RECORD NOMINATION CROWDS PORTEND BIG VOTE

1,500 Jam Gardens To Hear Three Of Four Riding Candidates

Unusual Interest In Coming Election Shown As Four Qualify For August 10th Vote — Bosse, Bruneau, Guindon, Major

Interest is unusually high in the August 10th federal election in Glengarry-Prescott, judging by the huge crowds which turned out for joint nomination day meetings at Hawkesbury and Alexandria, Monday. Heard at spirited rallies were three of the four who qualified for the election, with their supporting speakers. Only candidate not participating was Francois Bosse, C.C.F. party man.

An estimated 1,500 voters gathered in Glengarry Gardens at probably the largest political meeting seen in this county in many years. Notable was the large percentage of women, sprinkled among their at-one-time more politically-minded menfolk.

Following the close of the official nomination period at 3 o'clock Monday, J. J. Morris, Returning Officer for this riding, announced the four candidates; those of: Francois Bosse, implement dealer, Plantagenet, running under the C.C.F. banner;

Raymond Bruneau, translator, Hawkesbury, running as one of two Liberals;

Fernand Guindon, gasoline and oil distributor, Apple Hill, for the Progressive Conservatives;

William J. Major, farmer, North Lancaster, also running on the Liberal ticket.

The names will appear on the ballot in that order. Mayor George Simon presided at the Monday night meeting, which followed a similar joint meeting in Hawkesbury arena in the afternoon. It, too, drew a large attendance, we understand.

The three candidates were called on in the order in which they will appear on the ballot, each team of speakers having a total of 45 minutes, with the first two candidates to speak being given a five-minute rebuttal period at the close.

First speaker, Mr. Bruneau, used his whole speaking period himself, while Mr. Guindon was supported by Frank Casselman of Aultsville, a former M.P. for Dundas, and Osie F. Villeneuve, M.P.P., Glengarry. W. J. Major had his regular team of speakers, Roland Pilon, in French, and C. Campbell Fraser, in English.

Despite the absence of big-name, outside speakers, the large assemblage was treated to a forceful type of oratory and all the speakers received good hearings though applause, unless organized, was light. Reports covering the three programs propounded will be found in other columns of this issue.

Municipal Board Order Received

Town Council is in receipt of the necessary Municipal Board order for sale of $490,000 in debentures to finance the new High School building.

Officials of the interested municipalities met recently and decided to approach the market to find whether a better deal could be arranged by sale in a lump sum, or whether it would be more advantageous for each municipality concerned to sell its own share of the debenture total.

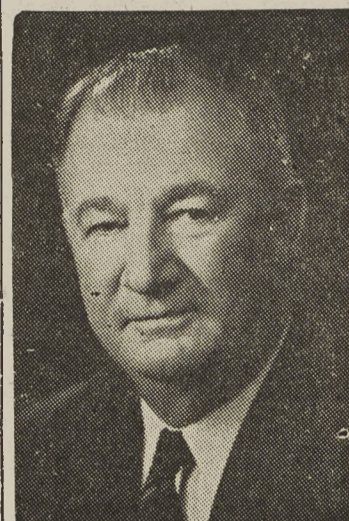

We understand the 60-day waiting period for Alexandria will be up in a few days and it is probable the municipal officials will again meet, then, to make a definite decision.

Cumming Bros. Cow Had Big Production

The Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association reports that Cumming Bros., Glengarry Farms, Lancaster, have broken all production records for the past month with their seven-year-old Allendale Pride, who has made an R.O.P. record in the 365-day division, mature class, of 18,780 lbs. M, 812 lbs. F., averaging 4.32%.

Allendale Pride also topped the 305-day honor-roll division with production of 16,953 lbs. milk, 720 lbs. fat, to take a commanding lead on all other producers for the month.

Charlottenburgh To Vote On Beer Sale In Township, September 2nd

Charlottenburgh Township voters will go to the polls, Wednesday, September 2nd, to decide whether or not the sale of beer and wine will be permitted. Following receipt of a petition for the vote, Council, at its last meeting, passed the needed by-law for voting.

The voters will have their choices of three options: Are you in favor of the sale of beer only under a public house licence for consumption on licensed premises to which women are admitted?

Are you in favor of the sale of beer and wine only under a dining-room licence for consumption with meals on licensed premises?

The township remained in the "dry" column only by a very narrow margin in the last test at the polls, June 28th, 1950. On the question "For Men Only" the "wets" fell short by only 37 votes of the needed

60 percent. There was a 45-vote shortage on the "Women" question and 52 votes would have been required on the dining-room sale question.

Temperance forces have already begun organization to uphold the status quo. At a meeting in Williamstown, Rev. R. Millar, Martin-town, was appointed chairman, and D. K. MacDougall, Williamstown, secretary.

Mr. Logan, of the Ontario Temperance Federation, Toronto, explained many points to those opposing the issue and mapped out the plan of campaign.

A convener with power to form his own committee was appointed for each of the 10 polls.

The Gist Of The Three Nomination Messages

 BRUNEAU SAYS  GUINDON ARGUES  MAJOR STATES *****

RAYMOND BRUNEAU

After opening his address with tributes to Glengarry and its fine people, Mr. Bruneau turned his thoughts on Canada and its leaders in the political field. The 20th century belongs to Canada, he paraphrased Laurier, and he lauded the part Hon. Lester Pearson is playing at the head of the United Nations. We now pay homage not to the Queen of England, he declared, but to the Queen of Canada, another step in the autonomy of our nation.

Turning to his own role in Parliament as Member for Prescott, Mr. Bruneau declared he was one of three Members who instituted the idea of Invalidity Assistance in the proper Commons committee. As a member of the Agriculture Committee, he outlined what he had done for the cheese producer. He took credit for organizing delegations to Ottawa and went on at some length into his many efforts to get 30-cent cheese.

The Canadian people, he said, are fortunate to have two great leaders, St. Laurent and Drew. He then trained his guns on the Drew promise of huge tax cuts while adding to social assistance. "We don't like high taxes," he declared, "but remember that in the Bennett regime we had few taxes and no money to pay them with."

Mr. Bruneau outlined his three-point program — "Help for the Farmer," "Help to the Working Class," and "Help to Youth." With the Korean war ended, he declared, in conclusion, "we can take some of the money now being spent for defense and put it to other uses."

FERN GUINDON

In an attack on the farm policies of the Liberal Government, Fern Guindon, Progressive Conservative candidate, declared those serving the farming class could emphatically declare that they were a failure. He and his supporting speakers concentrated most of their fire on the cheese situation for which they held the federal government to account.

Turning briefly to the 16-point program of his leader, George Drew, Mr. Guindon defended as easily possible the pledge of Mr. Drew that he would reduce taxes by 500 million dollars. We can save $300 million by budgeting without the huge surpluses of the Abbott regime; the other $200 million represents only 5 percent of tax income and that can be found by stopping waste and graft.

The supremacy of Parliament must be restored, declared Mr. Guindon. When the Opposition brings in a measure it is voted down or shouted down by sheer weight of numbers.

He pledged that if elected he would serve irrespective of race, creed, or political stripe; he would give good, fair, honest, solid representation to the people of this riding.

In conclusion, Mr. Guindon pointed out that he had not the help of a name like St. Laurent, he had come into the race at a late hour, unknown in political life, but he had been in every part of the constituency and he was extremely optimistic of the results on August 10th.

North Lancaster Had Fire Scare

North Lancaster experienced a fire scare, Wednesday morning of last week, when a small barn was destroyed by sparks from burning brush, and a barn a half-mile distant was set afire but saved from destruction.

Sparks from burning brush on the property of Leo Vincent set fire to his small barn which was destroyed despite the efforts of volunteers. Sparks from the barn carried a half-mile west to the barn of Randall J. and Allan R. McDonald and the firefighters turned their attention to this blaze in time to save the barn after part of the stable roof had burned away.

The Lancaster Township pumper was used and the Lancaster Fire Brigade was summoned to the scene.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A CLANSMAN RALLIES Capreol, Ontario, To the Editor, The Glengarry News, Dear Sir:

From time to time you have invited readers to express opinions on various matters.

I note in edition of July 23rd, you again invite letters. Your editorial, "Keep Them Coming", is very courageous and therefore, very commendable. These letters are informative and interesting to your readers.

Your second editorial, same date, "This Unemployment Insurance Fiasco", is most timely. As far as I am aware, yours is the only paper to point out a few of the abuses that have crept into the working of this piece of legislation. In fact the word "abuse" hardly appears strong enough and you should keep the pressure on this important matter.

We have only to listen and look to become aware of what is taking place under the Unemployment Insurance Act. The money being misused might be sorely needed at a later date when boom times slacken off.

I congratulate you. More power to your pen.

A. MacDONALD.

Massed Pipe Bands May Include Eleven Or Twelve Of The Finest

Glengarry's Big Annual Do At Maxville Expected To Attract Thousands From Near And Far — All In Readiness

Maxville is again a blaze of color and abustle with last-minute preparations for Saturday's biggest day of the year — the sixth annual Glengarry Highland Games. As in past years, thousands are expected and adequate organization will ensure that the many visitors are well taken care of.

The playing of the massed pipe bands is always the highlight of the day, the colorful, music-filled time when amateur photographers are at their busiest, and Games officials have been promised the presence of eleven or twelve of the finest bands in Eastern Canada. The CNR band of Montreal will be there to try and repeat their prize-winning performances of recent years. There are four pipe bands from Toronto expected: the 48th Highlanders, Toronto Scottish, Caber Feldh and Air Force; the Argyle & Sutherlands of Hamilton; the Havelock band; General Motors of Oshawa; CNR and Air Force of Montreal; Air Force of Ottawa and the SD & G Highlanders.

Legion Picnic Set For Next Monday

The annual Basket Picnic of Alexandria Legion Branch is set for Civic Holiday, next Monday, on the Alexandria Park.

It is not confined to veterans but open to everyone and the public is invited to bring an ample supply of foodstuffs for the family and enjoy a whole day of healthful recreation and relaxation.

The program of sports for children, swimming, etc., gets underway at 1:30 o'clock.

St. Laurent Speaks At Cornwall, Friday

All Liberal candidates in the ridings adjacent to Stormont will be platform guests, Friday night, at the big Liberal rally in Cornwall, Armoules when Prime Minister St. Laurent will speak in support of Hon. Lionel Chevrier.

Stormont Liberal officials early this week issued invitations to both W. J. Major and Raymond Bruneau, to be present.

Leandre Major Funeral Today

An uncle of W. J. Major, Liberal candidate in Glengarry-Prescott, Leandre Major, 230 Prince Arthur street, Cornwall, died in Hotel Dieu Hospital, at noon, Monday.

Born at North Lancaster, 67 years ago last January 12th, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francois Major. He came to Cornwall in 1934 from Glen Nevis and followed his trade as a carpenter until two years ago. He made many friends here, who were sorry to learn of his death.

Mr. Major was twice married. His first wife was Aleda Poirier, who died on October 21st, 1947, at Cornwall. Of that union two sons and a daughter survive—Edgar Major and Miss Marielle Major, both in Montreal, and Roland Major, Cornwall.

There are also two stepsons and a stepdaughter — Henry Major and Harvey Major, both in Cornwall, and Mrs. Joseph Roy, of Glen Roy.

There were no children by his second marriage to Mrs. William Major, whose maiden name was Olive Poirier. There is one stepson, Ludger Major of Montreal.

He also leaves four brothers and three sisters—Stephen Major, Alex. Major, Henry Major and Donat Major, all in North Lancaster; Rev. Sister Major, of the Grey Nuns, and Mrs. Conrad Bourbonnais, both in Montreal, and Mrs. Charles Bouchard of Flint, Mich.

The funeral was held today to Nativity Parish, Cornwall, with interment at Glen Nevis.

Angus Hope Dies In Winnipeg

Word was received on Thursday, July 23rd, of the death of Angus Hope, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hope (Saddler) of Glen Robertson, which took place in Winnipeg.

He leaves to mourn, his wife, the former Anna Goodman; two married daughters, six grandchildren, besides two brothers and one sister, namely, Mrs. Margaret McDonald, Cornwall; Albert Hope, living in Edmonton, and Donald Hope of the South Branch.

Noted CBC commentator, John Fisher, is to officially open the 1953 Games at 1 o'clock, but events will get underway in the morning with dancing and piping classes.

The massed bands and the band competitions loom large in the program — they are the big attraction. But there are many others.

The big pole, the caber, has been painted red, white and blue for the muscle men; Highland dancing honors will again be sought by the best in the province; there will be track and field events, piping competitions, a soccer game. And in the evening two dances are scheduled to wind up a full day's activities.

Plenty of good food is promised, this year prepared by local epicurean artists.

On Saturday, all roads lead to Maxville.

Military Honors For FO MacGregor

Full military honors were accorded to F/O Allan B. MacGregor at one of the largest funerals of the Moose Creek district on Thursday afternoon of last week.

F/O MacGregor was killed when his plane crashed during a training flight at Langruth, Man. He was stationed at McDonald, Man., RCAF station.

The funeral was conducted by Padre D. R. Thompson, of the RCAF station at Rockcliffe, and the Tayside Baptist Church was filled to overflow capacity. Padre Thompson was assisted by Rev. Herbert Bryant, Tayside pastor, and Rev. William Knox of Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Creek.

A guard of honor of 65 members of the RCAF from Rockcliffe slow-marched from the church to Tayside Baptist Church cemetery, where burial was made. The honor guard was in charge of F/L K. Owen of Rockcliffe.

As the Union Jack-draped casket topped with the crash victim's cap and a solitary wreath entered the small church the flag was broken out.

During services at the graveside an RCAF bugler sounded Last Post. As the body was lowered into the flower-banked grave a volley of shots echoed into the cloudy afternoon skies fired by an RCAF firing party from Rockcliffe in charge of WO1 R. J. Stevens.

Chief mourners for the 23-year-old airman were his mother, Mrs. D. A. MacGregor; a sister, Jean MacGregor of Montreal, and three brothers, F/O Roy MacGregor, who was flown home from Germany, where he is stationed with the RCAF; Kenneth of Cornwall, and Archie, at home.

F/O MacGregor's body was accompanied to Moose Creek by a fellow airman, F/O Garnet Ashby.

THE PIPES SKIRL A WELCOME

The vote-getting machinery slows to a halt, Saturday, as Glengarry takes a day off to welcome thousands of old and new friends to its biggest attraction of the year — the Glengarry Highland Games at Maxville.

It's a colorful event and decidedly a musical treat for all those whose blood runs freer for the high, sweet notes of the pipes, the stirring beat of the drums. And not only the blood of the Scottish responds.

The bands are massing at Maxville on Saturday. Go West, young man, for "The Road To The Isles". It's smooth.

THE GIBNET FOR SPEEDSTERS?

How to impress on motorists the tragic consequences of too much speed is one of the problems of this motor age. Every issue of the daily newspapers has its vivid, on-the-scene pictures of the tragic toll of too much speed; innumerable editorials have been written stressing the moral obligations of the driver to those riding with him and to those innocent people in cars he will meet; our provincial highways' departments are spending almost as much on safety campaigns as on new roads, but still the toll continues to mount.

Because the car buyer demands it, the auto companies claim, cars are year after year being produced with a higher speed potential. Their horsepower gain has already far outstripped the rate of highway improvement and the result is seen in the steadily increasing highway toll of death and injury. On dual-lane or four-lane highways the accident rate may be less than on our single-strip stretches, but the mortality is far greater. It's safe to speed here, the driver supposes, so you read of a magistrate acquitting a man who had been clocked by police over many miles travelling in excess of 100 miles an hour.

We wonder if those interested in accident prevention might not borrow a thought from the England of a few centuries ago. Might we resurrect the gibbet, not for speedsters, but for the wrecks that, once were their gleaming chrome-finished vehicles?

Readers of the so-called historical novel are familiar with the gibbet; it is vividly re-created, for its flavor of the times and, possibly, for its sales potential. It was the highwayman of that age who, when apprehended, found a last resting place at the roadside, his chains clanking, his flesh rotting off, his empty eye-sockets a reminder that the birds of the air have a special fondness for the glitter, even when it is not pure gold. There, was no removing these grisly reminders of the ways of sin. They remained in their chains until only the chains remained.

We are not suggesting that those who drive too fast should be sentenced to die or hang on the gibbet. But how about the cars they were driving, the mis-shapen heaps of chrome and tin—thin steel? Could they profitably be left at the scene of the crime, for too often public opinion recognizes the accident aftermath as a crime even when the courts do not.

It's just a thought, but if there were a law declaring that wherever a fatality occurred, whether found accidental or not, the wreck of that car, or another where that is still salvageable, were left at the roadside, would it have a tendency to remind drivers of the grim harvest excessive speed reaps? On Highway 34 the level crossings are the worst offenders and there might be a drop in crossing accidents if the driver saw what happens when a car disputes the right of way with a train.

The suggestion is undoubtedly impracticable, but it has returned with each accident scene we have visited recently. It has appeared to us that officials were almost as anxious to have the wreck removed as to have the dead and injured rushed to morgue and hospital. If the wreckage were left there for a day or two, or even a month, would it not have a salutary effect on other drivers?

History tells us, or at least the historical novel makes it clear, that the gibbet was no deterrent to crime, that conditions of that day bred two new highwaymen for every one unlucky enough to fall foul of the King's men. But this motoring generation of ours is so protected, so conditioned by our high standard of living, that we just might re-act to such a reminder of stark tragedy.

Isn't our highway toll placing the reckless driver in the same category as the highwayman of old?

YOUR BALLOT AND YOUR FREEDOM OF CHOICE

Politicians, it has been said, are the same the world over. But just at this time we observe a striking difference in the goals of politicians here at home, and those of countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The Canadian runner for federal office is doing just that; his counterpart behind the Iron Curtain, facing another purge, is running for the border and sanctuary in Western Europe.

Ours would undoubtedly be heading for hiding, too; if they were Kremlin appointed, but instead they are free to roam the country criticising government policy and wooing the voter. The difference is in the fact that we, the people, still have the final selection of our representatives, by secret ballot.

We will have that freedom only as long as our citizens see the importance of their ballot and go out to vote.

Our system of government may have many defects, but we are still free to criticize and you have as much say as any other citizen, more even than the Prime Minister, in who shall represent you in the next Parliament. That is not the case behind the Iron Curtain, where Moscow tells the Hungarian or Bulgarian peasant for whom he shall vote, and orders him to the polls to keep up appearances of a free election.

We, in Canada, need never fear being forced to vote so long as we go voluntarily to the polls in sufficient numbers to make democracy work.

Vote as you like, August 10th — BUT VOTE.

Canada Prepares To Deal With Disaster

ARTICLE X

NATIONAL SECURITY IS UP TO YOU!

Since a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, Canadian authorities responsible for the country's capacity to deal with mass disaster realize that their plans can be no more effective than the smallest unit in the civil defence services.

Thus, as the civil defence services are civilian agencies, made up of the men and women of the country, officials point out that the success or failure of efforts to minimize the toll of such calamity as could come from enemy attack on Canada would rest with the average citizen.

These and other pertinent points are brought out in the informational material which has been issued by the Department of National Health and Welfare, co-ordinating civil defence preparedness measures, in an effort to enlist the active support of Canadians everywhere. Only with total popular support, officials realize, can they hope to provide the country with services capable of sustaining her economy and capacity in a national emergency.

HOW TO HELP

The officers of the Federal Civil Defence Division point out that, of course, everyone can't be an auxiliary policeman or help fight fires. Indeed, an enemy's objective would be achieved if it could involve the whole population in such purely defensive activities. Some of the people, they realize, must "keep the home fires burning", keep the wheels of industry turning, keep the fighters fed, housed, tended and supplied with tools for their tasks.

The ordinary citizen, it is urged, can help simply by "carrying-on" under adversity, by looking after himself or herself during and after disaster, and by lending a hand to those who need it, whether their call is for extra weight on a fire line or simply a word of comfort and encouragement when it is most needed.

Self-help is indicated as the keynote of Canada's program for survival under such disaster as enemy attack. The more people who can solve their own post-raid problems, says Ottawa, the more the organ-civil defence services.

This is the tenth and final article in a series prepared by the federal Civil Defence authorities and published through the courtesy of The Glengarry News. Further preparedness information is available, free on request, from the office of the Co-ordinator of Civil Defence at your Provincial capital.

It's The Same With Our Ist

(Houston (Texas) Post)

Independence Day celebrations afforded a nostalgic reminder of the passing of the old-time Fourth of July orator. In the old days no celebration was complete without the piece de resistance, an orator who would lash his audience to a frenzy of patriotic fervor as he twisted the lion's tail and made the eagle scream. . . .

The Fourth of July oration appears to have gone the way of all human beings. Which is a pity, for oratory in general has declined to an extent that it almost seems to be a lost, or at least, a forgotten art. Where, indeed, are the orators of ized services can turn to aid those with more than they can handle themselves. Preparation for emergency is important. Provision for shelter for the family is essential.

Those whose jobs wouldn't be urgently needed, in time of emergency, are asked to see to it that they have a place arranged for them in one of the disaster services, that they train NOW to be ready to give it their all, if required. Workers in essential industries will serve best by continuing at their jobs, particularly those which relate to the support of the fighting and civil defence forces.

Even residents in sparsely-settled areas should be ready and willing to help, for they may be called upon to house and care for people from less fortunate localities and, even, to go with their neighbors to the aid of stricken communities, to lend a hand.

KEEP INFORMED

Gen. F. P. Worthington, federal Civil Defence Co-ordinator, has this to say, too: "Most of all, in this changing world, with its day-to-day developments of major import, the citizen-in-the-street can help simply by keeping informed. Knowing what to do may mean the difference between life and death, if disaster strikes."

"Nothing breeds fear and impotence like ignorance and false information. The informed person is a tower of strength to all about him. He is the buffer against idle rumor which, in turn, can lead to unreasoned, uninformed despair and even panic."

General Worthington pointed out that wise Canadians are learning all that is possible to pick up about measures for protection of their homes, having long understood the importance of health measures to prevent disease, of caution to avoid accident and of building solidly for permanency.

"Today", he said, "things being as they are, Canadians must broaden their outlook to face up to new threats to their security. They must be not only willing but READY to stand on guard for Canada."

Officials emphasize that preparedness, like charity, begins at home; that Canada is only as safe as the Canadian family. Canada's preparedness program, they say, will be only as effective as her citizens who serve it, and stand beside, the

Immigrants No Weaklings

(The Financial Post, Toronto)

Are immigrants "filling our jails"? The facts are interesting. Some day Poles are given to misbehavior. Well, they don't perform even their fair share of crime. Poles born in Poland now resident in Canada represent 1.17% of the population but only .96% of convictions for crime were against Poles.

The Italians? Well-behaved, they have 41% of the population and only .15% of the indictments. What about Germans? Those born abroad and now living in Canada comprise .30% of the country's population, but they account for only .15% of the total convictions.

The Canadians born here with 85.3% of the population do 88.9% of the crime — more than their fair share.

Ice-Free Roads

(London, Ont., Free Press)

A new process of surfacing roads which it is claimed will prevent icing in winter, is to be tested in New Brunswick. The special asphalt mixture — a German process — is to be laid on a one-eighth of a mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway. If successful the process will confer nestimable benefits on North American motorists in safety and in fast winter travel. The test site is ideal. If it works in New Brunswick it should work anywhere in Canada.

Grows More Food

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

British farmers last year produced 51 per cent more food than in prewar years. The aim is to increase production by 60 per cent by 1956. If that aim is realized, Britain will then be producing about half her total food needs.

This development is not going to help solve the problem of disposing of Canadian food surpluses. Our primary producers are looking to the United Kingdom as a continuing important market for our farm products.

"Funny you haven't an infectious smile", grins the doctor as he probes for the second time within a month into your infected finger. "Every-thing else about you seems to be infectious."

"We've heard a rumor, he'll find humor even in a tumor."

We're in a position to enjoy this one from the Amarillo, Texas, Globe: "The boys came in starving at the tops of their voices."

WE FOUND A CCF'ER

Somewhat dissatisfied with the results our pollsters were turning in after two weeks' of quering for the Institute of Republican Opinion in Glengarry — Prescott, we decided to hie to the field personally for a closer study of the election trends.

We haven't actually any progress to report, but we did come up with something unusual in this riding — a real, rabid, rootin' tootin' CCF'er. We could hardly credit it until we learned that he was just visiting, that he had been dipped in the Coldwell of socialistic waters in the big city, Montreal no less, which likes to hide its head not under the proverbial barrel but under a Houde.

"Funny, the guy was practically underfoot, but we had not recognized his political stripes."

We had spent a rather discouraging afternoon from a pollster's viewpoint. This man who had been on the fence last week rather stirred our curiosity. Possibly if we could discover which way he was leaning, now, we would have the whole picture of the riding in capsule form. So we got careful instructions on where he lived, jumped on our broomstick and headed thataway.

Lo and behold, the guy was still fixing fence.

"I'm here for a poll", we opened, but he was still playing dumb. "These here aren't poles", he cracks back, "they're posts and I need every one I got. It's two weeks now that I've been stringing along on this job and it goes against the grain at this time of year."

"Hay, hay", we thought, "a smart boy trying to dodge the issue, we'll just play along."

"If you're off the fence by August 10th", we came out flat, "who'll get your support?"

"Are you kiddin'", he cracks, "I've got a legally wedded wife and seven young'uns; who else could I afford to support?"

He looked kind of peaked at that, so we didn't press the point. In fact we gave up right there and headed disgustedly back to the office.

That was where we ran into the CCF'er. Right on our own doorstep, you might say.

This young fellow sticks his head in the door and rumbles: "I never saw such an insulting thing in my life. Every one of the speakers at that meeting the other night kept referring to the three candidates. Just as if this guy Bosse wasn't even in the running."

"Wait a minute", we said, "is he in the running? Nobody is, officially, until Nomination day, and we've heard nothing of this guy Bosse, except what appeared in the Ottawa papers."

It's not often we get a close-up of a real dyed-in-the-wool, out-and-out CCF'er, so we were interested to hear him railing about the big interests, the decadent Liberal and Tory parties. He wasn't even impressed when we recounted the many socialist theories which Mackenzie King Liberal governments had adopted for their own.

We were about ready to credit CCF'er Bosse with a vote when the young fellow admitted ruefully he was still too young to cast a ballot.

A city man sent his son to work on a local farm for the summer, hoping to impress upon the boy what hard work was like. A few weeks later he called on the farmer to inquire how the youngster was making out.

"I'm not going to bandy words with you", the farmer replied, "if that boy had another hand, he'd want another pocket to put it in."

It must have been bagpipes the Pied Piper was playing when he rid a whole city of rodents. The teller of that tale probably forgot to mention that all its citizens were lured by the pibroch, too. To our way of thinking there's only one type of person who isn't stirred by the music of the pipe band — but then, let's not talk about the dead.

When the massed bands play at the Glengarry Highland Games on Saturday — and we hope they'll prove more generous with their combined efforts than last year — we know one rat who'll be there. And he'll not be rambling; he'll be rooted to the spot.

See you there.

"Serve Salads", it read, a bit of free advertising appearing on the envelope of the latest batch of baby bonus cheques. Presumably it was placed thereon by the Department of National Health & Welfare.

Cheese is a healthful food, too, and it struck us that the advertising program of the Dairy Farmers of Canada might get a boost on these government mailings. Some such slogan as "Keep young Canada strong — serve more cheese", might pay off in greater domestic consumption of our problem product.

We were reading the other day about a lake in Massachusetts having the imposing Indian name of CHARGOGGAGOGMANCHAU-GAGOGCHAUBUNAGUNGA-MAUG.

It's near Webster, Mass., but we'll bet Webster never put it in his dictionary. In case Webster missed it, we can tell you it translates into English, "You fish on your side, I fish on my side, and nobody will fish in the middle."

We wouldn't even think of printing such a name if we didn't have such a mistake-proof linotypist as Fred Deer — but Fred refuses to venture a pronunciation of this one; he claims to have a first-hand knowledge of all forms of election propaganda and agrees that there is something very "fishy" in this case.

Play-offs Next Week, Dodgers Meet Samsons Friday, Indians Saturday

At a meeting on Wednesday night in Alexandria, the Senior Lacrosse officials decided that the semi-finals are to get underway next week-end. Alexandria's wayward Dodgers will tangle Friday with Cornwall Samsons in the first game of the round-robin series.

On Saturday, August 8, St. Regis Indians go on the warpath and invade this peaceful settlement, with an eye to eliminating the Dodgers. The two teams that survive the semi-finals will meet for the championship to be decided in a best 4-out-of-7 series. If Alexandria can whip Cornwall in the starter, and the general consensus is that they will, they will be as good as in the finals.

Last Saturday night, the Toronto Green Gaels played an exhibition game with the Cornwall Samsons in Mille Roches arena. Although the Queen City boys edged the Friendly City crew 17-16, it was nip and tuck all the way, as the final score indicates. Perhaps one of the reasons why the Cornwallers made such a battle of it was because they were reinforced by two top-notch Alexandria stars, "Windy" Desbank and "Zip" Jamieson. Both heaved the rubber past the Toronto goaler twice.

If the Green Gaels expected to beat the St. Regis Indians on their own stamping grounds on Sunday, they were mistaken. The Indians showed who were the masters when they defeated the Subway Center players 12-9. Wally Roundpoint was the mainstay of the Indians, scoring four times.

Juvenile Lacrosse Starts On Friday

A number of players from Green Valley, including the Deschamps brothers, J. Menard, Paul Charbonneau and Arnold Stang, came down to the Glengarry Gardens on Tuesday evening for a practice scrimmage prior to the opening game of the Juvenile Lacrosse League this Friday in Alexandria.

The Highlanders, made up solely of local players, take their lacrosse seriously, and those who watched the scrimmage on Tuesday will vouch for the superior type of game these youngsters play.

Fans who want to see lacrosse progress from the mediocre stage it is now in, are urged to come to the Gardens for eight o'clock on Friday and give the locals some encouragement. The juveniles of today are the seniors of tomorrow, and a good turnout will keep the players from becoming discouraged.

COUPLE TO RESIDE AT SIMCOE

VERNIER-LACOMBE
VANKLEEK HILL — A pretty summer wedding took place at St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church, Vankleek Hill, on Saturday, July 25th, when Reverend Father Marchant united in marriage Miss Cecile Vernier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Vernier of Vankleek Hill, to Jean - Marie Lacombe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacombe from Glen Robertson. Her long sleeves ended in points over her hands. She carried a bouquet of white and pink roses, tied with a white satin bow.

The church was nicely decorated with white and pink roses. Mrs. Napoleon Sauve presided over the organ. Following the ceremony the wedding party went to the home of the bride's mother, where a buffet lunch was served. Later the young couple left by motor for Montreal and other points. For travelling, the bride wore a sand colored suit with dark brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses. They will reside in Simcoe.

Bride-Elect Is Guest Of Honor

On Wednesday afternoon, July 22nd, Miss Allie Campbell, Dunvegan, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held on the lawn at the home of Mrs. Cecil MacRae. Eighty-five guests were present when the bride-elect, escorted by Miss Jessie Macdonald, was piped to a gaily decorated chair by Miss Connie Kippen. After she had been showered with confetti, Mrs. D. Stewart and Miss Florence MacIntosh pinned a corsage on the bride-elect, on her mother, the groom's mother, and the bride's grandmother. Then Mrs. K. A. Campbell read an address written in poetry, while Misses Margie Blaney and Eileen MacRae drew in a "Dream House" mounted on a gaily decorated wagon laden with gifts. The bride was assisted in opening the gifts by Miss Myrtle MacInnes and Mrs. Forbes Crawford. This was followed by a varied programme. Mrs. Jim Whissell read a poem entitled "Husbands". Roars of laughter and applause were heard as the Baltic's people staged "An Old-fashioned Wedding", and the Misses Marjorie MacKinnon and Betty MacCrimmon sang "O Perfect Love". Miss Beverley Kippen danced several numbers; then she and her sister, Myrna, sang songs. Humorous acts and relays were later enjoyed. The programme was brought to a close when the hostesses, Mrs. Cecil MacRae and Miss Kaye MacLean, served a salad tea, assisted by the ladies.

Address to Miss Allie Campbell: There's a spot in old Glengarry—Baltics' Corner is its name, Just a factory, school and cross-roads, We all love it just the same. It is here you spent your childhood And we loved you all these years, Now you're leaving, please forgive us If we shed a few small tears. You shall always carry with you Our best wishes fond and true, May God grant life's richest blessings Is our prayer for Grant and you. A glad welcome shall await you When, we hope from time to time You shall come and visit with us; Come quite often, come again. MONTREAL — One of the most beautiful trophies ever put up for competition in Canada will add even more spice to the thrill of hooking into a giant bluefin tuna in the famous big-game fishing waters off the coast of Nova Scotia. Known as the "Lakeside Inn Tuna Trophy" the silver masterpiece stands more than 20 inches high and depicts one of the battling bluefins breaking the surface, and will be awarded annually to the contestant entering the largest catch.

To be competed for by guests of the Lakeside Inn, a Canadian Pacific Railway summer resort at Yarmouth, N.S., the trophy is to be kept at the Inn and the winner's name will be inscribed annually on a shield to be placed on the trophy.

Mrs. J. E. Brodie Dies At Brodie

One of the highly esteemed residents of Brodie area, Mrs. James E. Brodie, passed away on July 17th. Although she had been in indifferent health for some years, death came suddenly and unexpectedly after a short illness.

Mrs. Brodie was born Edith Alice Campbell, at Vankleek Hill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Peter Campbell, on March 31st, 1879. While she was a child, her parents moved to Dalkeith. After attending Vankleek Hill High School and Ottawa Normal, she taught in local schools, before the turn of the century.

Mr. and Mrs. Brodie were married at Vankleek Hill on March 31st, 1902. They made their home on the David Hay Farm, two miles east of Brodie, Lot A in the 5th Concession of Lochiel, where they lived until the time of her death.

Mrs. Brodie had musical talents, which she shared all her life as a contralto singer in duets and quartets, and as church organist. For over twenty years she was organist of East Hawkesbury United Church, of which she was a faithful member.

Reared in a Christian home, Mrs. Brodie devoted her life to faithful service and devotion to Christian principles. Among the tributes and messages were two from her fellow church workers. One of these was from the elders of East Hawkesbury and Glen Sandfield United Churches. The other read as follows: "In memory of the late Mrs. Jas. E. Brodie's faithful service to East Hawkesbury United Church W.M.S., its members and friends express their love and appreciation by a donation of money to be used for missions as a memorial fund in her name."

The funeral was held from the family home to East Hawkesbury United Church, on Monday, July 20th. Tribute was paid to the sterling qualities of the deceased by her pastor, Rev. J. Macaskill.

Interment was in East Hawkesbury cemetery.

The pallbearers were her nephews, Clifford Campbell, Lloyd MacMillan, Willie Brodie and Andrew Jamieson, with Ray Brodie and Mansell Hay.

Left to mourn are the deceased's husband; her son, Clarence L. Brodie, and his wife, Dorothy, and their family, James and Margaret. She is survived by an older sister, Mrs. A. N. MacMillan, of Glen Sandfield, and a brother, Gilbert Campbell of Prince Rupert, B.C. Another brother, Allan Campbell, died in 1945.

The large number of friends who called at the home to pay their last respects, and who attended the funeral, testified to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Brodie was held.

There were floral tributes from the immediate family, Mrs. A. N. MacMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd MacMillan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Campbell, Mr. Bert Campbell, Mr. A. Melton, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Huckvale, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Stevenson.

Among those attending the funeral from a distance were, Mrs. W. Ernest Higgins of Cobourg, Ont.; Mrs. Jim Huckvale of Lone Point, B.C., and Mr. A. Melton, Mr. R. Cook, Mr. H. T. N. Peterson, and Mr. A. D. Fraser, all of Montreal.

Old Time Service At Kenyon Church

The sixth annual Old Time Service will be held in Kenyon Presbyterian Church, Dunvegan, Sunday evening, August 2nd, at 8 o'clock. The service is planned so as to give some idea of the manner of worship practiced by the original settlers of the community, not only in the new land but also in the Scottish Highlands and islands.

In keeping with the old custom, the congregation will stand up to pray and will be seated during the singing. There will be no choir and the organ will remain silent. The singing, however, will be led by a precentor who will use a tuning fork. Metrical psalms rather than hymns will be used.

The offering will be taken up in the old time way. Four deacons will wield the long handled velvet bags in the lower part of the church. Messrs. John W. Fraser, James G. MacCrimmon, Neil MacRae and Fraser Campbell. Those appointed to labor in the galleries are Messrs. Cameron MacLeod and Donald H. MacIntosh.

The service will be conducted by the minister, the Rev. Dr. Donald N. MacMillan. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends and visitors.

Major States ...

"That was no accident", Mr. Major emphasized, "Mr. Howe asked me to be on that platform with him so he could indicate his preference."

The St. Laurent Government is going back to power, he closed, be sure you are sending to Ottawa a supporter of that government who is acceptable to government leaders.

ROLAND PILON

Attacking the assertions of Raymond Bruneau that he had played an important part in conferences at Ottawa, this Spring, on the cheese question, Roland Pilon recalled that he had been present with most of these delegations and on each occasion the only Eastern Ontario Member from an agricultural constituency not in attendance was Mr. Bruneau.

Mr. Major is a farmer himself, who knows at first hand the position of the farmer in these days of rising costs and lowering production returns. He can be depended on, said Mr. Pilon, for fair, honest representation on a high level and a readiness to work in the interests of the primary producer. Get out and work actively for the return on August 10th of William J. Major.

C. CAMPBELL FRASER

In the brief time at his disposal, Mr. Fraser contented himself with refuting some of the arguments previously put forward.

After all Osie Villeneuve's remarks on federal responsibility for the present cheese price situation, stated Mr. Fraser, two or three indisputable facts remain:

(a) The Ottawa Government today is guaranteeing the same price as last year;

(b) The producer is getting less; Why? Because the Ontario government has refused to renew its 6-cent guarantee.

Mr. Fraser suggested that Mr. Villeneuve would be well advised to spend the time he is trying to defend his government's stand in trying to induce that government to see the need for supporting the cheese price.

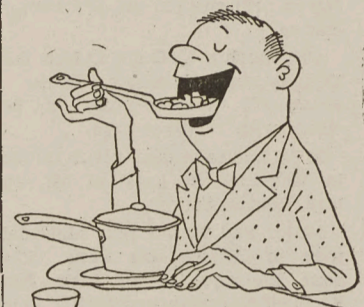

Mr. Shaver talked about the hard times you are having, he recalled. Yet Mr. Shaver was a supporter in Ottawa of the R. B. Bennett regime when we experienced the worst times Canada has ever had.

Mr. Fraser also recalled the terrible scandals uncovered during the Conservative regime of Borden, at a time when Canada was at war. Much is being made of the $50,000 thefts at Pelawawa, he pointed out, and yet $35,000 of that has already been recouped by the Government.

Mr. Shaver, he stated, has been rash enough to predict a victory for George Drew and yet the Montreal Gazette, never considered a Liberal paper, surveys the Maritimes after the Drew tour and finds no evidence of any major turnover. The Liberals had a 9-3 edge there at dissolution, he said.

C.C.F. leader Coldwell predicts the Conservatives will get only a 'corporal's guard' east of the Great Lakes, he closed. Be certain you send a Government supporter from Glengarry-Prescott; vote Major.

Had your aluminum today?

CHANCES are you have, because practically everything we eat—grains, vegetables, meat, milk, eggs—contains aluminum. This is not surprising, since one-eighth of the earth's crust is aluminum.

Aluminum is most readily available commercially, however, in the form of bauxite ore. Alcan ships this ore from South America to feed its pot lines at Arvida, Isle Maligne, Shawinigan Falls and Beauharnois, P. Que. SCOTTISH CROWN JEWELS

The symbols of sovereignty, in use when Scotland was a separate kingdom (before the Union of the Crowns of England and Scotland in 1707), consist of a Crown, the Sceptre and the Sword of State, anciently known as the Honours of Scotland. Associated with them are a rod known as the Lord High Treasurer's Mace and certain jewels bequeathed to George III by Henry Cardinal of York, namely the Collar and George of the Order of the Garter, the St. Andrew of the Order of the Thistle and a Ruby and Diamond Ring.

The Scottish regalia is of great antiquity. The Crown dates from the 16th century and was remodelled by order of James V in 1540; the Sword of State was presented by Pope Julius II to James IV in the year 1494. The Honours of Scotland are kept in the Crown Room of Edinburgh Castle.

In the cover picture, the Crown is seen in the centre background with the Sceptre on the left of it, and the Sword of State and Treasurer's Mace on its right. In the centre is seen the Collar and George of the Order of the Garter, the St. Andrew of the Order of the Thistle and the Ruby and Diamond Ring.

VOTERS OF GLENGARRY-PRESCOTT! Elect A Farmer! VOTE MAJOR who had the Farmers viewpoint in his utterances in the House of Commons during the last Parliament

Who was one of the few Farm Voices raised in the House

Read These Extracts From Hansard

During the four years that Mr. W. J. Major has been in the House of Commons, as the representative for Glengarry, he has taken many occasions to bring to the attention of the Government and of Parliament the special problems of his constituency.

Although he is a farmer, and a very good one, his belief is that a community will enjoy its greatest prosperity only when the people of the towns as well as the people of the farms are together having a period of good times. Speaking in the House of Commons on February 26th, 1953, he said:

"May I now say that most of the people of my county are dependent upon agriculture for their income. Our towns are also largely dependent upon the farm income for their business. The prosperity of our farmers depends solely upon the prices realized for their products, and by the same token the people of our towns depend largely upon the purchasing power of the farmer. You can, therefore, see why the progress of one is largely responsible for the progress of the other."

That is a principle to which we can all subscribe, and Mr. Major's clear expression of it in the above words is a useful reminder of the importance of it.

Believing as he does that in this area of Canada at least, the prosperity of the farmer is an essential factor in bringing about better times in the towns, he has forcibly stressed certain aspects of agriculture. In several of his speeches in the House, he pointed out that the returns which a farmer receives for his products must certainly be more than the cost of production, although in many cases it is not so. Realizing that the price of feed grains and of feed generally is an important factor in determining the cost of production of agricultural products, Mr. Major was very sensitive to anything that might increase that cost. In the spring of 1950, during his first year in Parliament, he was alarmed at the sharp increase in the price of feed wheat and feed oats. On April 4th, 1950, he immediately brought the matter to the attention of the House by participating in the budget debate. After quoting actual figures, he stated:

"Considering the increase in the price of grains and the decrease in the price that the farmer must take for his various farm products you may be assured that he will be unable to pay this increased grain price and that he will be forced to discontinue the purchase of feed. I know of only two ways to remedy this condition. One would be the immediate reduction of the price of feed grain, and the other an increase in price support to offset the increase in the grain price."

On the subject of Farm Loans, he had this to say, speaking in the House of Commons on March 18th, 1952:

"If we want to put a stop to the continual decline in the rural population and if we want to keep our boys on the farms, we shall have to consider increasing the amount of the loans made by the Farm Loan Board to prospective young farmers. We should also consider the rate of interest that is now being required if we want these boys to meet their commitments. The amount of a loan that would have been sufficient to establish one on a farm some years ago is now entirely inadequate when consideration is given to the price of the farm itself and to the tremendous increase in the cost of machinery and equipment required to operate a farm."

Out of Mr. Major's own farm experience, he realizes the great contribution that the farmer's wife and family make to the supplying of essential foods. In his address to the House of Commons on February 26th last he referred to that contribution in these words:

"We should also keep in mind that the farmer's week is one of 70 hours or more and that he receives the free labour of his wife and family, which the wife gives by taking extra hours to do her housework. It is therefore quite impossible for him, in most part, to reduce his production cost from the standpoint of labour. Unless the cost price of the essentials which he has to buy, such as feed, machinery, equipment, and services, be reduced how can you expect him to reduce his over-all production cost?"

Like everyone who is engaged in agriculture, Mr. Major was very much alive to the threat hanging over the dairy industry by the coming in of synthetic foods. In these words he drew the attention of the House to that danger:

"There is also another matter which causes great concern to my constituents and that is the inroad of synthetic foods, which are a serious threat to the dairy industry. The preparation and manufacture of these synthetic foods give employment to very few people. On the other hand, the dairy industry employs a larger number of our population. If these synthetic inroads are allowed to continue and increase, they will seriously jeopardize the dairy industry. The dairy farm population is one of our good and stable markets for Canadian manufactured products."

Not only is this a stirring defence of a large and important element in the agricultural industry, but it is a reiteration of his belief that the prosperity of the rural areas and the prosperity of the towns are absolutely dependent on each other.

The extracts given above are all taken from Hansard and are available to all to read. They are but a few of his remarks, but they demonstrate Mr. Major's interest in agriculture, his expert knowledge of farm life, his awareness of the problems of the industry, and his keen desire to have corrected any situation which has an adverse effect on the farming industry. His has been one of the strongest and most effective voices in the House of Commons during the last Parliament, and his opinions have been eagerly listened to by the Government and by the senior Civil Servants. Having lived in Montreal for many years before returning to the farm, he is equally aware of the peculiar problems of city and town dwellers. Surely no one is better qualified to represent Glengarry-Prescott in the next Parliament, because he combines in himself an awareness of both the rural and urban problems which are now peculiar to these combined counties of Prescott and Glengarry.

Former Residents To Attend Social

Following the item on the "White Church" which appeared in the News, the following letter was one of several that came to the Pastor: Sandy Hill, Ottawa.

Dear Father Gauthier:
After reading "The White Church" news item, I am enclosing a cheque. I am very pleased to be able to do this for the church where I was baptized, received my First Communion, where I was confirmed, enrolled in the Scapular, and assisted at Mass on the Sundays for the years that I lived in the 14th Concession of Lochiel.

A party of former Glengarrians is planning to attend your big social of August 3rd in Lochiel.

A FORMER PARISHIONER.

Guindon Argues...

at that time a roommate of the late Angus MacGillis, ex-M.P., Glengarry, and he lauded the memory of his good friend.

If we are to have real democracy, Mr. Shaver declared, the various parties must hold office alternately. He instanced Britain where the voters never allow more than two Parliaments before changing, the U.S., where last fall they saw it was time for a change, and France, where changes are frequent. Here the rights of Parliament are flouted, a top-heavy Liberal majority refuses a full investigation based on the Currie report.

There are decidedly not good times for the farmer, Mr. Shaver declared, pointing out that in 1935, 200 lbs. of cheese milk would buy a pair of shoes; today it takes 400 lbs. The same is true of machinery and everything the farmer buys. As a result, the farmer is discouraged and many are leaving the farm to take a job in industry.

Drew can reduce taxation, said Mr. Shaver, instancing huge defence orders, for ties, shoes, etc. He urged a vote for Mr. Guindon on August 10th.

OSIE F. VILLENEUVE

Undertaking to deal with "an ad appearing in a local paper", Osie F. Villeneuve, M.P.P., Glengarry, confined his remarks almost wholly to the cheese question.

Last year, he said, Ontario paid the 6-cent guarantee on cheese. The foot-and-mouth disease had struck, exports of cattle were halted and the dairy farmer had more cows to milk. It was an emergency measure. This year other farm groups, too, are facing similar conditions:

HIGHLAND DANCERS WILL BE ADDING TO THE COLOR OF SATURDAY'S GLENGARRY HIGHLAND GAMES AT MAXVILLE.

the tobacco growers have much of last year's crop unsold, the sugar beet market is down.

What has happened to the $200 million the federal government set aside for price supports, asked Mr. Villeneuve, reminding his audience that Ontario pays 46 cents of every tax dollar collected by Ottawa. Last year support of apples cost $6 million, he said, potatoes took another $2 million, support of pork and beef cost $32 to $40 million and the wheat growers got another $75 million. For every $492 taken from that fund, he declared, cheese producers got $1.00. The federal government, Mr. Villeneuve estimated, could buy 20 million pounds of cheese at 30 cents, sell it to England at 22 cents over a period of four years for what the wheat growers gets from the government.

Mr. Villeneuve dwelt at some length on the setting up of the Cheese Marketing Board and implied that the import of New Zealand cheese last year had had the connivance of the federal authorities.
