after all these years and his hospitality did credit to it too.

Life in the veld, on the Missions is absolutely opposite to our city life. I live in the city of Salisbury, but for my holiday I visited the bundu, as I was interested to see how other people live, and being a schoolteacher I wanted to see the native schools. The country is dotted with huge granite jumps and roads are really washed away frequently by the heavy rains so that when you travel out of town you drive on strips of tarmac. Then turning into a native reserve is like going through fields at home. It gives you perhaps the same feeling as when you first get on skates (how long you will keep up is always an uncertainty). The scenery is very beautiful in all directions in the country. Life of course gets more primitive as you travel out to the Missions.

One day I set out to visit a witch doctor. I have of course listened to many stories of them so I wanted to see one in person. The village was some miles away over the rocks. The nurse (a Sister) came with me as I fear I get easily lost here where the paths are really like the ribbons you see in the country from a plane, as you look below you. They are more like maizes. I arrived at the village of Chiradza (called after the Head man). The village was well chosen. On one side of it was a huge rock, and on the other undulating slopes. Now the homes look like a lot of beehives with grass roofs. In this village the huts were all in line (in some places it is not like that). So we called at the first hut—a woman and her baby were there in the dark (there were no windows in these huts as the native believes witches enter if there is an opening to his home). I knew a few words to speak so I exhausted these very rapidly and sister then carried on. As we went from one hut to another a very talkative old native woman accompanied us. Finally she said at one door "AAAah" a long drawn out expression of joy. I found out why very quickly. There on the floor, lay her lord and master Chiradza himself, (head man of this village). I wish you could have seen him. In the middle of his hut was a fire on the floor, (the floors are of course made of cow dung pounded in to make a solid ground) He was dressed in old sacks and lay on a grass mat. In his hand he held a mealie (corn) cob which he kept alternately tearing at with his teeth and roasting in the fire, and on his head was a Khaki hat with a blue knife through it. His face had all the furrows of time, and his ideas were very, very intriguing.

Particularly did I get a jolt about my own importance in his eyes. He said "Who are you?" "Are you married?" With my reply in the negative, he looked at me and, having three wives himself, thought (I am sure) that I could not have been worth much, since no one had paid for me. Of course the native buys a new wife when ever he gets a little more money—so this is another hardship on the native who becomes a christian. He loses face with his fellowmen as he can only have one wife. After a long gaze at me he said "How soon she be married?" Apparently, he did not think me quite worthless. I said good bye soon after as he demanded a cup per of water from his wife (never moving from his position on the floor) I was glad to leave him to her ministering attentions.

Well, we had travelled the whole length of the place and no hut discussed the witch doctor. Suddenly I beheld in the distance what looked like a pixie, or the Irish Leprechaun. A tiny man hopped towards us, on tiny little wizened up arms and legs. As he came nearer I noticed he wore an old shirt, a bright red peaked hat and a charm hung on his neck. His face was really weird in the extreme. It was full of old world cunning. He slid past, while Sister addressed a man coming in from the fields. As all the women carry their bundles, even sewing machines, on their heads I was showing off that I could carry a look on mine and this native was having fun at my expense when our friend slid by. We soon caught up with him sitting crosslegged on the ground at the base of a hill. Sister asked him for his bones. He uses them for foretelling the future, — a nice form of fortune telling!! He pretended not to hear. But he kept calling to her for "Muti" medicine). I was highly amused as I expected to see him curing himself by his own medicines. But apparently it is like the cook not wanting her own cooking. Sister gave him Vix, as he seemed to be bothered with a cough. He wanted to eat it and then when Sister said to rub it, he nearly took the only article of clothing on his bones off. He would talk hardly at all, but a dog kept keeping Sister from getting too close. (I was more afraid of the dog than the old lad). A native came up and built a fire near the Old One. He had prickly pears in his hand. He took a large axe and cut the prickles off the pear with a few little strokes of the axe up in his hand. I was thinking I would not like to annoy him. I timidly asked the old one's age. He replied "2000 maybe more". Then he warned us that we better set out for home as they do not ever stay out after dark, (they worry over evil spirits being on the loose then). He showed us a short cut home, having really put the fear of the Lord in me by telling us that a leopard had attacked their cattle the night before and half eaten two cows.

The thrill of fear I expected from the witch doctor, was supplied by the imaginary feet of the leopard behind me as I came back to the mission on wings.

I have no time for any more, but life is not monotonous here, even though we have no hockey or skiing. I hope 1948 will be very happy for all my Glengarry friends.

Sincerely,

Collette Hannan
formerly High School teacher at Alexandria.

Drew Defeated

by Progressive Conservatives. The other two were retained by the only Labor-Progressive members in the Legislature.

Mr. Joffe, who did not have a seat in the last legislature, was elected in York South, defeating W. S. Gibson, Progressive Conservative, and Ragnar Johnson, Liberal.

The Liberal Leader, Farquhar Oliver, 44, was re-elected in Grey South—a seat he has held since 1926. He defeated three opponents.

Agnes Macphail was the only successful woman candidate, winning York East for the CCF. Five other women were defeated. Miss Macphail, who in 1921 became the first woman ever elected to the federal parliament, was elected as a CCF candidate in the 1945 provincial election and was defeated in 1945.

Heavy Vote Recorded

Despite cold, wet weather in most parts of the province Monday, the vote was heavy. It was expected to exceed the 1945 record of 1,765,793.

Premier Drew, who conceded Mrs. Temple's victory at 9.38 p.m. a little more than 2 1/2 hours after the closing of polls, said his personal defeat was "very disappointing."

But he called other results "more satisfactory" and said in a radio address a few hours later that he believes his party won "wider representation." That was an apparent reference to Progressive Conservative gains in Northern Ontario. They increased their standing there from one to six of the north's 12 seats.

Mr. Joffe described the reduction of the Progressive Conservative majority as a "clear indication of growing dissatisfaction" among the electors.

Mr. Oliver's post-election statement urged the people of Ontario to support the "democratically-elected" government.

One of the Liberals elected is H. C. Nixon, former Liberal premier and dean of the legislature. He has served in eight previous legislatures, representing Brant continuously since 1919.

Now that the rush of spring work is nearly over what better time is there to dig that well? And what would be better to use than some of our 24" or 30" tile? They are strong, clean, and easy to instal.

Or it may be that you intend putting in a cesspool. If so, we have them all ready to put in—easy to install, last a lifetime, and very sanitary. See these before you start your job, and we know you will agree they are the best as well as reasonably priced.

Whether it be a culvert or a drain we have what you want all sizes from 6" to 30", inside measure. Our prices are right, and we know you will be satisfied when you see them. We manufacture these tiles, so give us a call and have us deliver some right to your job.

Card of Thanks

To the people of Glengarry
The result of the election has been most satisfactory to the Glengarry Progressive Conservative organization and to all the supporters who made the success possible.

It is my intention to faithfully and assiduously represent the riding in provincial affairs and I will always welcome the opportunity to co-operate in being of individual or collective service to the community.

At this time I wish to thank all who put their confidence in me and in the Drew Government
Yours sincerely,

OSIE VILLENEUVE

A mes amis de Glengarry:
Le résultat de l'élection a été une grande satisfaction pour moi, et à l'association Progressive Conservatrice de Glengarry, et à tous les partisans qui ont rendu possible le succès.

J'ai l'intention de représenter le comté dans les affaires provinciales avec fidélité et avec assiduité et je voudrais toujours l'occasion de coopérer au service des individus et de la communauté.

Je veux à cette occasion, remercier très sincèrement tous les électeurs qui ont reposé leur confiance en moi et en le Gouvernement Drew.

Bien à vous,

They call it the "new look." But the fashion designers are just kidding—the "new look" is at least 3,000 years old. According to history, the Babylonian girls of 1500 B. C. were wearing several garments of which adaptations now may be seen on the Montmartre in Paris, on Park avenue or on Main street. The long, tubular tunic and the tight, long skirt was the fashion 3,000 years ago, according to World Book encyclopedia. So was the high-necked gown with flowing, three-quarter length sleeves and the flaring, long skirt considered smart today. The only difference between then and now was that the women of 3,000 years ago had to provide their own hip lines. They hadn't thought of padding. For further parallels of today's styles, the encyclopedia editor had to ship to ancient Greece, around 550 B. C. The dress of Grecian women then resembled the evening dress of 1947, long and flowing. Skirts were long during the Napoleonic period, but the trailing trains of those times prevent any comparison to the new look. There is no resemblance to today's fashions in the costumes of the early Colonial period in American history nor in pioneer women's fashions. We have to go through the "gas light" era into the 1920s to come to anything approaching the "new look."

Today's Style Proven Of Ancient Day Origin

Tire Costs Decline as Mileage Records Gain

The average industrial worker in America today earns 2,120 miles of automobile tire life per hour; in 1907 his hour's earnings would have been able to purchase only 20 miles' worth of a tire of that era, according to National Patent Council. That is one of the discoveries made recently in analyzing the persistent, long-term trend of more miles for less money in tires. Even since 1939 the advance has been striking when viewed in terms of "what an hour's work will buy," the study shows. A typical worker's hourly wage in that year could be translated into 822 tire miles, whereas today he can buy a tire that outwears prewar tires for less than the prewar price—although his own wage is higher. Inventions, protected by patents, have increased the miles of tire service from an average of 3,500 in 1907 to 25,000 today, while they have reduced the cost to users from $35 to less than $15. When tires cost $35 the average wage was about 20 cents an hour. Now, with tires at less than half that cost, the average industrial hourly wage rate is $1.23.

Exhaust System Check

A careful check of the exhaust system when conditioning cars for winter driving will minimize dangers of the deadly carbon monoxide gas fumes, according to Chicago Motor club. This deadly gas is colorless, odorless, tasteless and can prove fatal even in small amounts. Present in the exhaust gases of all automobiles and produced by the incomplete combustion of gasoline, carbon monoxide fumes may enter the driving compartment from many points. A thorough check of pistons, piston rings, exhaust pipes, mufflers, exhaust manifold gaskets, exhaust pipe connections and hot air heaters should be included in the must list when winterizing cars. Excessive amounts of the poisonous gas also are caused by poor ignition and faulty carburetor adjustments. The hazards of driving a car of older vintage are increased greatly because of deterioration of these important parts.

New Uses for Rice Needed

Prior to World War II, the U. S. rice crop was about 50 million bushels annually, but in the last few years it has averaged more than 70 million bushels. South American countries also have increased their production, and a world surplus of rice may be expected in the future. In the U. S. rice is grown in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and central California. Most of the crop now is being harvested with combines, and thus is fairly high in moisture, which creates a storage problem. From the standpoint of industrial uses, three main products from rough rice may be considered; hulls, bran and polish, and milled rice. Principal industrial use of milled rice would be in the manufacture of starch. A small amount of rice starch has been made in the U. S. in recent years, but there has been very little research to improve its manufacture or increase its use.

Cement Paint Recommended

The finishing touch on concrete masonry is a coat of paint that is made especially for that type of work, according to Michigan State college. Portland cement paint is sold in dry powdered form ready to mix with water. It generally is made with white portland cement, and limeproof and sunproof mineral pigments which are ground with other materials to produce the desired colors. If desired, a paint may be made up by using equal parts of white portland cement, very fine sand or fine agricultural limestone. Application for either commercial or homemade paint is the same. The surface to be painted should be dampened before painting. Do not apply portland cement paint to a dry surface.

Steel Production Soars Toward Record Output

Steel production in 1947 gives promise of attaining a total of 84 million ingot tons, a record for any peacetime year, according to Northern Trust company, Chicago. In 1946, as the result of major strikes and material shortages, the industry produced only 67 million tons. Representing 92 per cent of capacity for the full year's production, 1947 output will be a third more steel than was produced in 1929, 1.8 times the 1935-1939 average, and may be compared with 90 million tons produced in wartime 1944. Anticipated demand for such items as automobiles, railroad cars, pipe and tubing, heavy electrical equipment and construction steels indicates a relatively high level of steel production in 1948 for domestic consumption, the bank reports. Foreign demand is also heavy, with exports now absorbing about 10 per cent of production as against a normal prewar average of about 5 per cent of total production. "Over the longer term, the highly cyclical characteristics of the industry may be expected to reassert themselves," the bank says. "Output will continue to fluctuate closely with activity in the capital goods industries and with the demand for consumers' durable goods." Discussing the industry's contemplated postwar expansion plans, the bank points out that, of the overall figure of one billion dollars in contemplated expenditures, 448 million dollars is to be disbursed in 1947.

Jack Pine Produced In Great Lake States

During the past 30 years, jack pine in the Great Lake states climbed from obscurity to economic prominence. Once commercially unimportant, it now is used extensively in production of pulpwood, box lumber, mine timbers, cabin logs, piling, poles and posts. According to the U. S. department of forestry, the present total area of jack pine in the lake states is slightly more than 3 million acres. Present total merchantable volume is estimated at 12 million cords. Total merchantable volume includes more than 5 million cords of pulpwood and 2 billion board feet of sawlogs. The remaining 1,696 million cords are substandard cordwood. The current annual growth of jack pine in the lake states is in the neighborhood of 45 million cubic feet, or about 15 cubic feet per acre per year. This is only one-third of what can be produced under favorable conditions of stocking. Depending on age and site, a fully stocked acre of jack pine land should grow from 25 to 85 cubic feet per annum.

Addicted Infants

Infants born to mothers who are morphine addicts show all the symptoms of a morphine addict whose supply suddenly has been cut off, and if not properly treated they may die of convulsions during the first week of life, according to American Medical Association. The infants are born at full term and are apparently normal, but their addiction matches that of their mothers. Separation from the maternal circulation shuts off the supply of drug to the newborn, and withdrawal symptoms ensue within three days. In the past, some investigators erroneously assumed that morphine was excreted in human milk; hence, breast-feeding by the addicted mother was a method employed in the treatment of congenital morphinism. Dosage with phenobarbital brought about prompt recovery, the drug being continued for eight weeks before being tapered off and stopped.

Bee Stings for Arthritis

Beekeepers have been said to be immune to arthritis and they have been known to dispense the stings of their bees to the sick, American Medical Association says. In Europe, places existed where rheumatic patients made pilgrimages for the sake of bee sting treatments. The natural venom of the bee contains a poisonous substance similar to cantharidin and a sapotoxin somewhat similar to that found in snake venom. The physiologic effects produced by injections of the venom of bees are said to be analogous to the effects of administering histamine. Since the procedure employed by bringing about the stinging of patients by live bees is somewhat hazardous, methods of harvesting the venom have been developed. On the basis of the evidence available at this time, bee venom therapy cannot be recommended, says the association.

Ups and Downs of Horses

The draft horse business always has experienced good and bad periods. At one time horses dominated the city streets, six to eight hitched clapping over the cobblestones from early morning to late at night. Invention of the reaper and the combine brought horses in enormous hitches to the farm. When the railroad loomed up as motive power those who loved and valued the horses feared the speed-eating competitor. Instead it bound the farmer and the city consumer closer. By the time of World War I horses were bringing big prices, one Percheron stallion selling for $40,000 at a time when beef cattle were considered expensive at $25 to $40 per head.

CHAPTER X

The nurse disappeared toward the adjoining room. Kay hesitated a moment. "I've locked the balcony doors." Her lovely eyes were staring. "It's frightening not knowing who this person was!"

"Your mother wasn't hurt, was she?"

"No, but—"

"Perhaps she only imagined something."

"But why did mother scream? She must have seen someone."

"Just to make you feel better, I'll have that guard, Steve, stay near the house tonight."

She relaxed a little. "You really don't think it was anything?"

He gave Kay a quick, easy grin. "Stop worrying, child." He pressed her arm. "I'll be back after a bit to tuck you in bed and kiss you good night. I'm a very motherly sort of person."

She couldn't help smiling a bit. "You're an unusual man, Johnny Saxon. Doesn't anything ever bother you?"

"Would you really like to know?"

Color flooded her smooth cheeks. She turned hurriedly and followed the nurse into her mother's room.

Johnny Saxon returned along the second-floor hallway. He found a flight of stairs that led to the third floor. Having already been told that the servants' quarters were above, he thought it unlikely that a prowler would allow himself to be trapped up there. He wondered why he had not seen Homer, the butler, all evening.

The light was still out in the corridor that passed his room. A thought had been in Johnny's mind since he had unexpectedly come upon the nurse in her bedroom.

This afternoon he had suspected that she was watching his room. Could she have been there a little while ago?

The devil of it was, what could Karen expect to find in his room? What would even take her there?

Down below him, in the gardens, there was some commotion.

Leaning over the balcony rail, Johnny recognized Moe Martin's voice.

Johnny did not catch Moe's grumbled answer. But he heard twigs and brush crackling. "What are you doing down there?" he called out.

"Johnny? Can you come down for a minute?"

"All right. But for Heaven's sake, stop the rumpus." Johnny thought of Irene Smith, whom Kay and the nurse were trying to get to sleep. Further agitation might aggravate the woman's condition, and Johnny was anxious to talk to her again first thing in the morning.

Johnny went out the back way, circled the rear of the house and found his partner.

Moe Martin was hanging to the Great Dane's wide collar; the animal seemed agitated and restless, even growling slightly as Johnny appeared suddenly in the beam from the flashlight held in Moe's hand.

"Okay, boy, okay," said Johnny quickly. The dog nuzzled against his hand and became friendly. Turning to the man who was with Moe Martin, he said, "I'm certainly glad he's not vicious."

"They never are. Great Danes are like overgrown, curious children." He was a slender, medium-built young man with dark eyes that seemed to magnify themselves somewhat behind thick-lensed glasses. The glow of the flashlight revealed his sharp, high-cheek-boned features. "I'm Doctor Clark Bob Clark." He held forth his hand. "I presume you're Johnny Saxon? I've heard of you."

Johnny nodded, shook hands.

Moe Martin said, "The dog heard something."

"With you still hanging onto him?" Johnny noted Moe's flushed, perspiring face.

"Naturally. I wanted to see what he was after."

Doctor Bob Clark laughed softly. "You should have seen them. . . in and out of shrubbery, all over the place."

They were moving through the gardens beneath the balcony.

"What'd he hear?" asked Johnny.

"I think it was just a rabbit," said Doctor Clark. "What else?"

Moe Martin was busy probing the ground with the flashlight beam. Grass was dry and burnt from lack of rain. The earth was hard beneath their feet. Ever with watering, flowers and plants in the garden had suffered greatly. "It's funny," Moe muttered.

"You didn't see anyone," Johnny prompted.

Doctor Bob Clark glanced at him. "No. But would it be unusual if we did? Anyone from the house might have been wandering around."

"But you didn't hear anything?" Johnny was glancing at his partner, Moe, though he directed the question to the young doctor.

"No—nothing," said Bob Clark.

Moe Martin was somewhat beyond the doctor Johnny saw him nod his head. Johnny wondered if Moe's headshake meant he was agreeing with Clark—or disagreeing.

Passing one of the extending wings at the rear of the house Johnny saw stoutly built trelliswork that reached from the ground to the balcony above. Leafy green vines of some sort covered the white-painted cross-pieces of the framework. He counted three or four of the vine-covered affairs.

It occurred to Johnny Saxon that the things could easily be used as ladders to the balcony. Perhaps the prowler had escaped this way. Michael, the dog, could have heard sounds not audible to the human ear.

They had arrived at the circular driveway in front of the mansion. Moe Martin was mopping his fringe of hair, "Well," he said, "maybe I was wrong." He put the flashlight in his pocket.

Doctor Bob Clark looked upward through the great spreading branches of the trees. "The sky's cloudy; we ought to be getting some rain." He seemed friendly enough. He didn't look like a doctor because he was not gray-haired and scholarly. Probably he was a very excellent sawbones.

Bob Clark looked toward the house. Light from the library windows touched the driveway. "I guess Karen's not coming down again," he told Johnny. "So I'll run along."

Johnny studied the doctor's lean face in the half darkness. "How far is it to the hospital?"

"Four miles."

"That's a long walk." Johnny motioned to the station wagon, parked in the darkness some distance beyond Doctor Clark. "Why don't you ride with Nick Walker?"

"For one thing it's out of his way. Besides, I keep in-shape walking."

"In hot weather," said Johnny, "I keep in shape drinking gin. Which reminds me, Walker was supposed to be fixing up a couple of drinks. Join us?"

Smiling, Bob Clark shook his head. "Thanks. If you see Karen, tell her I'll phone tomorrow."

Johnny nodded. He said nothing about the incident a little while ago in the nurse's bedroom. "I'll tell her sure." His glance went from the doctor's face to the station wagon beyond, then back to Bob Clark's eyes again. "By the way, have you ever met anyone named Bart?"

The man's dark eyes did not change expression behind the heavy glasses. He shook his head. "Karen was telling me about it," he said. "Irene thinks you're someone named Bart."

"That's right."

"It's some peculiar fixation that is in her mind. In a few days it'll probably change to something else. Cases like hers are strange." He paused a moment, then added, "She was a charming woman. It's a pity. She was intelligent and profound. Now, sometimes, it's almost like conversing with a child. I wonder, at times, if she'll ever . . ."

His words trailed off and he stared absently ahead. For a moment he seemed to have forgotten them completely.

Then Doctor Clark's manner changed. "Well," said he pleasantly, "I'd better get started." He looked at Moe and smiled. "I would not try to hold onto him the next time he thinks he sees a rabbit."

He meant the Great Dane, Michael. Moe was still firmly clinging to the dog's collar as though fearful to be alone without him.

The doctor's figure disappeared along the drive. For a moment his footsteps sounded along the gravel. Then they faded out in the breathless, quiet night.

"I wonder," murmured Moe Martin.

"You wonder what?"

"About him." Moe nodded in the general direction the doctor had just taken. "It wasn't very loud, of course. The dog, here, heard it and that's why he got excited. I heard it, too. Why didn't the doc hear it?"

Several times, Johnny had seen the glow of a cigarette over there in the darkness. He reminded himself that it might not be a bad idea to carry the police Positive, which still was packed in his bag upstairs.

"I thought perhaps it was you," Johnny said.

Steve, the guard, stood partly supported by the front fender of the station wagon. "What was wrong with the dog?" He dropped the cigarette butt and carefully ground it beneath his toe. He spoke as though he'd been watching for some time.

"How long have you been standing here?" Johnny asked.

"Five minutes, maybe."

"You didn't hear anything?"

The solidly-built fellow eyed Johnny. "Hear what?"

"A little while ago. Something frightened Irene Smith. She was in her bedroom. I think she saw someone prowling around the balcony porch."

"She tell you that?"

"No," said Johnny, "she didn't tell us anything. She fainted. And when she came to, Kay says she was too upset to explain what scared her."

"Well," said Steve, "nobody saw nothing!" He sounded beligerent. "I been near the house all the time. Nobody's snooping around here without me knowing it!"

Johnny decided not to make an issue out of it. So he didn't say anything about actually seeing a figure moving in the thick shadows of the balcony. He was curious about one thing, however.

"How do three of you fellows manage to cover this whole estate?"

"One could do it," said the guard. He patted the holster at his hip. "Just let people know you're packing a rod, and not tell them where you're gonna be at any one time, and they ain't gonna take no chances."

"Everyone around this section knows the estate is guarded?"

"You're damned right! That's why I say I could handle the job alone. But if the Smiths want to pay for three of us, that's their headache. Let some little thing happen, and these rich bugs get jittery. You ask me, they're wasting their money."

MARRIAGES

CAMPBELL — MacMARTIN

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday, April 29, 1948 at the parsonage of the Welland United Church, when Phyllis Isobel MacMartin, Reg. N. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. MacMartin of Oxford Mills, was united in marriage to Alexander A. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Campbell of McCrimmon. Rev. Mr. Hendershot officiated.

Attending the young couple were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scott of Welland.

For her wedding the bride chose a steel grey suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow tulle and roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will reside at Welland Ont.

MacGILLIVRAY — RICHARDSON

The manse at Carlyle, Sask., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday April the 21st, at 4 p. m. when Ena Ilean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Richardson, became the bride of Donald Wellesley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. MacGillivray of Dunvegan. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. M. Reynolds.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor length gown of white celanese chiffon with shoulders length veil held in place with a coronet of white flowers. She carried a beautiful bouquet composed of Ophelia roses and maiden hair fern caught with a large bow of white ribbon and she wore the groom's gift a gold heart-shaped locket.

Dorothy Richardson sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid and wore a floor length gown of blue sheer with a coronet of blue flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and maiden hair fern.

Fergus Richardson, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served in their honour to friends and relatives present. The table was pretty decorated with a three-tiered cake; pink and white streamers decorated the room. The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Regina the bride travelling in a blue gabardine dress beige coat and matching accessories.

They will reside in Edmonton Alta. Prior to her marriage a miscellaneous shower was held in honour of the bride when useful gifts were received.

RUSSO — MacDONALD

At a recent double ring ceremony in St. Gregory's Church Detroit, Michigan, Mary Constance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ranald J. MacDonald became the bride of Armand Russo son of Fred Russo and the late Mrs. Russo. The Rev. Leo Healy performed the ceremony and Rev. Ed. Seifen sang the Nuptial High Mass.

The bride chose a candlelight satin gown with a net yoke edged in a floral design of seed pearls tight bodice, the skirt falling into an extended train. Her illusion veiling was fastened to a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and iris, centered with a white orchid.

All attendants wore identical gowns with mittens to match. Regina Hoban, maid of honor, was gowned in pale yellow taffeta; the bridesmaids, Shirley MacMillan and Barbara Balog, wore pale lavender; Junior bridesmaid, Fay MacDonald sister of the bride, was dressed in an aqua gown. All carried white and yellow daisies with headgears of the same flowers. Jack Walsh was bestman while Sam Pravota and Angus MacDonald were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a beige crepe dress with pink accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony breakfast was served at Carterbury Inn, followed by a reception in the evening.

The bride's going away costume was a navy gabardine suit and white accessories.

The groom served three years in the Navy and is now attending The Detroit School of Photography.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at several showers by her cousins and friends.

Innoculation Clinics

The third clinic to inoculate babies and children against whooping cough and diphtheria will be held Tuesday June 15, at Apple Hill, Separate School, 10 a.m. Greenfield, Township Hall, 1 30 p.m. Maxville, Institute Hall, 3 00 p.m.

Big Drainage Day Planned

Something new in farm demonstrations will take place at Edwards on the farm of Hector Aubrey & Son, on Tuesday June 29th commencing at 10 00 a.m. This will be the first Drainage Field Day ever held in Ontario and one which should prove especially interesting to all farmers in Glengarry County.

Drainage is an important factor in Eastern Ontario and one which should receive first attention by all concerned, therefore it is very important that every farmer in the district who has Drainage problems on his farm should attend this Field Day and acquaint himself thoroughly with modern methods of drainage work.

The programme at the Field Day will include demonstrations in constructing all kinds of open ditches with the use of road maintainers, graders, bulldozers, drag line shovels, tractors with shovels, Martin Ditcher Purkeye Ditcher and all types of tile ditching will be demonstrated, including sub-soiling and mole ditching. Ditching with dynamite, taking levels, making profiles and setting up cross arms will be shown.

It is expected that many thousands of farmers in Eastern Ontario will attend this demonstration, and farmers in Glengarry County are especially urged to attend since they have many drainage problems.

R. G. Bennett, local Agricultural Representative has suggested that buses might be chartered for this big day if sufficient wish to go. We are therefore asking every farmer who wishes to attend this Field Day and who might wish to go by bus to contact the Agricultural Office in Alexandria, not later than Saturday, June 19th. Anyone with Drainage problems cannot afford to miss this big event.

Glens Hold First Reunion

"No battalion in the Canadian Army or any other Allied army came out of World War 11 with a better record than the Glens", declared Brigadier D. G. Cunningham, DSO, of Kingston, former commander of the 9th Infantry Brigade, in addressing former members of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, at their first annual reunion dinner meeting Saturday night at Cornwall.

About 400 men, including three former unit commanding officers, attended the banquet at Cornwall Armouries. Brig. Cunningham was the main speaker at the dinner, held in the spacious drill hall. Others who spoke briefly included Lt. Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, former OC; Col. M. S. Dunn, OBE, of Ottawa, also a former OC; Major A. J. Hamilton, Peterborough, former 2nd IC; Capt. Allan Piper, Ottawa, district chief pensions officer, Dominion Command, Canadian Legion; Lt. Col. W. J. Franklin, MC, VD, Ottawa; and former OC and Col. D. C. Cameron, DSO and Bar, Ottawa, former commander of the Third Battalion, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

The two-day reunion program concluded Sunday afternoon with a parade to the Cenotaph where tribute was paid to the battalion's war dead. A wreath was laid by RSM F. A. Lockhart, DCM, of Peterborough. Heading the parade were the combined pipe bands of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and the Canadian Legion.

Lt. Col. Hicks-Lyne commanded the parade which proceeded past a reviewing stand where the salute was taken by Brig Cunningham.

Also on the platform were: Lt. Col. J. A. Gilles, Ottawa; Lt. Col. Franklin, Lt. Col. D. R. Dick, officer commanding the Highlanders Reserve Army regiment; and AId. G. A. Smith, representing Mayor Gallinger.

Big Crowd Out

(continued from page 1) ty's victory in Glengarry, the first Provincial win in 22 years, and equally happy to have won "by the largest majority of any Conservative candidate in the riding's history". Mr. Villeneuve expressed his appreciation of the clean fight put up by the other candidates and their supporters and called for the co-operation of everyone in furthering the interests of Glengarry.

The speakers were introduced by Donald A. Macdonald, K.O.

Election night was without incident here, excepting for a brief fight between two party stalwarts about 11 p.m. after most of the crowd had gone homeward or to Glengarry Gardens where Mr. Villeneuve played host to hundreds of his supporters.
