Lancaster Schoolgirl, Cornwall Man Died In Separate Accidents Over Week-End

Glen Nevis Area And Glen Walter Waterfront Scene Of Fatalities — Man Loses Left Arm In Third Crash

The holiday weekend saw two separate fatalities in Glengarry, one a traffic accident, the second on the waters of the St. Lawrence as two boats crashed during a regatta at Glen Walter.

Dead are 15-year-old Huguette Bourdeau of Lancaster, who was to have started her High School course at Maria Goretti Academy, here, on Tuesday, and Alexander Tekenos, 35, of Cornwall, victim of the boat crash at Glen Walter, Monday.

The young Lancaster victim was a passenger in a panel truck driven by her brother and which left the road and overturned near Glen Nevis, Sunday afternoon.

Another serious traffic accident in the Martintown area, Wednesday evening, resulted in a Cornwall man suffering amputation of his left arm. He is Hubert Kennedy, 24, of Cornwall.

The Wednesday accident occurred west of Martintown, on the King's Road, when the Kennedy car, driving east, met a tractor-driven float which was carrying a road grader.

According to police reconstruction of the mishap, Kennedy had his arm resting on the open window of the car and when the two vehicles came in contact, the blade of the road grader struck Kennedy's arm. The car went out of control and ended up wedged between two Hydro poles, a total wreck.

Kennedy was rushed to Hotel Dieu in Cornwall where Dr. George J. Cameron found it necessary to amputate above the elbow. He is reported doing very well.

Less serious was the accident early Saturday afternoon on the 6th Kenyon road when Raymond Levert, 16, of Alexandria, fractured his left wrist. Two other occupants of the car he was driving were uninjured when it left the road.

Dr. D. J. Dolan attended Levert before sending him to hospital in Cornwall.

Named C.N.R. Agent At Cornwall

Alphee Mercure, CNR agent here for more than four years, has been named agent at Cornwall where he will succeed Alex St. Louis, retired. Mr. Mercure will take on his new posting about Sept. 15th, as soon as his successor here has been appointed.

Mrs. Mercure, proprietor of Belle's Children's Wear shop, and their children, will remain here for the present.

Since coming to Alexandria from Coteau, Que., in April 1952, Mr. Mercure has been active in the Board of Trade, the Richelieu Club and the Curling Club, in all of which organizations he will be missed.

New Bilingual Inspector Arrives

J. A. Alex Deschamps has arrived to take over the duties of bilingual school inspector for most of Glengarry and Russell, and part of Stormont. Mr. Deschamps, who taught last year at St. Lawrence High School in Cornwall, is a newcomer to the inspectorate field. A graduate of University of Ottawa, he replaces Dr. Remi Millette who has been transferred to Ottawa as inspector of separate schools there.

Mr. Deschamps, his wife and three children, Alain, Jacques and Celine, are occupying the former residence of Dr. and Mrs. Millette on Bishop street.

Summerstown Youth Awarded Bursary

Richard Robertson of Charlottetown-Lancaster District High School in Williamstown, has been awarded a $500 Dominion provincial bursary for high academic standing.

He wrote 10 papers in his final high school year of 1955-56, and had five firsts, four seconds, and one third. He will attend Queen's University this year in the faculty of applied sciences and engineering. He was also a leader in sports and other school activities. Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Robertson of Summers-town.

Lancaster Girl Accident Victim

A 15-year-old Lancaster schoolgirl was fatally injured Sunday afternoon when the panel truck driven by her brother overturned one mile and a half north of Glen Nevis. The victim was Huguette Bourdeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Bourdeau of Lancaster. Mr. Bourdeau is a well-known grocery store owner in that village.

Huguette and her brother, Yvon, 17, accompanied by three teen-age boys, were out for a Sunday drive in the truck. According to police, the youth lost control of the vehicle on a slight decline. The right front wheel slid onto a soft shoulder, and in an effort to bring the truck back on the road, the driver pulled to the right to avoid going into the left ditch and the vehicle struck a boulder on the right side of the road and flipped over on its top, hitting a tree. Huguette, who was a passenger in the right front seat, remained in the truck, but sustained severe injuries and died about a half hour later, in a car which had taken her to the church at Glen Nevis.

Dr. Moses Markson, of Alexandria, was called and pronounced the girl dead from a broken neck.

The accident occurred about 4:45 p.m. and was investigated by Constable L. A. Millar, of Lancaster detachment, OPP, under the direction of Cpl. J. J. Trudel.

Huguette Bourdeau was born May 24, 1941, at Lancaster, daughter of Lionel Bourdeau and the former Fleurange Larose. She completed grade nine at St. Joseph's school, Lancaster, this June, and was to have attended Maria Goretti Academy, here, this term.

Surviving, besides her parents, are three brothers, Yvon, Michel, and Robert, all of Lancaster, and two sisters, Murielle and Manon, also at home.

School Population Keeps Climbing

Alexandria's school population has climbed by 130 over last year's enrolment, to reach an all-time high of 1,230 pupils, in the six local schools.

Following are the registration figures, with last year's September total in brackets: Glengarry District-Alexandria High School, 340 (304); Alexandria Public School, 77 (70); St. Joseph's Boys' School, 220 (194); Alexander School 180 (180); Perpetual Help School, 340 (319); Maria Goretti Academy, 71 (30).

Glen Robertson Lady Died Today

The death occurred on Thursday, September 6th, in hospital in Montreal, of Mrs. Mary Lefebvre, mother of Joe Lefebvre and Mrs. Alderik Brunet of Glen Robertson, at the age of 88. Mrs. Lefebvre had been seriously ill for three months and a hospital patient for three weeks.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The former Mary Campeau of Glen Robertson, Mrs. Lefebvre was predeceased several years ago by her husband, Dolphus. Surviving her, besides Mr. Lefebvre and Mrs. Brunet, are Hector and Dan Lefebvre, Mrs. Dorius Robitaille, Mrs. Willie Dube, Mrs. Napoleon Sauve and Mrs. Azilda St. Onge, all of Montreal.

Tank Trucks Burn

A Carnation Company milk tank truck driven by Donat Saucier of Alexandria, and a Provost Transport sideswiped early this morning on the Valleyfield Road, between St. Timothe and Beauharis, Que., and both vehicles caught on fire and burned.

It is understood that no one was injured in the accident.

Killed In Crash Of Regatta Boats

A Labor Day holiday regatta being held Monday afternoon at Glen Walter was marred by tragedy when one of the racing boats collided with a pleasure craft and one man was killed.

The regatta was being run off on the waterfront of the Church of the Precious Blood when the smash-up occurred. Fatally injured in the collision was Alexander Tekenos, 35, an electronics technician employed with Howard Smith Paper Mills at Cornwall.

Tekenos was one of three occupants of a pleasure craft which was anchored not far from the shore. Three hydroplanes racing in the event were on their third lap of the course when Hubert Denis, 21, of Montreal, who was in third place, cut to the outside to make a bid for the lead. His craft was travelling at about 80 miles per hour when it cut into the outboard motorboat, struck Tekenos, and threw him into the water with a broken neck.

Another occupant of the pleasure boat, Joseph Beard, 40, of Dickinson's Landing, had his leg crushed in the accident, and a third man, Noel Latchford, of Moulinette, escaped injury.

The accident occurred before about 800 spectators. One of them, Eddy Van Der Ver, 17, of Maple Grove, rushed into the water and dragged Tekenos to shore, with the aid of Latchford. The victim died a few minutes after being pulled from the water. Artificial respiration was applied by a member of the Nativity Guard of Cornwall, and a doctor was called, but Tekenos died before he arrived. Corner Dr. M. Markson of Alexandria pronounced the man dead.

Denis, driver of the hydroplane, escaped injury, although he was badly shaken up and his craft, owned by Jean Paul Clermont of Montreal, was reportedly damaged beyond repair. It was recovered from about three feet of water.

Tekenos, who came to Cornwall from Hungary with his parents as a boy, is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Ross of Montreal, and two children. He was a former partner in a bakery shop in Cornwall, and served as a radio technician with the Air Force during the war.

Closes Store

Now located at Stratford, Ont., with the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Donald J. Gormley this week closed out the grocery business which he had conducted here for the past three years.

Mrs. Duncan McKinnon is now employed with the I.G.A.

Holy Cross Order To Celebrate Centennial Of Coming To Alexandria

The Sisters of the Holy Cross are welcoming former pupils home for a grand reunion in early October, to help them celebrate the 100th anniversary of their coming to Alexandria. Three days of centenary celebrations will be held October 6th, 7th and 8th.

The Sisters will hold Open House in the convent, which has been completely redecorated and remodelled in part, and there will also be a pageant presented on the evenings of the 6th and 8th, and a banquet held on the afternoon of the 7th. Should there be some un-

Pipe Band Music Saturday Nights

The Legion's War Memorial committee is planning to hold a series of pipe band concerts on the Mill Square in Alexandria on Saturday evenings, starting this Saturday night at 8:15.

It has a two-fold object—to help complete the fund for completion of the Glengarry War Memorial and, secondly, to evaluate the possibilities of forming a Glengarry Pipe Band. A number of pipers and drummers have already volunteered their services and the Legion is extending an open invitation to others to join this group. Pipers and drummers are asked to meet at the Legion clubrooms on Elgin street east at 7:45 p.m. Saturday, preparatory to marching to the Mill Square.

The Legion will have a booth on the scene where donations to the Memorial Fund may be received from those who have not yet had the opportunity to contribute.

Editor's Note: At our request, the War Memorial committee is withholding its current list of contributors until next week's issue. Pressure on our columns following the holiday week leaves us with little space in which to report the rather lengthy list of donations.

Dalhousie Bank Becomes Sub-Branch

The Dalhousie branch of the Royal Bank of Canada was closed on Friday, and two members of the staff, Lucette Dumond and Maurice Major, have been taken on at the Alexandria branch, to which all accounts have been transferred.

Dalhousie now becomes a sub-branch of the Alexandria office and business will be done there on Tuesdays and Thursdays, except during the winter months when one visit, on Wednesdays, will be made.

J. P. Beauchamp, manager at Dalhousie, has been transferred to Embrun as manager.

Maxville Mourns E. S. Winter

Secretary of the Maxville Fair Board for many years and until April 1954 manager of the Borden plant at Maxville, E. Stanley Winter died in hospital at Montreal Saturday evening. One of Maxville's most prominent citizens, he will be widely mourned.

Mr. Winter was interested in all activities of the community, had served as reeve in 1926 and was a member of council at the time of his death. For 30 years he had been a member of Kenyon Agricultural Society and secretary-treasurer for many years. He was a life-member of the Masonic Lodge and at his death was chairman of the Board of Stewards of the United Church.

Stanley Winter was born at Ormstown, Que., January 1st, 1889, a son of the late Henry Winter and Jenima Anderson. His mother died when he was four and his stepmother, Anne Campbell of Vankleek Hill, was a beloved mother for many years.

Educated at Ormstown, his first position was with the Bell Telephone Co. He joined Borden's in 1913 and spent a short time in Maxville. He returned in 1917 as manager of the Maxville branch and held the position until his retirement in April 1954.

Mr. Winter married Helen McEwen in 1922. She survives, with one son, Gordon, on the staff of Eastview High School, and one daughter, Ada, Mrs. J. D. Anderson of Town of Mount Royal. There are two grandchildren, Barbara and Bruce Anderson. A brother, Warren Winter, predeceased him in 1955. Two brothers and four sisters survive: Gordon, of Ormstown; William, of Banff; the Misses Ida and Lillian Winter, in Montreal; Miss Margaret Winter of Los Angeles, and Mrs. M. H. Curll (Elsie) of Montreal.

There was a very large attendance at the funeral held to the United Church on Tuesday, at 2 p.m. His pastor, Rev. D. C. Munro, gave a comforting message to the bereaved and a glowing tribute to a fine Christian man. Dr. J. C. McLean-Bell of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church assisted.

Interment was in Maxville cemetery.

Beautiful flowers and messages of sympathy paid tribute to the memory of a valued citizen, a loving husband and father.

GROWING CONSTANTLY: The impact of Canada's weekly newspapers is constantly growing to the point where they now go into well over 1 1/4 million Canadian homes. Here, Win Allison and Bill Telfer look over the revised number of member papers at last week's Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association annual convention held at Manoir Richelieu, Murray Bay, Que. Three new member papers brought the C.W.N.A. membership to 533.

Glengarry Gardens Being Offered For Sale As Directors Decide Against Further Losses

Willing To Accept Some Loss If Town Or An Organization Would Buy Arena For Use As Winter Sports Centre

Glengarry Gardens is on the block to the highest bidder and a Montreal real estate firm has been engaged to handle its sale. The ice palace is already being advertised in Montreal and Toronto papers and we understand one promising lead has been turned up.

Decision of the directors to sell the arena was made at a meeting in late August when every possibility was explored and it was concluded that the Gardens could not be run profitably. It was unanimously decided that no further financial losses would be incurred.

Lancaster Couple 50 Years Wed

On Tuesday, August 28th, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Whyte, Oak street, Lancaster, were at home to their friends on the happy occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. During the afternoon and evening, many relatives, neighbours and friends called to offer their good wishes, and congratulate the jubilarians.

Clergy Transfers Effected Sunday

Two parishes in Alexandria diocese have new pastors as the result of changes made recently by His Excellency, Most Rev. Rosario Brodeur, DD, Bishop of Alexandria. The official transfers were effective September 2nd.

At Lancaster, Rev. Patrick Breton has taken over from Rev. Elzear Denis, who has been transferred to Macdonell Memorial Hospital as chaplain. Father Breton was formerly pastor at Maxville.

The new pastor at Maxville is Rev. Bruno Pilon, who was formerly curate at Nativity Parish in Cornwall.

Father Denis replaces Rev. Ernest Peachy at the Cornwall hospital. The latter has returned to his own diocese in Quebec after a year's service here.

The only other change is the transfer of Rev. Gordon Villeneuve from St. Columban's Parish, Cornwall, to Nativity Parish, where he will again serve as curate.

Clan MacLeod Gathering Hears Report On Visit To Dunvegan Castle

A vivid account by Mrs. D. M. MacLeod, of Alexandria, of her recent visit to Dunvegan Castle in Scotland, where she was cordially welcomed by Dame Flora MacLeod, Chief of the Clan MacLeod, highlighted the annual meeting of the Glengarry Clan MacLeod Society held last Friday in the Orange Hall, Dunvegan. Some 250 were on hand to enjoy the annual gathering.

The programme was opened by a selection on the pipes by Miss Barbara MacLeod, Miss MacLeod and two other young pipers who played on the same evening, are products of the piping school started two years ago by the Society, and did their sponsors proud on this occasion.

Start Training At Cornwall Hospitals

Eight young ladies from Glengarry are enrolled in schools of nursing in Cornwall for the term which began this week and last.

At St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Hotel Dieu, the "probies" include: Miss Ann Marie McCormick, daughter of Mr. Frank McCormick of Alexandria, Miss Hilda McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McDonald of St. Andrews, Miss Eunice Laplante, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laplante of Grant's Corners, and Miss Theresa Racine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Racine of Martintown.

Sister Mary Gabriel, O.L.M., of Alexandria, is also a member of the new class.

Four more young women from this county have begun their three years training at Cornwall General Hospital, and their parents and friends were entertained at tea by the faculty and senior students on Tuesday afternoon. The new students are Miss Fairley MacLean and Miss Marilyn McKecher, of Moose Creek, and Miss Joan McVichie and Miss Heather Roy, of Bainsville.

Big Majority For Fixed Assessment

A by-law to fix the assessment of the Glen Dress Company here at $10,000 was passed with a resounding majority, although less than half of the eligible voters went to the polls on August 27th. A total of 192 voted for granting the fixed assessment, while only five voted against it. In all, 449 local property holders had a vote, but coming as it did in the holiday period, the balloting had not been expected to be large.

The by-law fixes the assessment on the lands, buildings, plant and machinery of the manufacturing company for a period of 10 years, except for school and direct relief purposes.

Loses Brother

Friends will sympathize with Mrs. Cleveland McPhee of Alexandria in the death of her brother, John LaPalme of Hammond, Ont. Mr. LaPalme died Wednesday morning as the result of a heart seizure at the age of 58. Although he was known to have a heart condition, his death came as a severe shock to the family.

The funeral will be held Friday morning from Bourget Funeral Home to Hammond.

EDITORIALS

IT'S OUR OPINION

A Grand Corner Of Canada

We have not yet seen Banff, and so we are not wounding the pride of our Western friends when we say Murray Bay, and its Manoir Richelieu, is the grandest holiday spot we have yet been privileged to see in Canada. The hotel itself was built on a lavish scale, the service is big-time and the surroundings so scenic and eye-catching as to beggar description.

We of the weekly newspaper field were fortunate, too, in the weather we found there. While Glengarry and practically every other part of this province was being submerged by almost week-long rains, we at Murray Bay were being wakened by a smiling sun and being tempted outdoors from our business sessions for a view of the sun-flecked waters or a variety of games on the greenery. We read of near-flood conditions in Western Ontario and wondered that we had been so fortunate in our choice of convention dates and place.

There are few things so rewarding in the weekly newspaper field as the knowledge that one is a member of the largest press association in the world and that each year one can step out of character and meet with fellow publishers at Canada's biggest family party. Each summer the C.W.N.A. membership gathers in some posh resort hotel or large city. It may be Halifax, Toronto, Banff or Victoria, but the setting changes every year so that convention-bound weekly editors may learn a little more about their country, its peoples and their problems. For a week or two they travel in style, live like men of means (for the most part at others' expense), are wined and dined and get a taste of a way of life they might never otherwise have known.

We might never have known the charms of the lower St. Lawrence Valley had we not taken last week off to go to Murray Bay. We recommend the Manoir Richelieu as a most satisfying holiday hotel, set in scenery that is breath-taking in its beauty. But you'd better go well-heeled or, as we did, as a member of a convention that gets a break on its bills.

We had a wonderful time.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

SHE KNEW A McANGUS

Sept. 3, 1956
Cornwall, Ont.

Dear Sir:
I saw an article in your last issue of The News inquiring about the name "McAngus".

I don't know if any of that name lived in Glengarry or not, but around the 1860's and early 1870's, there were some of that name in Ottawa, working at lumber.

I well remember hearing that name discussed by shanty men from Glengarry who worked in Ottawa, called Bytown in those days. These men often called to spend an evening with my father, relating their experiences in the woods, and talking about the different men they met there, and McAngus was one of them.

A READER OF THE NEWS.

The Weeklies Say

PRECIOUS WORKER

A St. Louis barber had his arm broken by an angry customer because he didn't like the way his hair was cut. A barber is a man who knows something about cutting hair, and there are too few first-class ones in this troubled world to allow anyone to mess them up.—Red Deer (Alta.) Advocate.

FAST DRIVING

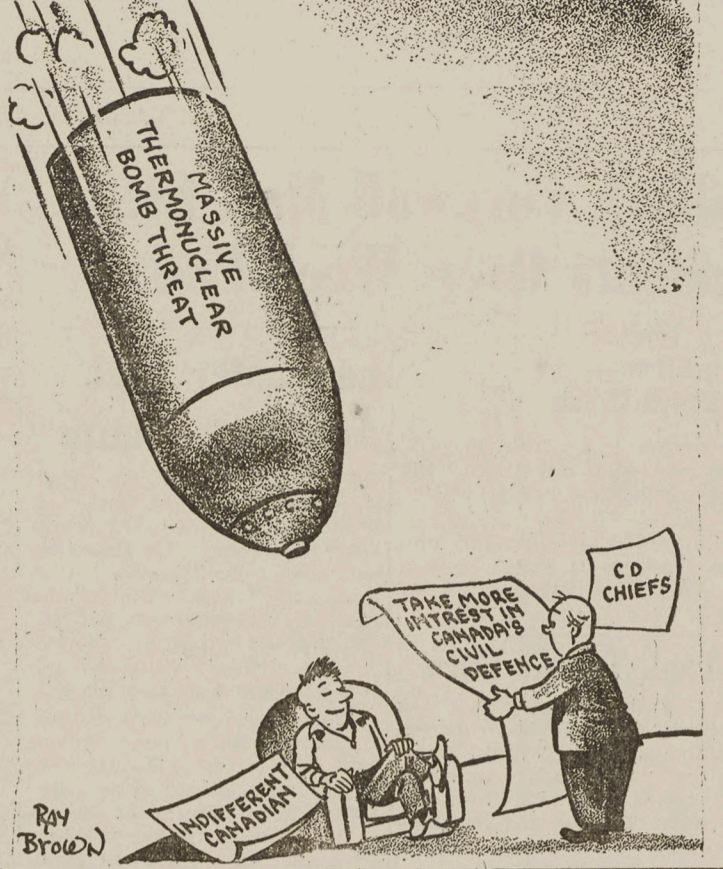

Frequently one sees a car roar past at a furious pace and further down the highway passes the vehicle parked while the occupants are eating lunch, loitering on the grass or fishing or doing something equally unimportant. So why the hurry?—Trenton (Ont.) Courier-Advocate.

AUTOMATION

Nowadays a man may be lucky enough to get to work without being hit by a machine, only to discover when he arrives that one has taken his job.

—Lachute (Que.) Watchman

"Just Give Me One Good Reason"

This Generosity Could Backfire

(The Meaford Express)

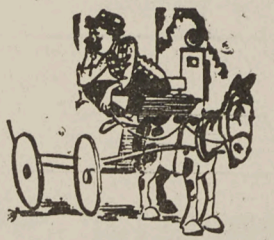

Canada's Unemployment Act, adopted to take care of none-too-well paid employees who are thrown out of work through no fault of their own, has been broadened to include the highly-paid automobile workers during their annual layoffs and fishermen during the winter when they have never fished.

What the amendment, rushed through in the dying moments of parliament, means is that automobile workers and fishermen are given a Guaranteed Annual Wage. In the case of the automobile industry it means the manufacturers, forced into the GAW by unions, transfer that particular social benefit from their own costs to the taxpayers.

No one can blame the automobile workers or fishermen for accepting this economic boon which will stabilize their standard of living.

But Ottawa may have placed itself in an embarrassing position when it slipped in this six to eight million dollar additional load on the Unemployment Insurance Fund to provide a cushion for two segments of the working population.

The $6,000,000-$8,000,000 additional load on Canadian taxpayers could look like peanuts if and when a few thousand fishermen and 45,000-47,000 automobile workers are joined by about 3,000,000 other workers who may insist they, too, are entitled to regular pay-days the year round whether they work or not.

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

By ED.

Isn't it great to get back to where you were so glad to get away from.

GEE, BUT IT'S HARD!

Gee, but it's hard to get back into harness, difficult to settle down to our usual rambling gait, even after only a week of fast-paced living in surroundings like Murray Bay that are more than a little beyond our usual depth.

The frame is weary, of course; we haven't been keeping our regular hours or relaxing as frequently as one does in his own backyard. And probably the digestive tract is a little out of kilter, too. When one is being treated to everything from soup to nuts, three times a day, with cocktails thrown in, one tends to eat more than might one at his own table.

It's nice to get away from it all for the change, even if not for a rest. And it's nice to get back again, too, for the rest.

But until you've had that rest, gee, but it's hard to get back into harness!

Things always look greener in the other fellow's wallet.

TOOLS FOR SCHOOL

School's in again, and isn't that a hectic few hours on the first day of the term when the kids come home with their lists of books and other school needs. Time won't wait, they've got to be first in the bookstore to shop for their bag and pens and what not. There's just no use trying to postpone the expedition. Business must wait while they gather in their tools of learning.

And that stuff runs into a pretty penny. Today's bag must boast a zipper, the pen has to be of the fountain variety and preferably one of these new-fangled cartridge types; just ordinary crayons won't do, they come in pencil form now, and nothing less will permit them to portray their true artistic ability. Stop and plead with the little codgers to go easy on dad's purse, if you dare the public gaze and they're ready with the answer. Teacher said to get this kind; it's got to be a cartridge pen because there's no ink allowed in the school.

How are we to know better? The new schools are so attractive and bright, perhaps it's just possible ink stains are not tolerated.

And so the rich tastes of the tykes are satisfied. And dad reflects, it's a good thing the school board now provides most of the manuals. Otherwise he'd have to draw on mother's baby bonus to finance that first day of school.

A tantrum might be described as "putting emotion before the house".

PIGSKIN PONDING

A little sloppy, that football game at Montreal on Labor Day, but it was exciting to see lowly Ottawa come so close to toppling that gridiron colossus that Les Alouettes have built about the throwing arm of Etchevery. We're tickled pink to see the football season with us again and we anticipate some fine TV fare from now until Grey Cup day.

But the game would have tickled us pinker if we had been provided with a better view of it. We don't like straining our eyes over the poor picture the Ottawa station sends our way, especially when we know it would be coming in loud and clear if channel 6 in Montreal was carrying the game.

And that's where we think the CBC is letting us down a bit. We think they're paying the Big Four clubs enough of our money for television rights that they might have bargained better against that clause that restricts coverage of the game from the local station. Record crowds are turning out in every city for football and we think they'd still be in the stands, especially so in Montreal, even if the game was being telecast locally. We'd like to see a little experimenting along that line, at least.

But then maybe we're being selfish about this thing. After all, we are in a happy TV range for football while many other fans are missing most of the screen fare. And football players of the skill we're seeing come high. Could be the team officials have the right idea. We'd hate to see football attendance fall to the point of no return, as has happened with hockey.

Not Too Much Simmer This Summer

Summer has been and gone. The kiddies are back in school. The terrible highway death toll of the Labor Day weekend has been toted up by the press, read of with momentary horror and been as promptly forgotten. Cottagers have slammed the door with a sigh of relief and gone home to the comfort of oil heating after a summer that was most unsatisfactory weatherwise.

Another Labor Day is passed and though this week's sun seems to promise a warm September, we are not counting too much upon the possibility. Holiday time is a thing of the past, visitors will be fewer from now on and brief in their stays. Once Labor Day has been, we tend to settle down again in the old groove, concentrating the more on our occupations in an effort, perhaps to recoup holiday extravagances or harvest our savings for the next big holiday ahead, the Yuletide.

Perhaps it's just as well we have this Labor Day weekend to signal the end of summer holiday time. It may be a good thing that we collectively say good-bye to the summer season at this time and, however grudgingly, make up our minds to buckle down again to the job.

If this restless holiday mood remained with us, how could we contend with the many calls on our services that come with the Fall? How many of us, for example, have even thought of civic problems through the summer months? How many meetings have we missed because of other calls on our time, most of them probably pleasurable?

Our summer is fleeting — it seemed especially brief this year — but it is full, and just a bit wearing. We mightn't be able to keep up that pace all year round. So let's accept the autumn with good grace, return to our labors, the extra-curricular calls on our time which we may have ignored while the heat was on.

Actually it was a badly balled up summer season anyway, and we shouldn't be too sad about bidding it good-bye.

Should The New 401 Join Highway 2?

Possession was once considered nine-tenths of the law. That, of course, was back in the days of the forty-niners when gold was king and the officers of the law were hard to find.

The smart guys, the opportunists, we have always with us, in every age. In an era just past it was the claim jumper who depended on superior force, possession backed up by the six-gun, possibly, to rob the prospector of his hard-won find. And in this day and age we find the same thing happening. But in this present day we find the all-powerful government playing the role of claims-jumper.

Expropriation is a nasty word to anyone bred in the conviction that a man's home is his castle. And today we see the threat of expropriation used by diverse departments of government which may not intend to rob a man of his castle, his land, but which often value the land they think they need at much less than the owner would sell at. And with today's expropriation machinery, government holds the whiphand.

We are reminded of the Manitoba farmer whose wheat lands were expropriated by Ottawa during World War II. An airfield was needed for pilot training and the government, our government mind you, stepped in with an offer that may have been fair enough on a valuation that rated the farm only for its potential wheat yield.

But the sequence of events since then leaves Ottawa's bureaucracy in a bad light. Following war's end the airfield was returned to pasture. Then oil was discovered at Virden, Manitoba, and land values boomed in proportion to the mining and oil rights involved. This farm, which our government had expropriated for its surface value only, and later deserted, now brought the treasury 20 times the expropriation price. But government has turned thumbs down on all efforts of the original owner and his farmer friends to get recompense for him on the oil potential. No question of oil rights was involved in the original expropriation, but now the federal government is in possession and our bureaucracy places itself in the role of having made a good bargain, even though it is at the expense of one of the people who are, theoretically at least, governing.

One Canadian citizen feels cheated out of his rights by government, and many of his farmer friends in the Virden area agree that the oil rights, the profit government made on the deal, should accrue to him. And isn't this almost always the reaction where expropriation is used by government to force people from their own little kingdoms in the name of progress? Look at Seaway Valley and you will see Ontario Hydro held in the same light by every property owner who has been offered anything less than he considers just recompense. Some are doing well by expropriation, but the big majority seems to feel cheated out of its birthright. And that is not good for democracy.

Not only the farmers in Seaway Valley feel cheated. We were talking recently to a farmer whose property is on Highway 2, east of Lancaster, and who feels it unjust and impractical of the Highway's department to be expropriating valuable land along the waterfront for a four-lane highway. He tells of farms in the families for generations that will be completely ruined if Highways' engineers have their way as to width; of other farms which will be unworkable because the new 401 will not provide access to the acreage on the other side of the modern, four-lane route. Water-front lots, as he tells it, will be valueless because of their inaccessibility from the thru-way engineers are planning.

Much more practicable, and fairer to farm-owners in the area, as he sees it, would be a move farther north from the lake which would bring the new highway north of the present CNR line. Only a few farms would be adversely affected, he contends, and the loss of valuable acreage would be much reduced.

He may be looking at the problem from a much more personal angle than are the Highways' engineers. Possibly Queen's Park has good reasons for joining the new 401 with the old No. 2 at a point between the two villages; in a region, it may be added, where children attending the two Lancaster schools will have to find safe passage over, or under, or through heavy traffic.

The Highways' department may be making the best possible choice of routes. We are not in a position to judge.

But anywhere, and everywhere, that government finds it necessary to use the machinery of expropriation, there should be, at the very least, a full public explanation of the logic involved. All of us have seen how intangible are the routes surveyed by the Highwaymen of this day and age. Those of us whose land is involved, whose livelihood may be affected, want at least the reassurance that their sacrifice is in the name of true progress.

Be Proud Of Your Role, But Guard Your Reputations, Editors Told

"Weekly newspaper editors have every reason to be proud of the role they play in Canada's development. The non-metropolitan papers contribute in great measure to the stability of this nation by reflecting and moulding public opinion from coast to coast. But guard vigilantly the high respect and recognition won by the weeklies during the past half century."

This was the theme of the keynote speech delivered to more than 300 members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, members of their families and guests, by retiring President John A. Vopni of Davidson, Sask. They were holding their 37th annual convention at Manoir Richelleu, Murray Bay, Que., last week.

Mr. Vopni noted the many improvements he had seen in mechanical equipment of weekly newspapers during his year of office. "But despite these changes, the basic role of the weekly newspaper has been retained," he said. "Our traditional functions remain — to chronicle the happenings in our own communities and to give editorial leadership and inspiration in matters of community up-building."

In similar vein, W. H. Cranston, editor of the Midland Free Press Herald, pointed up the strong responsibility which weekly editors owe to their readers.

"We are the local glasses—very often the only pair of local glasses—through which our friends and neighbors are observed and evaluated," he stated. "The temperature of many a community is most correctly measured by the degree of reportorial and editorial responsibility of its local paper."

"Are we prepared to wear as bravely as we can the badge of community crusade and to wear it proudly?" he asked. "Do we consider ourselves, and impel ourselves, as equal in social significance and importance to the politician and the priest or minister?"

Special trains, supplied jointly by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, carried the delegates from Montreal, Tuesday morning, to their convention hotel, 93 miles east of Quebec City on the banks of the broadening lower St. Lawrence. Three days of group forums, panel discussions, and addresses on various matters pertinent to the weekly press followed, though the attractive surroundings, the fine, sunny weather and many recreational facilities at hand, were a compelling urge to touch only lightly on the problems left at home.

There was hospitality too, supplied by many friends of the weeklies — wake-up breakfasts each morning, luncheons and dinners which provided an opportunity for the presentation of awards. Adam Sellar of the nearby Huntingdon

MORE ON FOOTBALL

Cornwall, Ont.
Sept. 4, 1936.

Dear Editor:

Forgive me for taking up precious space in your interesting newspaper, but I'd like to just keep the record straight.

In my previous letter I condemned or criticized some erroneous reporting of incidents in the Glengarry Football League. One concerned the account of the injury to John Angus Kennedy. I didn't criticize the play of the Lochiel team in any way, and, have the utmost respect for the boys on it.

Two weeks ago someone with a great deal of imagination submitted a sports rebuttal. Now I would still dare this person to deny constructively any of the points put forward in my previous letter.

It was an interesting letter, but I couldn't help wondering afterwards how the Russian Lokomotive soccer team was able to return to Russia, undefeated on its Canadian tour.

It would be refreshing to see a lot more publicity concerning the Glengarry League next year. I think it would be a great improvement to have a special publicity committee selected at the annual meeting in the spring. It might help to increase interest during the

Mrs V G Chisholm Lochiel, Dies

A member of one of Glengarry's oldest families, Mrs. Valentine G. Chisholm, of Lochiel, died Friday, August 24th, in Macdonell Memorial Hospital, Cornwall, where she had been a patient for some three months. Mrs. Chisholm had celebrated her 90th birthday in March of this year.

A lady of keen intellect, Mrs. Chisholm was a respected member of St. Alexander's Parish, and while her health permitted, she was very active in the service of the Catholic Women's League. Her home was a hospitable one and visitors there always received a warm welcome.

Mrs. Chisholm was born Catherine McDonald at Lot 34 in the 1st of Lochiel, the daughter of the late John Angus McDonald and his wife, Mary MacMillan. She married Valentine G. Chisholm at St. Finnan's Cathedral, Alexandria, and the couple took up residence at Lot 20 in the 4th of Lochiel, where they had since resided.

Surviving her are her husband, two sons, Angus Chisholm, of Lochiel, and John A. Chisholm of Alexandria, and four daughters, Rev. Sister Aimee de Marie, of the Precious Blood Monastery, Ottawa, Miss Janet and Miss Mary Chisholm, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Harold Shane (Rita), of Lemieux, Ont. Another daughter, Lucy, Sister Mary of the Precious Blood, died in 1926. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. James V. Chisholm of Alexandria.

The funeral was held Monday morning, August 27th, to St. Alexander's Church, Lochiel, where Rev. C. F. Gauthier offered the Solemn Requiem Mass with Rev. D. A. Kerr as deacon and Rev. James Wylie as sub-deacon. Several members of the clergy from the diocese were present, including Right Rev. Ewen J. Macdonald, V.G., and Right Rev. R. J. Macdonald. Also attending was Rev. Dumoulin, of Lemieux.

Pall bearers were: Archibald J. McDonald, John Angus McDonald, James A. MacDonnell, Michael McCormick, Roy MacMillan and Roderrick McPhee.

All members of the family, with the exception of Sister Aimee were present, as well as a large number of friends and relatives of the deceased. Burial took place in the parish cemetery.

regular season and not leave it all up to play-off time. After all, publicity is of paramount importance to all professional sport whether it be hockey, baseball or football.

In closing, I'd like to kindly remind this Loyal Sport Fan that there were boys from our end, who may not have been professional soccer players, but they died for the same cause as yours did in the last war.

Sincerely,
D. R. O'BRIEN

The GLENGARRY NEWS

Mrs. R. W. Cameron, Alexandria, Writes Of Enjoyable Western Tour

This year came to me the realization of a long-cherished dream, a visit to British Columbia and time to see something of its great beauty; its rivers, lakes and mountains. My going, was, I think, the inspiration which brought five other members of the family West and which resulted, one happy day, in a grand family re-union.

Banff, the Gateway: Descending from the train in the crisp morning air one beholds the everlasting hills, the sentinel peaks, some snow-capped, some covered with forest and vegetation, others just bald old peaks with snow-filled crevices between.

But with old-time friends to meet we forget the aura of surrounding majesty and just rejoice in friendly greeting and in renewing the happy fellowship of other days.

How fortunate is the visitor to Banff who may be taken around by a former head-warden of the Park, one who knows all the high spots and can relate incidents of interest about this place or that. In the evening we enjoyed a pleasant drive by the Banff Hotel and hot baths, the hot springs, the hospital, and along some of the Park roads; but no elk or moose, no bear nor even a deer greeted us. Later though, we saw them all, even a small group of elk and moose, some with "horns in the velvet" — a new term to me, and we were made welcome to his home park by a very tame-looking black bear.

The long afternoon drive to Lake Louise was a delight. Many different mountains in Banff and along the route were pointed out to me by my friend who, like the shepherd of old, knew them all by name: Mount Kamdel, the Three Sisters, Castle Rock, Mount Eisenhower, etc.

Lake Louise itself was green and cold-looking, filmed over with mushy ice; too early for the colorful profusion of flowers. The magnificent hotel in its spacious grounds looked square and massive, and its myriad windows spoke of unlimited accommodation. Looking at the hoary hills around, one thought "what a back-drop and what a wonderful setting for the architecture of a turreted old-time castle!"

A short way down the road toward the Jasper highway we came upon a charming tea-room, and gathered for refreshment by a window overlooking the turbulent gray-green waters of the Bow River.

All in all, Banff and its surroundings, its vista of mountain and stream, lake and woods and sunny hillside will remain a lovely memory.

The Fraser Valley: At Matsqui in the Fraser Valley with the smiling farmlands, fruit orchards and berry fields; its mountains pushed far back; its prolonged gloaming when all the vale around is filled with a misty after-glow; one just feels that you have come home. What a place to live among friendly neighbors! What a glory of sunset and sunrise! What hazy blending of pastel colors softening the outline of far-away hills! And there, far across the fields from my window, looms a Canadian version of dear old Ben Nevis.

For a few days after my arrival there was anxiety. Remembering the devastation of 1948 when the swollen river overflowed the Valley and water covered the fields, even meeting the horizon; when some homes were submerged and all their crops a loss; when man could touch the telephone wires as they rowed from home to home. Now, once more, after days and nights of rain, as the river rose inch by inch, again was heard the anxious whisper: "Will the dykes hold?" So strongly had they been built up and reinforced, yet steadily the river rose till finally arrived the night when the tide would be highest — then the glad reassurance, "The river is receding. The dykes had held, the Valley would be fruitful once more. And so it was.

Vancouver Island and Victoria: Crossing to Nanaimo we had an opportunity, under guidance of an expert, to see something of forestry, land-clearance and bull-dozer at work. A long drive through stretches of dense woods brought us to a chipper factory. "Well, what is a chipper factory?" Just what the name implies, a huge factory where trees are reduced to chips ready for the pulp mill. Here we saw thirty tons of chips loaded in fifteen minutes, into two huge containers and driven away in a truck to the pulp mill.

Well, what shall we say of beautiful Victoria, sea-girt and lovely; its gardens a riot of bloom, its parks and totem poles; its fine public buildings and its marine drive beside sparkling waters of Strait of Juan de Fuca, all were a joy to see. Then one evening we dined on the "Princess Mary", a coastal steamer now retired from service, and transformed into a ritzy restaurant where, unless one were foresighted enough to make reservations, you waited in a lengthening queue. But event at that one felt repaid. Then the long moon-lit drive back to Duncan.

Maple Bay: Some few miles from Duncan lies a gem of beauty worth travelling across Canada to look upon. Here a retired missionary friend has built his home half-way up the mountain side, from which vantage point one looks down on the indigo-blue waters of Maple Bay shimmering and glistening in the noon-day sun and cupped in the soft green of surrounding hills. What might it be to look upon this glowing expanse of water in the golden light of sun! This sapphire bay, we shall not forget.

Nor time nor space avails to tell of the drive to Salt Spring Island. Through the University grounds and the grounds of Shaughnessy Hospital, and through beautiful Stanley Park.

A delightful evening, however, was spent at the theatre under the stars in Stanley Park, enjoying with the immense throng of people filling the great outside amphitheatre the ever-popular musical comedy "Finnian's Rainbow".

Then one pleasant Saturday afternoon we were privileged to attend the Glangarry picnic in Maple Park Grove, and to meet and greet old friends — even some not seen since childhood. What a delightful welcome the Vancouver members gave us! Far across Canada men and women are keeping green the memory of old Glangarry. And we shall often recall the very pleasant afternoon shared with them.

William's Lake: Or as my nephew calls it "Bill's Puddle". Five passengers made an early start from Matsqui for this was to be a trip of over three hundred miles. A few minutes stop at Chilliwack, 25 miles distant, for a change of drivers, and we were on our way again through beautiful farm lands and on past Hope, through the Fraser Canyon, coming finally to "Hell's Gate," where the Fisheries Commission, by a series of ladders, have afforded comparatively safe travel to the great shoals of salmon on the way to their spawning place, thus preventing appalling slaughter of former years. To stand at the guard-rail and look down on the rushing Fraser far below made one conscious of how perilously near the edge our car often brought us. But our drive, Greta Anderson, as we well knew had a skilled and sure hand on the wheel. Occasionally on the route we could see portions of the old caribou trail along which we were to be driven next day. Here we tried to realize some of the difficulties encountered by the intrepid searchers for gold. All their supplies had to be brought along this awesome trail, and many a mishap there must have been and loss of freight.

On our return journey we spent an interesting hour—and wished it might have been a day—at the Clinton Museum inspecting the great collection of articles from the Cariboo days. Miner's pick and candle near to a later and improved arrangement, a metal helmet with candlestick attached to the front of its crown, powder box, axes, saws, bottles of various shapes — what tales might they relate! Many books etc., a great chest with deep drawers labelled for different commodities: cereals, spices, even a compartment for sulphur — an old desk nearby showing evidence of much use and an account book with its carefully itemized records. One last article, the inevitable old organ — and how old — what memories could it recall, of evenings with the miners gathered round singing and remembering — long long thoughts of far-away homes. Of whom were they thinking? What songs were asked for? What hymns? What verses remembered? What dreams for the future?

As we were taking our departure, I mentioned to the lady curator that although not relatives we were Camerons, and had come from the same county in Ontario as Cariboo Cameron. Immediately she asked me if we would like to see the photo of Col. Stephenson, (1838-1922), the gentleman who accompanied Cameron from Clinton to Victoria as they bore on a dog-sled the remains of his wife preserved in "Three-Star" brandy in a galvanized casket. It seems that Cameron had offered two thousand dollars to anyone who would travel with him on his sad mission. Fearing smallpox, all others had declined. Stephenson elected to go and on that long trek they suffered untold hardships. From another source, we learned the body was brought via the Cape to its last resting place in the quiet cemetery at Summerstown. Perhaps some better-informed person could complete for us this record of love and devotion — one which reveals that of the great Emperor Shah Jahan and his beautiful "Light of the Palace" for love of whom he erected on the banks of the Jumma that "dream in marble" the world's most beautiful tribute of devotion to a wife, the famed Taj Mahal.

As we left the Cariboo country our thoughts were much with the two lonely men trudging weary miles with their tender burden.

We reached Williams' Lake as the departing sun lit with glory that beautiful stretch of water, and we looked long at the mirrored trees and hills on its placid surface; in front of us were wooded slopes, and the town beyond. The whole place resounded to the noise of hammers and saws as home after home was being erected. Saw mills and piles of lumber made it evident that soon all this virgin forest must give place to acres and acres of farmland and ranch.

What a welcome we received, travel-stained and tired as we were, from a nephew and his charming bride to their most attractive new home. Refreshment, chatting and a most restful evening listening to favorites records, old and new — among the former "Danny Boy", "Annie Laurie" and "The Road To The Isles".

Visits to stores and shops where one could pick up Indian curios galore, often sold by the first inhabitants themselves, seeing real cowboys in their wide hats, real western herds and ranches, the long drive over the trail and a visit to the airport filled our day.

Chilcotin Plateau: In the evening two nephews with their cars took us for a long uphill drive — uphill, that is, after we had driven through much sagebrush and across a long and precarious-looking bridge. Twenty-five miles or more winging ever upward brought us to the Chilcotin Plateau which stretches on and on for miles and miles north toward Alaska, and which occupies that great wide area between the Rockies and the coastal ranges. Here we saw the real unspoiled prairie with no mountains in sight, and all that moon-lit land a great stillness.

"The unshorn fields, boundless and beautiful! When shall they be fully peopled? And by whom? What will the future bring? Cities? Churches? Railways? Airports? Industry? And all that vast stillness shattered by the noise of man's occupation. God grant its peace be never disturbed by the clash of war, the noise of strife.

On the return journey our thoughts were filled with the great land we had beheld, and we reached home too late even for a chat in the pleasant living room. Tired? Yes, but with hearts filled with gratitude. All the way we had experienced God's journeying mercies, through dangers known and unknown, and "Praise, my soul, the King of Glory" was the refrain in our hearts as we sought rest and sleep in preparation for the morrow and our return journey.

Next morning it was time to say good-bye to William's Lake and to School Principal Loses Sister

The funeral of Mrs. John Fraser, sister of J. T. Smith of Alexandria, was held Tuesday, August 7th, to St. John's Anglican Church, Winchester. Mrs. Fraser died the previous Sunday after a long illness.

She leaves her husband, who is assistant superintendent of Royal Victoria Hospital, a daughter, Miss Margaret Fraser, R.N., and two sons, Jack and Robert Fraser, all of Montreal, as well as two brothers, J. T. and Donald Smith, the latter of Port Credit, and a sister, Mrs. Samuel Rose, of Winchester.

James Belisle Dies At 75

The death occurred on August 8th of James Belisle, a long-time resident of Alexandria, at the age of 75.

A native of Moose Creek, Mr. Belisle was married to Margaret Doree, who survives him, along with two sons, Aime and Edward Belisle. He also leaves several brothers and sisters—Joe and Edward Belisle, and Mrs. Jos. Theoret, Sr., Mrs. Telesphore Doree, Mrs. Arthur Belanger and Mrs. Roy Hauffman.

The funeral was held from Marcoux and Morris Funeral home on August 11th to Sacred Heart Church and cemetery. Pallbearers were Roland Theoret, Jean Paul Theoret, Alex Doree, Rene Lacoureur, Jean-Marie Rochon and Louis King.

all we had crowded into two days, and to the hospitality of a lovely home.

One special stop we must make beyond Lytton to behold "The vale in whose bosom the deep waters meet," to look upon the interesting spectacle of the union of the Fraser and the Thompson rivers; the jade-green waters of the latter gradually merging into and losing itself in the mighty and muddy Fraser.

At Hope we had refreshment in a pleasant cafe, the best we had found on the trip, then on to Chilliwack and along the Trans-Canada Highway to Abbotsford and back to our well-loved Matsqui. We arrived late, but well satisfied that we had seen the great Chilcotin Plateau, and that at last we had seen the Cariboo country—had even driven over the old Cariboo Trail.

And now even the visit to British Columbia has come to an end, the other members of the party have gone East, having said good-bye to the dear folk who had given us such open-armed and sincere welcome, who were increasing in their efforts to enable us to see all we could in the time, who had entertained us throughout and daily planned our comfort and pleasure: To all seven sons whose trailer and cars were at our beck and call; to the brother who journeyed down to be with the party on the Island and present at the reunion and to the one who had driven the party West in his car. To all our wonderful drivers, and to the "Red-Start" we can only say:

We shall not forget. MARGARET CAMERON.

IT'S NICE TO KNOW — especially when you are alone at night — that you have only to pick up the telephone to summon the police or fire department — call the doctor—ask neighbors or friends for help.

The speed and dependability of the telephone and of the operators behind it not only mean prompt help in emergencies large and small, but a comforting sense of security through all the hours of day and night.

In time of need, no dollars can measure the value of your telephone.

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 20' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

Clean-lined elegance right to the rear! Drive broad rear deck and high-fashion taillights leave a memorable impression!

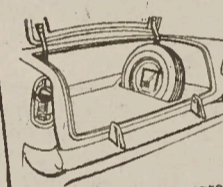

"Baby-Guard" rear door locks — with pushbutton down, the door can't be opened even from the inside. An important protection — at no extra cost.

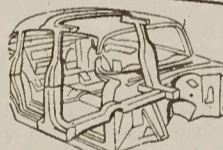

Extra safety — Chevrolet's new 13 Sealed-Beam Headlamps actually add 80' to your night-time seeing. Exclusive aiming lugs ensure full benefits.

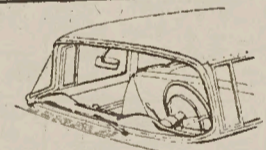

A light touch of the toe commands Chevrolet's swing-type brake and clutch pedals. The floor is free and clear for more comfortable footroom.

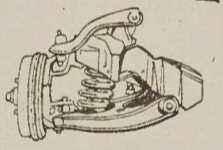

Luggage room to spare! Extra-low 1" trunk sill makes loading and unloading a cinch. Two trunk lights are set safely, strategically in bumper guards.

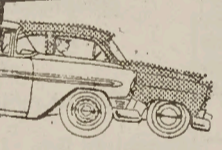

Body-by-Fisher strength and security — the famous all-steel, all-welded body, with extra-rigid centre framing. All components fused into a solid "Fortress of Steel"!

Panoramic view of the road through the magnificent sweep of Chevrolet's wide windshield! A wonderful view all round — driver can easily see all 4 fenders.

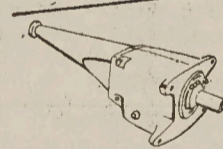

Roads seem new-paved with famed Glide-Ride Front Suspension. Spherical ball-joint design lets wheels "step" over rough spots — all you feel is the superbly smooth, steady ride!

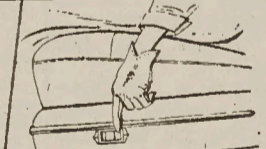

New freedom from passenger-pitching "nose-dive" stops! Anti-Dive Braking Control reduces braking dive up to 45% for safer, level-flight stopping.

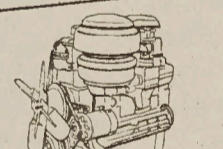

Stylish secret! Left-side taillight swings down to uncover the Hide-Away Gas Cap — no more paint damage from spilled gasoline.

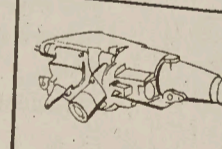

Gear-shifting is practically a pleasure with Chevrolet's quick, silk-smooth Synchro-Mesh transmission. Its miserly way with gasoline is one of its best-liked specialties!

The new 140 h.p. Blue-Flame "6" — liveliest in Chevrolet history! Ultra high compression ratio (8 to 1) means more efficient use of gasoline than ever before!

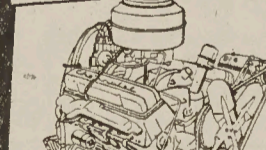

Big gas savings with Chevrolet Overdrive — the power helper that lets your engine loaf along while you really cover ground! Available with 6 or V8 engines.

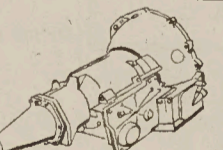

Powerful 12-volt electrical system packs twice the punch of old 6-volt systems. Quicker, surer starting whatever the weather — big electrical reserve for accessories.

Called-to-the-road stability with Chevrolet's outrigger rear suspension! Rear springs are longer, mounted wider apart outside the frame — rock-steady cornering, new security!

So sensational you've got to sample it — the record-smashing Turbo-Fire V8! Astonishingly quiet, instantly responsive, it's easily the most modern V8 of all!

A luxuriously smooth automatic drive with pep — that's Powerglide! Lightning-fast getaway, automatic downshift for added passing safety. Available with V8 or 6 engines.
