

Death Of Monsignor D.R. Macdonald At 89 Ends 65 Years' Service To His Church

Dean of Diocesan Clergy, Founder of Our Lady's Missionaries, Paid Impressive Last Tribute At Funeral, Tuesday

Rt. Rev. Monsignor D. R. Macdonald, D.P., dean of the diocesan clergy, was paid an impressive last tribute at his funeral held Tuesday morning in St. Finnan's Cathedral, here. More than a hundred clergymen were present at the pontifical Mass of Requiem sung by His Excellency Bishop Rosario Brodeur, D.D. Among them was His Excellency Bishop W. J. Smith, D.D., D.C.L., Pembroke.

Monsignor Macdonald's death came late Friday night at Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, where he had been in failing health for several weeks. He was in his 90th year.

His death brought to a close a life that was as actively lived in his years of retirement as when he was young in the ministry. At the age of 83 he had organized Our Lady's Missionaries, and he remained chaplain of the young Community and its guiding hand right up until his death. Alexander Hall, here, was erected through his efforts in 1896; St. Mary's Church at Chrysler was built, and the church at Finch completed, during his ministry there. During his 34-year ministry in Glen Nevis parish he established St. Margaret's Separate School and erected Maryvale Abbey High School.

From that school went 65 pupils to become teachers in the Sisters of Providence, three became priests and there was one Rhodes scholar among several brilliant careers which had their start at Maryvale.

Msgr. Macdonald's ranging mind was put to other uses, too. In 1897 he obtained a patent for a new election ballot having a double counterfoil with numbered attachment. This was adopted by the federal government in 1901 and subsequently by Saskatchewan, Ontario and Quebec. It is still in use today.

Undoubtedly one of Glengarry's outstanding sons, Msgr. Macdonald was not actually a native of this county though born just beyond its borders, at Mogenais, Que., in Ste Justine parish. A son of Hugh R. Macdonald and his wife, Catherine Ann Macdonald, he came to Alexandria at an early age when his father became proprietor of the Queen's hotel. His long, active life had been lived in Glengarry and he had a warm pride in its history and traditions. Through his mother, he was a nephew in the fourth degree of the Honourable and Right Reverend Alexander Macdonell, D.D., first Bishop of Upper Canada.

Educated in the Alexandria schools, Msgr. Macdonald then attended Ottawa College, where he was a brilliant student and excelled in football, also played lacrosse with the old Capital lacrosse team. Ordained to the priesthood in St. Finnan's Cathedral, July 10, 1892, by Rt. Rev. Alexander Macdonell, first bishop of Alexandria, he was destined to serve his Church for almost 65 years.

Curate at St. Finnan's for several years, he was appointed parish priest at Chrysler in 1898 and in 1906 began a ministry at Glen Nevis that was to last until his retirement 34 years later in 1940. He was honored by the Pope with a domestic prelate in 1923, and was invested with the purple in St. Margaret's Church, Glen Nevis, November 7, 1923, by the late Bishop Couturier.

Msgr. Macdonald was named resident priest at the Precious Blood Monastery, here, in 1940, but a life of semi-retirement was not for him. It was then he began nurturing his long cherished dream of founding a missionary Order for English-speaking Canadian women, a purpose brought to fruition with the founding in 1949 of Our Lady's Missionaries.

His was a full life, one dedicated to a selfless service to his Church and his God.

The death of Monsignor Macdonald followed by only a few months the passing of a sister, Miss Agnes Macdonald, who had kept house for him for more than 50 years. She died June 25, 1956. He leaves one sister, Mrs. A. L. Bishop, who also resided with him.

The remains rested at the Bishop's House until Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when they were

Visiting Large U.S. Poultry Plants

W. J. Major and his son, Laurent of Major Rock Farm, North Lancaster, left Monday on a trip that will take them to several large poultry plants in the U.S., where they will study poultry management with a view to adopting improved methods to their own large hatchery.

They flew from Dorval to Cleveland from where they started a series of visits to plants at Sycamore, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Indiana. At the Indianapolis plant of Dekalb Agricultural Association, which houses a half-million birds, they will study the Dekalb achievements in pure line and strain crossing in poultry breeding.

Many Appeals On Lochiel Assessment

The Court of Revision on the 1957 assessment for Lochiel Township met last Thursday in the Township Hall, when 37 of 116 appeals received were heard. Favorable adjustments were made in some cases.

The court adjourned to meet again on January 23 at 10 a.m., when other appeals will be dealt with.

A Man Endowed With Many Talents

"A man of character, of action, of God, who was very intelligent and endowed with many talents", this was in part the eulogy paid the memory of Rt. Rev. Monsignor D. R. Macdonald, by His Excellency Bishop Brodeur, at the funeral, Tuesday.

We all have been so accustomed to see him come and go in his hurried step, recalled the Bishop, he has so often mastered serious illness, that it was difficult to credit the news that Monsignor Macdonald had died. It is a very sad fact, because his death is a great loss for all.

He was very intelligent. Before even his ordination he had been asked to teach at the University of Ottawa. He has been entrusted with many responsible missions. He became an authority on school matters in Ontario. Monsignor Macdonald had a will of steel, no opposition ever frightened him, he was always to be counted on to express his convictions honestly and sincerely.

He was an idealist, never satisfied with the ordinary, but one who always kept his feet on the ground. His Excellency recalled among the late priest's achievements his establishment of Maryvale Abbey at Glen Nevis and, much later in life, his founding of Our Lady's Missionaries. He had a deep sense of the need for a congregation for the foreign missions that would be available to English-speaking women, and for the last seven years of his life, after 83, all his thoughts and actions were concentrated on this work.

Monsignor Macdonald was prompted by gratitude to those who came here from Europe to bring the word of God. Canadians, he felt, should in turn pass it on to others less fortunate in their lands. Before going, he had the pleasure of seeing a group of his "little Sisters" flying off to Japan.

The secret of Father Dan's immense activity, the Bishop declared, was that he lived an intense interior life. He was a man of prayer and meditation and that is what made him a really good priest of God. He had a high appreciation of the priesthood, his life was a lesson in humility and obedience to authority which he recognized as the will of God.

Alexandria, Glengarry, which he loved with all his soul, have lost Monsignor Macdonald, one of their typical characters. The diocese has lost a good priest. All who have come in contact with him have benefited by his example and owe a debt of gratitude to him. We owe him special prayers, concluded His Excellency.

Defence Industry For Charlottenburgh Township?

Charlottenburgh Township is soon to boast its first heavy industry, we learn through the grapevine, but officials appear to be sitting tight on the story and few details can be uncovered.

It will be a Defence industry, we understand, run by a new Crown Corporation, and it will be of a specialized type.

The location can only be guessed at. But it would appear to be right at the border of Charlottenburgh and Stormont, in the Gray's Creek area. A special Ontario Municipal Board hearing was held at Williamstown yesterday when the township building by-law was altered to permit a parcel of 10 acres of land to be changed from a residential zone to an industrial zone.

The land, which runs north along the river bank, is known as Farlinger's Point, and is just within the Charlottenburgh border.

Township officials are not talking, the EODA knows nothing, but we understand the announcement will be coming soon.

NEXT WARDEN? — ALLAN C. VALLANCE, reeve of Kenyon, whose appointment as chairman of the Finance Committee of Counties' Council this week, puts him in line for the Warden's chair in 1958.

Kenyon's Reeve In Line For Post Warden In '58

Charles McMillan, reeve of Chesterville Village for the past eight years, Tuesday was elected warden of the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry for 1957. He succeeds H. H. Ouderkerk, former reeve of Pinch.

Mr. McMillan's elevation to the wardenship followed the rotation system carried out by council for many years. Each year the office alternates among Reeves of municipalities in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The warden elect's nomination was proposed by Basil Dawley, reeve of Winchester township, and W. S. Fraser, reeve of Roxborough township.

Mr. McMillan, who operates a farm implement business in Chesterville, told councillors the counties face a unique year because of the loss of much of Cornwall township with its industries and population to the City of Cornwall.

"We find ourselves facing the administration of counties' business with some $20,000,000 less assessment than we had a year ago", said the warden elect.

"This is due to the annexation of the urban township by the city. Not only do we face loss of assessment and population but we also have before us the settlement of the assets and liabilities and the arranging and signing of a new agreement with the enlarged city on matters of mutual interest."

Warden McMillan also emphasized that 1957 would be important because of the many problems created by the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project. Loss of assessment, deterioration of roads, flooding of land and disruption of drainage were among the many problems arising from the river development which council must face.

Reeve Allan C. Vallance of Kenyon Township, will be warden in 1958 if the customary policy of Counties' Council holds true a year hence. He was appointed chairman of finance committee, the traditional stepping stone to the warden's chair.

Committee chairmen appointed included Albert Seguin, printing committee; George Lefebvre, resolutions and memorials; J. M. Fader, education; Kenzie MacGillivray, equalization of assessment; Donald Kyle, forestry; George E. Beavers, St. Lawrence Seaway; Orval Seelye, public welfare; Basil Dawley, agriculture; Joseph Filion, county property; W. S. Fraser, roads and bridges, and Allan C. Vallance, finance.

In charge of the opening ceremonies was the county clerk-treasurer, L. C. Kennedy.

Veteran Hotel Dieu Nun Dies

Rev. Sister Laura Abrams, a member of the Order of the Religious Hospitaliers of St. Joseph for close to 40 years, died Tuesday night at Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, after a brief illness.

Sister Abrams was in charge of the men's ward in St. Paul's Home, a branch of Macdonell Memorial Hospital, and had served in that capacity for many years.

Sister Abrams was born in Summerstown, 65 years ago last March and was a daughter of the late Albert Abrams and his wife, the former Delilah Jarvo.

She leaves to mourn her loss two brothers and three sisters. They are: Donald R. Abrams, Summers-town; Norman J. Abrams, Cornwall; Mrs. J. P. Broderick (Mary), Cornwall; Mrs. Clarence Ostler (Claire), Cornwall, and Mrs. R. Primeau (Martha), of Malone, N.Y.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 10 a.m. at Macdonell Memorial Hospital, where the body is resting. The body will be placed in St. Columban's vault to await burial in the Spring.

Business Slowed To A Minimum As Deep Freeze Settled Over Area

An iron cold gripped Glengarry this week, and the mercury dropped to the second lowest temperature recorded in Alexandria — a frigid 37 degrees below zero, which was registered during the night of January 14-15. It was just one degree above the coldest weather ever recorded in Alexandria, on December 29, 1933.

On that day 23 years ago, the temperature never climbed above 25 below zero. On January 15 here, it did not rise higher than 21 degrees below zero all day. These are figures from Clarence Ostrom, who takes his readings from a thermometer at his residence on Bishop street north.

There were scattered reports of temperatures as low as 42 degrees below, but the low of 37 appears to be the most reliable, and is substantiated by the reading of 36 degrees below taken at the PUC building here.

At Cornwall, the weather station on the Toll Gate Road officially recorded 46 degrees below zero at 4 a.m. on Tuesday. Surprisingly, the project area was not the coldest spot in the district, the low recorded there being 38.

Borden Plant At Maxville Lost To Flames Early Today

Loss May Reach $75,000 As Old Maxville Landmark Destroyed — Was Receiving Station For Milk

The Borden plant at Maxville was completely destroyed by fire early this morning with loss that may reach $75,000. The loss included some $5,000 worth of egg cartons which had arrived at the plant only yesterday. The summer's ice supply was also a casualty. It had just been stored in the ice house, which was contained in the large building.

Fire Chief Merton Casey and his volunteer brigade fought the fire in freezing sub-zero weather, but there was little that they could do but pour water onto the flames. When discovered at 1.30 a.m. the flames were already shooting through the roof and the building was doomed by the time the brigade reached the scene.

Blessedly Free Of Fire During Cold Snap

Alexandrians can consider themselves fortunate in that only one fire has called out local firemen in the current cold snap, and that last Friday morning at the home of Leonard Bergeron, Lochiel street, where the chimney caught fire and pipes became overheated. There was no damage reported.

Two Riverfront Cottages Razed In Recent Days

Fire has destroyed two winterized summer cottages along the riverfront within the past week, forcing the families occupying them to flee into the cold with nothing but the clothes they were wearing.

The latest of these fires occurred Sunday night about 9.30 in South Lancaster, where the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aldege Seguin was burned to the ground. Mr. Seguin's wife, his little daughter, Yvonne, as well as Mrs. Seguin's mother, Mrs. Mabel McDonald and youngest brother, Gerald, were at home when the blaze broke out. They escaped into 25-below zero weather, with no time to save any of their belongings. There was little neighbours could do as water outlets in the area were frozen solid by the sub-zero weather.

The family was taken in by one of the nearby restaurant-keepers for the time being. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

A seaway worker's family living in a winterized cabin near Summerstown, narrowly escaped death Thursday afternoon when fire destroyed the three-room building.

Mrs. Harry Smith was taking an afternoon nap in the family's rented dwelling, one of the Moonlight Cabins, owned by E. Morin, when she was awakened by the cries of her two-year-old boy, to find "the entire interior a mass of flames".

She grabbed both her children and dashed for the only exit in the small home seconds before flames engulfed the dwelling. It burned to the ground.

The family saved only the clothes they wore. The total loss was estimated at $5,000.

Mr. Smith was at work on the seaway when the blaze broke out. Its origin is unknown.

Mrs. Morin, wife of the owner of the cabins, said she tried repeatedly to get help from surrounding fire departments, but none was available. Cornwall fire officials explained they could not spare the equipment to travel that far.

IT'S OUR OPINION

Many Monuments To His Memory

The Diocese of Alexandria lost the dean of its clergy, a priest who had contributed much to his church throughout a long and active life, with the death last week-end of Right Reverend Monsignor D. R. Macdonald. His death writes finis to a spirit that seemed unquenchable, to a mind that was always ranging, to a frame that the years could not slow.

The parish church at Crysler was built by Father Dan; Maryvale Abbey, at Glen Nevis, will remain a reminder of his warm interest in education. The secrecy of your ballot in federal voting bespeaks the inventive mind of a man who was never satisfied with things as they are.

Accomplishments these were, with his priestly writings and preaching, that might have sufficed had not Monsignor Macdonald been a man with a mission. For years he had seen the need of a missionary Order for English-speaking Catholic women having a vocation. And in the years of retirement, at 82, he still possessed the drive and determination to establish Our Lady's Missionaries, an Order of nursing and teaching Sisters destined to labor in the foreign mission fields.

This was his crowning achievement, and his last years were among the most active of a full life as he directed the fledgling community through its formative years. Monsignor Macdonald lived to see the Order mature sufficiently to name its own Superior, and to send its first contingent of dedicated women winging to the mission fields of Japan.

Monsignor D. R. Macdonald's many fine qualities of heart and mind were respected by his fellow clergymen across Canada. His familiar figure will be missed throughout this Diocese of Alexandria, and particularly does his death leave a void at Immaculata House.

His memory will linger. He has left many enduring monuments to remind us how much one dedicated individual can accomplish.

There's Featherbedding In Ottawa

All's well that ends well, we're told. But in the case of the CPR strike there is the question, "Did it end well?" We have our doubts.

"PM's Arm Twisting Brings Agreement", we read in a headline report that the trains are readying to run again. And the tenor of the news story is that the Railway has had to give in, in the face of Prime Minister St. Laurent's determination not to provoke organized Labor on the eve of an election. The decision has been put off until after the June voting, and a government board of inquiry will meanwhile investigate the question of whether the number of firemen in diesel locomotive operations should be reduced.

What testimony is this government board going to dig up that can be any different from the reams of information produced before the conciliation board that already has found in favor of the CPR stand? What government board is likely to find against organized Labor after this same government has forced the CPR to bow to Labor's stand? And even should this board find that the Firemen's Union has no valid argument, the government has agreed that this opinion shall not be binding.

What more could the union ask? It has already won its strike, and as usual the government has put all its force behind the Labor argument, even after its own officials have found railway firemen featherbedding.

This strike was a total loss, we feel. The country as a whole has suffered. The CPR has taken it on the chin and been finally forced to knuckle under. The union of Firemen and Enginemen has been shown to be shot with members drawing down high salaries they are not earning, and to be headed by Labor leaders primarily interested in keeping up their membership receipts.

The government at Ottawa is also the loser. Public opinion across Canada was almost completely in favor of the CPR's stand. Yet Ottawa stalled until the opening of the session could possibly implicate all parties. It permitted the tie-up of railway service to take place before it threw its weight to the Labor vote. How irresponsible can government become before it is shown as purely opportunist?

Our government again loses in stature. But the politicians are counting on that short memory the voters so often have displayed. Come June, we the people will have forgotten there ever was a CPR strike in January. And after the election, what matter if the strike be resumed? The votes will have been counted, Labor's at least.

What price politics?

It's Dirty Stuff

Just about a year ago a campaign by a women's church group to clean the newsstands of Ontario of smutty literature met with such a concerted cry of censorship that the well-intentioned women were forced to call the whole thing off. There were ringing editorials in the Toronto dailies warning of the dangers inherent in any form of censorship. There were letters to the editor on the same theme, some of them displaying more than a bit of bigotry. The reaction was so intense that the drive to clear the smut from our newsstands had to be dropped.

We wonder if those writers of those editorials and letters to the editor have visited a magazine stand lately and cast an eye over the lurid trash that is being offered our teen-agers as reading matter. The paper-backed books are bad enough. No matter the subject matter, they must sport on their jackets some form of undraped femininity. But there may be some justification for these books. Despite their come-on covers, some of them at least tell a story.

That cannot be said for the cheap vest-pocket magazines that are flooding into Canada from below the border. The type that claron on their covers, "Over 85 photos", "Will Sex-cess spoil Eve Meyer", "Favorite Pin-ups", "Back-of-the-Barn Morals". Everything goes in foreign night clubs, "How sex taboos cause crime", "VD Cases: why half are teen-agers".

That's only a sprinkling of the printed words that invite their purchase. The pictures of buxom blondes that go with them, we would not dare reproduce in a family journal, even if we had the facilities. For 15 cents our teen-agers can get the cheap type of cheese-cake that a few decades ago was only to be found in "health" magazines that were kept carefully under the counter. Today they are flaunted openly for all to see and examine, whether or not they have the 15 cents to buy.

That word censorship rings a bell with us, too. We do not like to think of anyone having the power to curb our freedom of choice, whether it be in reading matter, in movies, or any other form. But if Queen's Park finds it necessary to cut what it considers dirt from our films, why is it not just as wary of the filth to be found on every magazine rack in the province?

And if Ottawa finds it possible to protect Canadian magazines from the competition of reputable U.S. publications by imposing a special tax, surely our law-makers in the Commons could enact legislation that would stop this cheap trash from flooding over the border. Is it not a consistent argument that more copies of MacLean's might be bought on the newsstands if there were fewer distractions for the eye from these girlie covers? If the Digest must be specially taxed because it is not a Canadian publication, surely there is room for a sterner reception of this much more indigestible stuff that comes off U.S. printing presses.

A way could be found by our legislators, either at Toronto or Ottawa, to dam this flood of trashy reading. Without using that fearful word censorship, they could tax it off the Canadian or provincial scene. But even a Davie Fulton or a provincial church group will not move the politicians to action until they are prodded by public opinion.

Shaping public opinion is usually a slow process. But in this case it could develop overnight. On your next visit to a newsstand, look over the 15-cent brand of slush that is being offered your offspring. But keep your gloves on. It's dirty stuff.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Was Misquoted
Glengarry News,
Alexandria, Ont.
Dear Mr. Editor:

I am writing pertaining to a comment in your paper of November 29, 1956 — "Too many hotels not interested in serving meals", which purports to be my comments at the EODA convention in Ottawa earlier in November, where we met as a panel to discuss ways and means of attracting the travelling public, and especially tourists. May I say that knowing me for at least forty years, you might have consulted me pertaining to this, which I understand you copied from another paper.

This report is a definite falsehood. I have not arrived at that fine stage of perfection in my own business where I would go out on a limb to teach the other fellow how to run his.

I am told that there was quite a disturbance and a great annoyance among the hotel men in the district. British justice maintains a man innocent until he is proven guilty and the least that any man interested could do would be talk with me about this report, but no one was man enough to do it. They sat on their fannies just as they did at the convention.

I have been a rather ardent follower of the Chamber of Commerce since 1947. It has cost me plenty in time, thought and money and I have no regrets because I consider the Chamber of Commerce one of the finest mediums we have for spreading understanding and goodwill.

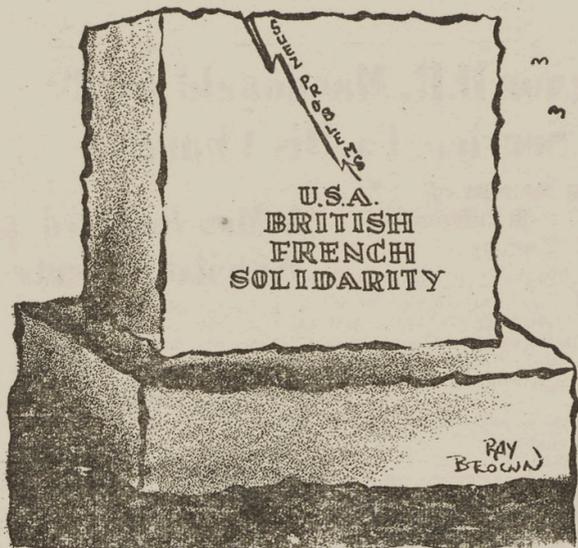

I have been slow to practise the wisdom of observing "That when an ass brays a gentleman does not bray back".

I am very thankful that this matter was brought to my attention at this late date and the results of it have compelled me to decide that for the future I will pick my company.

Now, Mr. Editor, I request that you will be as careful in printing this letter verbatim as you were in the copy of the other paper.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN D. MACRAE,
Maxville, Ont.

The First Crack

Profit Motive

(Reprinted from 'Industry')

Once upon a time there was a cow who thought. She thought her farm was making too much profit on her milk.

He provided her with a comfortable barn and stall, hay and grain, but she wanted more. So she held back her milk. The farmer, in desperation, threw in some more hay and oats, and the cow gave her milk again. No more milk—to pay for the extra feed—but just the same amount.

The cow liked her new sense of power, so pretty soon she went on strike again. Once more, the farmer increased her feed. So once again she gave her milk—but still in the same quantity as before.

Finally, the farmer found he was paying out more for feed for the cow than he got for the sale of her milk. The cow became hamburger, and the farmer quit farming and went into another business.

All of which goes to prove that there is, after all, such a thing as "eating your head off".

Language

(The Printed Word)

Two students from a Canadian college who made a motor tour of the United States last summer report that their blazers seemed to arouse some curiosity among the people they met. The blazers bear the college's Latin motto, TIMOR DEI PRINCIPIMUM SAPIENTIAE — "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

The curiosity was explained when an Oklahoma waitress asked them: "Where are you-all from?"

"Canada," they answered.

"Oh, I see," said the girl. "I've been wondering what language that was."

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

By ED.

WE KNOW WHERE'S ONE Where are the birds, the editor was asking last week? And though we enlisted the services of several bird watchers we didn't see a single one.

Not until Sunday, that is. Not until we were at Mass, Sunday morning, and what looked like a chimney swallow began exercising his wings way up near the Cathedral's ceiling.

So that's where the birds are wintering, we thought. And they could have chosen a lot worse places than a heated church, especially in this week of the deep freeze.

Why call them soap operas when they deter gents?

OUR HAT'S OFF TO IT Had a ride last week in one of those high-priced, low-slung cars. And we had to take our hat off to it.

Not that we were that impressed with its trim, its gadgets, or the power lying latent under its hood. We saw it as something we'd like to own some day, but we weren't exactly kowtowing to its Detroit designers.

It's just a matter of a six-footer, in winter made higher by a hat he has to wear, trying to struggle into that low-slung body by Fisher. We've always put our best foot forward, ducked away from it and inched the rest of us into the seat, often at the expense of our hat. But lately we've been hearing that the modus operandi best calculated to keep up with the lower wheelbase is to lower your head and lunge head foremost into the car. That way, they say, your hat will stay on your head even if you have to take it off as soon as you assume an upright position and your hair is brushing the roof trim.

We'll have to try it, using the head-first technique, if Wilfrid Memard will take us curling again.

It beats us how Lincoln, a six-footer himself, would ever design a car that he'd have to crawl into. Tain't fitting for a president of the U.S.A. to crawl.

It was so cold up in the 6th Kenyon, Tuesday morning, a guy was telling us the mercury had jumped out of his thermometer and was running about the house to keep warm.

WHAT A JOY!

Somebody called us up the other day for information. What is the name of the god or goddess of joy, she asked? And just like that this fount of knowledge dried right up. We couldn't tell her, but we knew where to come up with the answer, and soon we were back on the 'phone relaying the news that the name she was looking for was Euphrosyne.

What a name; almost as awful as Eugene. Why would anybody be looking for a name like Euphrosyne, unless they were doing a cross-word puzzle or one of those guessing games radio is channelling at the housewife day after day. Surely they wouldn't dare tag it on a child.

She hit us in one of our weaker spots. With us, mythology was almost a complete miss. And besides, our memory ain't what it used to be. Quiz us on the gods and goddesses that the Greeks and Romans used to try and emulate and we're practically caput on the $2.00 question. All we know of them are rather vague rumors that have trickled down through the centuries from Mount Olympus. And most of it is just plain gossip.

Aphrodite, for instance. We've heard she was apt to be flighty in her nightie.

Pomona was said to flaunt an open kimono.

Venus, we understand, had to be disarmed because of her penchant for throwing them around young gods.

Mercury, Ford relates, was so fast they were Lincoln him with Meteor. Pluto was nothing but a pup.

As for Vulean, he was apt to tire. That's just an indication of how ungody we can be when it comes to mythology. On some other subjects, we might score higher. Ask us why the grass grows green and we can tell you it's because the green grass grows. We have a lot of answers and we're only too happy to out with them when the 'phone rings and somebody says "Information, please".

But please don't ask us again concerning the goddess of joy. It's such an ugly name, we've forgotten it already.

Auld Lang Syne ... DO YOU REMEMBER?

Dr. D.M. Gamble Fills Post As Sec.-Manager Of Maxville Fair

Present Grandstand Will Be Dismantled To Make Way for New Arc-Shaped Structure Capable of Seating 3,000

Leslie Clark of Dunvegan, was re-elected 1957 president of the Kenyon Agricultural Society, at its annual meeting held in the Community Hall, Maxville, on Saturday afternoon last. Cecil MacRae, RR 1, Maxville, and Hugh Smith, Maxville, were elected 1st vice-president and 2nd vice-president, respectively.

A slight change in the organization saw Dr. D. M. Gamble of Maxville, named as secretary-manager of the society for the coming year. The post of secretary-manager was created to correlate the activities of the various departments of the fair board and to lighten the duties being imposed upon the society president. It was also decided to form a sheep and swine section of the 1957 show, and Angus Gray of Dunvegan, was chosen to head this new department.

The meeting heard encouraging reports of the various sections of the 1956 programme. During the past year receipts amounted to $13,113, and expenditures were $12,561. A vast improvement to the fair grounds including the creation of a new parking lot, the drilling of a new well and the addition of a new entrance preceded the annual Class "B" show held on June 21-23, 1956. The Kenyon Society were co-sponsors of the annual Glengarry

Highland Games on August 4 last, and this project proved very successful.

The meeting approved in principle the erection of a new 300-foot grandstand during the early summer of 1957. The apparent lack of proper seating accommodation at the 1956 Highland Games had sparked the creation of a six-man committee from the Maxville Chamber of Commerce and the Kenyon Society to deal with this pressing problem. The report of this committee, corroborated by statements from a building contractor, recommended the dismantling of the present forty-year-old structure in order that the proposed arc-shaped unit might be erected. The new grandstand, to be financed largely by grants from the Federal and Provincial governments, is expected to seat 3,000 persons.

The society is to be represented by two male and two lady delegates at the annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural Societies to be held in Toronto in February. Osie Villeneuve, MPP, Glengarry; W. A. MacEwen, reeve of Maxville; Allan Vallance, reeve of Kenyon Township, and Murdie MacLennan, secretary, St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, addressed the meeting briefly.

Dr. Gamble was presented with an Agricultural Service Diploma, for services rendered to the society. At the conclusion of the day's business the directors observed a minute's silence in memory of the late K. K. MacLeod, a former president, and the late E. S. Winter, a former secretary, both of whom had served the society very faithfully for many years.

The officers of Kenyon Agricultural Society for 1957 are as follows:

Honorary Presidents — Raymond Bruneau, MP; Osie F. Villeneuve, MPP; W. A. MacEwen, Allan Vallance, A. M. Fisher, Dr. D. M. Gamble.

Honorary Directors — J. D. MacRae, C. G. MacKillean, J. J. MacMaster,

Board of Directors—Hugh Fisher, Fraser Campbell, Harold Blaney, Wilfred MacEwen, C. L. MacGregor, Garnet Campbell, Dr. D. M. Gamble, Neil D. MacRae, Angus Gray, James G. MacCrimmon, Lionel Villeneuve, Willie K. MacLeod, Stanley Campbell, K. C. Franklin, James Campbell, Finley MacDonell.

Associate and Junior Directors — Malcolm Grant, C. L. Rowe, Donald Fraser, John D. MacLean, Donald A. MacLennan, D. D. MacKinnon, Ernest Cameron, C. Murray, Glendon MacDonell, Walter Blaney, Erwin Shields, Harold Manchester.

Comets Drop Game In Overtime

Alexandria's Comets couldn't stand prosperity Sunday at Brownsburg. With a nice fat 4-1 lead going into the last quarter they saw the home team tie it up at 4-4 in the closing minutes of play and go on to snatch a 5-4 victory in overtime.

The Comets are at home to the Ste Anne's team in the Gardens, Saturday night, and the Border League has the ice Sunday afternoon as Dalhousie and Lancaster meet. Maxville is here tonight playing Dalhousie.

Ladies Learn About Curling

The deep freeze has slowed down activity at the Curling Club this week, but moderating temperatures last night saw a start on President's prize games and a Challenge Cup series is set for tonight. The main club competitions will get going next Monday.

Cards and curling were on the agenda last Friday night, as the ladies got an introduction to the roarin' game. More than 50 curlers and their wives were present and the ice lanes were kept busy as everyone got an opportunity to try tossing the rocks. It is expected other such evenings will be held through the season.

There were many complimentary remarks on the clubhouse improvements.

Round-Robin Series At Badminton Club

It was something of a family affair when the Glengarry Badminton Club weeded out its best players in a round-robin tournament held Tuesday evening at the Armouries here. Winners of the mixed doubles were Lloyd Gagnier and Germaine Lalonde; of the ladies' doubles, Gergette Gagnier and Miss Lalonde, and of the men's doubles, Mr. Gagnier and Robert Lemieux.

About 20 players took part in the tournament.

Loks Look Good In Win String

Lochiel - Alexandria Loks hockey team is riding the crest of a wave of victories over the past couple of weeks, having met and defeated teams from Golden Hill, Vankleek Hill, Kilmear, Que., and Glen Robertson, and tied with a St. Bernard squad.

On Wednesday of last week, the Loks slapped a 12-3 defeat on the Kilmear club in a game at Vankleek Hill, and on the week-end, ran up more points. They defeated Vankleek Hill 6-2 on goals by Keith McDonald and Kent McSweyn (two each), Henry Dumouchelle and Rene Trottier (singles). The Hill point-getters were Mac McIntyre and Joe St. Denis, Jr.

On Sunday afternoon, St. Bernard shared a two-all tie, Kent McSweyn and Henry Dumouchelle getting the goals for Lochiel.

Tuesday night, the high-riding Loks were held to a 7-6 win by a hard-fighting Glen Robertson team. There were two goals each for the Loks' Rene Trottier and Keith McDonald, and singles for Aime Theoret, H. Robinson and H. McCormick, while the Glen's big man was Germain Pigeon with three goals. The other three singles were by Claude McDonald, Guy Lalonde and Rejean Cholette.

Lochiel Council Asked To Widen Several Roads

Lochiel Township Council held its inaugural meeting for 1957 Monday in the Township Hall, with the new reeve, Hugh McDonald, Glen Sandfield, presiding. Sworn in with him were the other members of council, Eugene Ranger, now deputy-reeve, and Councillors Roy MacMillan, Alfred Joannette and Campbell McDonald. The last-named is the only newcomer to council.

Arch. J. McDonald was re-appointed Township Clerk and Tax Collector, as were Arch. A. MacMillan, school attendance officer, and John D. MacMillan, weed inspector. Applications are being sought for the position of assessor.

Several delegations appeared before Council seeking widening of roads in various parts of the township. Their requests were favorably received. Council has been asked to name a director to the Glengarry Federation of Agriculture, and will do so at the next meeting.

All members of Council will act as the township committee for civil defence with Romeo Rouleau co-ordinator for both Alexandria and Lochiel.

Canada continues to top all other countries as telephone users, only the territories of Hawaii and Alaska averaging more calls per person a year. With 74% of the country's homes equipped with telephones, Canada averages 446 calls per person, and the popular demand for extension telephones promises to boost future records. Typical telephone enthusiasts are the Rex Heslops, of Georgetown, Ont., who moved recently from a modest two-telephone house into their dream-come-true-home, equipped with every ultra-modern convenience. Mrs. Heslop (lower left) operates her household smoothly with time-saving devices, one maid and eight step-saving telephones. Colored sets will soon replace the eight black extensions located throughout the Heslop home, including (top) Rex Jr.'s bedroom and the indoor swimming pool (lower right) where he takes his calls without needing to remove dripping "frogman" gear.

YOU SHOULD TEACH YOUR CHILD TO SKATE

After the age of four years, most children have the necessary muscle co-ordination and confidence to learn to skate. The most important thing, writes Yvonne Dailey, Montreal skating-teacher, in January Chatelaine, is to make sure the child is wearing skates that fit well. Never, never buy skates he or she will "grow into". Now, for the first lesson. If you yourself are not a skater, wear a pair of rubber-soled boots, preferably with a heavy tread. Stand on the right side of the child, and give support at the hand and elbow, then walk forward a few paces, turn and go back. This movement will give balance and confidence, and should be repeated for two or three lessons until the child is ready to try alone. Next comes the glide, which can be practised on the floor at home. Have the child stand straight with both feet together, bend both knees slightly and carefully glide his left foot along the floor. Bring the feet together again (by picking up the right foot) and glide the right foot along the floor, bring the feet together, and repeat. On the ice have your child try this exercise first without moving from the spot, next let him glide forward while you hold him, and then let him try alone. Keep lessons short, under thirty minutes for the first few, and don't force the child at any time. In six to eight lessons he should be skating and enjoying himself.

Is YOUR NAME In This Week's Paper?

Well, if not your name, probably the names of some of your friends and neighbors.

Not, of course, because they made the headlines. Fortunately very few of us do.

But simply because you and your friends and neighbors are contributing to the useful life and progress of this area, taking part in church and school activities, visiting the sick, doing the many things which make our community a better place in which to live.

A weekly newspaper is a newspaper about and for people like you . . . reflecting the community's life . . . attempting to assist in its leadership.

It wants to work with you . . . to tell about you . . . to serve you.

That is the job of a good weekly newspaper and, with your help, that is what we are trying to do, editor, reporter, rural correspondent, and advertising salesman working together.

Emerie Poirier Dies At 84

A well-known blacksmith in this area for many years, Emerie Poirier died Friday evening, January 11, at Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, where he had been a patient since the previous Monday. Mr. Poirier passed his 84th birthday last October.

Born in Ste Anne de Prescott, he was a son of the late Abraham Poirier and his wife, Annie Joannette. He came to Alexandria as a young man and was employed for a time at the Munro and McIntosh carriage works. He married the former Aldina Longtin of St. Isidore de Prescott, and they had one

TCA ORDERS "DOUBLE-BUBBLE" TURBO-PROP

Trans-Canada Air Lines took another step forward in its re-equipment program recently when it ordered 20 Vickers Vanguard propeller-turbine airliners and took an option on four more. The $67,100,000 order represents the largest single commercial dollar export purchase ever placed in postwar Britain. Built by the same company which produced the popular Viscount, the Vanguard will have a normal cruising speed of 420 miles per hour and will accommodate either 82 first class or 102 tourist passengers. The lower section of the Vanguard's "double-bubble" fuselage will provide space for some 10 tons of freight. The big planes will be powered by Rolls-Royce Type engines and will be delivered and in service towards the end of 1960. By the following year TCA's fleet will be all turbine-powered consisting of DC-8 jets for long-range routes, the Vanguard for medium-range routes and the Viscount for short-haul service.

Old medicines or drugs should not be kept indefinitely, because they may deteriorate or become highly concentrated.

TOURING VANKLEEK HILL

Written for The Glengarry News by T. J. HUGHES

I attended the Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association annual convention in Toronto last Tuesday. The convention was well attended by members of the Department of Agriculture for Canada and Ontario, members of the trade, factory owners, makers and other interested parties.

This association was formed in 1952 during the crisis of the cheese industry, and since that time has come a long way towards the betterment of the cheese operators. This was announced in the secretary's report mentioning the fact that the association had attained 80% membership of all Ontario cheese plants in 1956.

Bill MacCadam of the MacCadam Cheese Co. of Heuvelton, New York, one of the guest speakers of the morning session, gave an interesting talk on the mechanization steps now being taken in the U.S. on cheddar made from raw milk. One of the most interesting questions answered was one pertaining to starters from powders. He said great success had been conquered with a milk powdered starter made in the U.S. and guaranteed to the factories. This is the first time that any starter manufacturer had guaranteed their starters to the factories. As you know, we are still awaiting a proven powdered starter in Canada.

Mr. Lackner acted as chairman for the luncheon, at which the Hon. Jas. Allan was guest speaker. Mr. Allan spoke on the difficulties and the work that was now transpiring in the Department of Highways. Mr. Lackner presented three certificates to makers who had been in the business 25 years.

I learned that domestic sales on cheese were down between eight and 10% in 1956. Talking to the trade I learned that this was due to two things. The adverse publicity given the industry by the sediment report released this year and given wide publicity across the nation. The other reason was in the increase of the cheese price to the consumer. Both these reasons they felt were responsible for the decrease in sales and they are the ones who should know.

I gained a lot from the panel discussion, with Eardley Wright of Kraft Foods, acting as panel moderator. With such members as: Wood St. John, executive secretary of the National Dairy Council; Bill Millar, head buyer of all dairy products of Loblaw's Groceries; Don Goodwillie of the Federal Department of Agriculture; Everett Biggs, Dairy Commissioner for Ontario; Owen Irvine, head of the Kemptville Dairy School, and Gord Henry of Ingersoll Cheese Co., who acts on the cheese negotiating committee for the trade, it is easy to see why this panel was interesting in answering questions pertinent to the cheese industry.

One question that was discussed at length was the Dutch Clock method of selling cheese. Was it an improvement over the old method of selling over the local exchanges? Why was some 92 score cheese sold at a higher price than cheese of 93 and 94 score? On this question the trade could see no noticeable difference in this method over the old and that buyers were buying factories they knew, whether 92 or 94 score cheese. It was thought that possibly another year was needed to see if these wrinkles could be ironed out.

I could go on to no end with what took place, but I have mentioned a few of the highlights for your perusal, along with a few conclusions I have noted which you will find it worth taking to heart. Eardley Wright of Kraft Foods, was elected president for 1957, and John Fraser of Vankleek Hill, was asked to act as secretary-treasurer for another term. Both of these men would be glad to help you with your cheese problems and hope you get in touch with them.

My own personal observation from the Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association convention is as follows: (1) There will not be any drastic change up or down in cheese prices in 1957, although it looks as though there might be a slight increase; (2) A change in cheese box material will be made in 1957; more than likely we will see the use of a standard plywood box; (3) Sediment will be tied in with grade more than ever, but possibly no change will take place in 1957; (4) With no adverse publicity in 1957, cheddar cheese sales will soar in leaps and bounds; this is the outlook by the trade; (5) Quality will be stressed to no end. This is necessary if we are to increase sales and the whole industry agreed that all plants were becoming more quality conscious every year.

THE SECOND BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE

Ottawa. — The Second Book of Remembrance, now nearing completion, is scheduled for public showing in mid-summer 1957, it was announced recently by the Department of National Defence.

The Book records for posterity the names of Canadian service men and women who died between the start of the Second World War in September, 1939, and September 30, 1947, when the conflict officially ended.

The new Book of Remembrance contains 614 pages. Six hundred pages record the names of 44,910 Canadians who died and the remainder comprise title pages.

Names are written in alphabetical order by year of death, and appear in two columns with an average of 75 names to a page.

The entire work has been executed by expert designers with each page illuminated in rich colors. The pages are approximately 18 by 15 inches in size made of calf skin vellum.

The English title to the Book incorporates the following stanza by the well-known Canadian poet, Duncan Campbell Scott:

"Lay them with all that is most living
 "In light transparent,
 "In the ageless aisles of silence,
 "With the Immortals that saved the World."

The French-language title inscription has not yet been determined.

The Book will display some 300 coat-of-arms of places with which Canadian troops had association during the course of the Second World War.

Apart from the title pages, in English and French, there will be a "Page Without Names" dedicated to the memory of those who as a result of their war service have died since September 30, 1947. This page will also commemorate any Canadians who died while serving with the armed forces of other nations in the Commonwealth or with our Allies, and whose names are unavailable and unknown.

In addition there will be several commemorative openings referring to outstanding campaigns and battles in which Canadians took part. These will carry messages or inscriptions in both English and French applicable to the occasion. On the anniversary or day set aside for the remembrance of these historic events, the Book will be opened at the appropriate place.

Eventually the Second Book of Remembrance will be placed in the new National Memorial Shrine to be erected at Nepean Point Park in Ottawa, but until this is ready the Book will be kept in a suitable provisional repository in the Memorial Chamber in the Peace Tower at Ottawa.

It is planned that, like the first Book of Remembrance, a page will be turned each day so the entire volume may be completely covered within a twelve month period.

In connection with the turning of the pages a calendar will be published to show the day on which any opening will be on view. In this way by giving the year of death, the full name, rank and corps or unit of the deceased, it will be possible for anyone to learn exactly on what day a particular name may be seen in the Book of Remembrance.

It is proposed that reproduced copies of the Second Book of Remembrance will be provided for public reference in the legislative buildings of provincial capitals, together with a calendar for the turning of the pages. This will enable those wishing to visit the National Memorial Shrine to know when the name in which they are interested will appear and the date on which the Book will be opened at that place.

Died Eight Days Following Brother

Just eight days following the death of his brother, Donnie MacLeod, in New York City, December 31, Neil D. MacLeod of Wyandotte, Mich., formerly of Laggan, died January 8 in hospital at Trenton.

Mr. MacLeod suffered a heart attack on Christmas Day and was in hospital at Trenton, Mich., at the time of his brother's death and funeral. A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. K. MacLeod of Laggan, he was aged 53.

This MacLeod family has been particularly hard hit over the holidays. An uncle, Murdie MacLeod, 83, died at Minneapolis, Minn., of a heart attack January 3rd, the day of the funeral of Donnie MacLeod, here.

While in Alexandria attending that funeral, Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. MacLeod of Detroit, Mich., received word that her sister's husband, Frank Penny, had died suddenly of a heart attack at Detroit on January 2. He was 39.

PLAYING HOCKEY

Last Saturday, we played the toughest game yet. We played against the Glen Robertson team. In the first half of the game the score was 2 to 0 for Glen Robertson. In the second half we tied the score 2 to 2, then we broke the tie 3 to 2. We thought for sure we were going to win the game, within five minutes to play they made their last score of the game. That was the most thrilling game we ever played. — Bruce and Skippy (Bruce MacLaren, Skippy VanDyke, Alexander School).

GLEN SANDFIELD

The Misses Gisele Brunet and Paulette Cousineau visited friends in Montreal on the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Derochers, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Ouimet and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Seguin visited recently with their cousin, Mr. Ovilva Laroque, in Montreal.

LOCHIEL

Archie A. MacMillan spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. C. A. Wales, Montreal, and also visited his daughter, Priscilla, in Lachine. Mr. D. J. MacMillan has returned to Pembroke, after spending the last month with his brother, Archie A. MacMillan, and family.
